TWELVE KILLED

Frightful Wreck on the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Road at Hackensack Bridge This Morning.

Twelve Persons Were Instantly Killed and Twenty Injured in a Collision Between Two Trains.

Was a Near-End Collision, An Engine Being Run Into a Coach Full of Passengers.

Many on Board Were New York Business Men Who Reside in New Jersey Suburbs.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—A frightful accident occurred this morning on the west side of the Hackensack bridge on the Morris & Essex branch of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad. The train which leaves Roselle at 8 o'clock crashed into the rear of the Dover express, telescoping two cars. Twelve passengers in these two cars are known to be killed, and at least twenty are terribly injured. The conductor of the wrecked train is Jere George. He was not injured.

The Dover express passed through Roselle without stopping. The train which ran into the express is the regular commutation train. It pulled out of Roselle four minutes after the express had disappeared in the fog in the direction of New York. On approaching the bridge over the Hackensack river the express slowed up, for what reason is unknown, but it is thought the engineer could not see the signal because of the dense fog and that he slowed up his train to avoid danger.

The commutation train did not halt at the bridge, but came along at its usual rate of speed. The engineer saw the express when less than 200 feet from it. Although he reversed the engine he could not prevent a collision.

The ponderous locomotive crashed into the rear car, throwing it from the track for quite a distance. This car and the one ahead of it were completely wrecked. Both cars were full of passengers, who were crushed to death or terribly mangled. The engineer of the commutation train is missing, and is said to be among the killed.

A passenger on the wrecked Delaware, Lackawanna & Western train, states that he saw several dead bodies in the wreck. He says the train went through the wreckage just west of the Hackensack bridge. The train on which most of the casualties occurred was the express from Dover, due in New York, at 8 o'clock, which had slowed up at the bridge on account of the fog and was run into by the South Orange local.

J. M. Snydman, who was a passenger on the South Orange accommodation train on the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad, which crashed into the rear end of the Dover express just west of the Hackensack bridge this morning, says: "The Dover express left Dover at 7 o'clock, stopping at Summit to take on two passenger cars of the Passaic & Delaware railroad from Basking Ridge and Bernardsville. The South Orange accommodation left South Orange at 8 o'clock. Just west of the Hackensack bridge, the Dover express slowed up and at the time of the accident was going at the rate of not more than six miles an hour. The fog was quite heavy and the South Orange train, which was running on time at the rate of about twenty miles an hour, ran into the rear of the Dover express, telescoping the two rear cars from Basking Ridge and Bernardsville. The combination smoker and baggage car was entirely wrecked.

"There were probably fifteen persons killed and with one or two exceptions, were those who had been riding in the combination car. The scene of the accident was frightful. The dead and injured were piled up along the high embankment at the side of the railroad tracks. The forward cars of the Dover express were not wrecked, but the passengers were thrown from their seats and a number were bruised and otherwise injured. The engine of the South Orange train was No. 85, and was known as the 'W. H. Lewis.' It was also badly wrecked, although it did not leave the rails. David Hoffman, the engineer, was seriously injured and was carried to the hospital. His legs and head were cut, and he is supposed to be internally injured.

"His fireman, Irving Metz, when asked about the accident said that the first indication that he had of danger was when he saw the red lights in the rear car of the Dover express only about twenty-five feet ahead. Before the engineer had time to have the air brakes put on the collision occurred. The engineer was thrown from his seat and Metz was also injured about the head and body. Metz said that the fog was so heavy that they could not see the lights of the forward train until they were almost up to it. He said that no signals had been given by the Dover express, which was three minutes behind time. According to best reports no one was killed on the South Orange train. The brakeman on the rear car of the Dover express, it is understood, was getting ready to signal the rear train when he saw the headlight of the engine looming up through the fog and that he was too late. He rushed into the baggage car and into the passenger compartment of the combination car and was just giving the alarm of danger when the crash came.

Some of the injured were taken to the Young Men's Christian association rooms at the Hoboken. A passenger train ran into a cow. Sixteen persons were taken out of the wreck dead, nine others were badly wounded.

W. H. Brinkley, of Columbus, Tex., Was Shot Dead in a Notorious Resort in Cameron, Tex.

A. H. Jones, of Meridian, Miss., Was Mortally Wounded, Both Being Shot By D. H. Meyers.

Meyers, Who Belongs to One of the Oldest Families There, Surrendered to the Sheriff.

CAMERON, TEXAS, Jan. 15.—Yesterday morning about 8 o'clock a terrible tragedy occurred at the resort of Emma Carleton, known as the "Blue Goose," in which W. H. Brinkley of Columbus, Texas, lost his life and A. H. Jones of Meridian, Miss., was mortally wounded.

D. H. Meyers of this city, who is the senior member in the firm of D. H. & L. Meyers, is in jail charged with the shooting, he having surrendered himself to the sheriff soon after the shooting.

Jones, who is still living but expected to die, made a statement about as follows: Just prior to the shooting Emma Carleton and D. H. Meyers were in a room adjoining the sitting room where Brinkley and Jones were. Jones was trying to get Brinkley to go away from the house. Brinkley was put in a rocking chair and did not want to leave.

Emma Carleton and Meyers came into the sitting room and asked Brinkley to leave. Brinkley said he would go when he got ready. Then Meyers pulled his gun and began shooting. Brinkley was shot while sitting in the chair, once in the arm, once through the thigh, the latter shot cutting an artery from which he bled to death.

When the shooting began the light was put out and Jones says he crouched down by a trunk when Meyers struck a match and shot him in the abdomen. Jones states that he was unarmed and begged Meyers not to shoot him. Nothing was found on Brinkley except a pocket knife. Brinkley and Jones had been traveling photographers. Mr. Meyers belongs to one of the oldest families here, is about 26 years old and has always been a very quiet citizen.

CHANGES IN THE WILSON BILL.

Some Additions that Will be Offered by the Committee.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The majority members of the committee on ways and means, with the exception of Mr. Cockran, were in session several hours yesterday considering proposed additions to the Wilson bill to be offered by the committee.

A number of unimportant changes were agreed upon and two or three of relative importance. Among the changes agreed upon were one making two classes of cigarettes—tobacco and paper.

The rate upon the former was fixed at 75 cents per 1000, while the rate upon paper cigarettes was left at $1.50. The reason for this action as explained by one of the members was that the paper cigarettes are made by machinery, while tobacco cigarettes are produced largely, if not entirely, by hand.

RATES FOR THE CONVENTION.

Railroads Agree on Reduced Rates to Duluth in July.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—At the meeting of the Eastern and Western Passenger associations Saturday, an agreement was reached in regard to rates for the National Education association's convention in Duluth in July next.

Single tickets will be sold at the usual one way rates and after the convention delegates will be furnished tickets for the return trip on the payment of $2 for membership fee in the association. No round trip tickets will be sold in connection with the event.

The circuitous route roads withdrew their demand for the application of short line rates from Missouri river points through Chicago on the condition that the 30-day limit for the return trip be abolished. It remains to be seen whether or not the association will accept the curtailment of their privileges.

A DUEL TO THE DEATH.

A Philadelphia Fencing Master and Chevalier Pini to Meet.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 15.—A duel to the death with duelling swords is in a fair way to be answered between Fencing Master Frank J. Scannapieco, of this city, and Chevalier Pini, one of the Italian fencers who came to America last summer to take part in the fencing tournament at the World's fair.

The matter is now in the hands of seconds, and while some distance separates the two principals, Pini being in Havana, both are so much in earnest over the matter and have exchanged such grossly insulting remarks, that a fight is practically assured.

The difference between the two men was caused by the criticisms in Il Vesuvio of this city, of which journal Professor Scannapieco is the editor, of Pini's action in leaving the stage in a huff while fencing with Senac, the veteran French sword master in New York.

REDWOOD FALLS COAL MINE.

Another Vein of Very Superior Quality Discovered.

REDWOOD FALLS, Minn., Jan. 15.—Some of the Moon miners have visited a point on the north side of the Minnesota river, opposite Moon's mine, on which John McKinley, of Duluth, has an option, and several miles further east, where men have been working in search of coal. The results of their boring have been highly satisfactory.

They began on a bluff on the same plane with the Moon mine, and at the same depth from the surface as that mine they struck a lignite vein similar to that which Moon is working. Twenty-two feet further down they struck another vein of coal, which did not appear to be of much better quality than the first and thirty inches in thickness.

Thirty feet deeper still they struck a third vein of coal, which they describe as of very superior quality. At last accounts they were pleasing by slow process this vein, and had found in it, without reaching through it, between four and five feet of solid coal. A diamond drill is to be used very soon.

ACCORDING TO A THEATER.

Fortunately No Audience Was Present and a Horror Was Averted.

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 15.—There was an accident yesterday morning at 10:45 in the new People's theater. At the time the big 15-ton girder which spans the proscenium arch, which rests on supports in the walls on each side of the arch, fell, carrying with it the part of the roof attached to it, and crushing the front part of the stage as it fell.

The engineer of the building was near the arch, as it broke loose from the wall but the noise warned him in time and he had no trouble in escaping. Had the theater been occupied by an audience a bad catastrophe would have resulted.

THEY BECAME DEFIANT.

Political Letters Smuggled in With Food From Relatives.

PRAGUE, Jan. 15.—The seventy-seven members of the revolutionary society Omladina, who are now awaiting trial in this city, were depressed and penitent for some time after their arrest, but recently they became exceedingly defiant. Early in last week they began to vilify the guards and cheer for anarchy and Russia. A search revealed in their cells many political letters which had been smuggled in with food sent by relatives. One of the prisoners eventually divulged a plot, by which the members of the society had hoped to defeat the examination in court.

An account of a project to reorganize the Omladina was found by the police at the house of a young Czech agitator named Holzbach.

All of them, after having been presented to the emperor, were introduced to the Archduchess Marie Theresa who in the absence of the empress was the hostess. The archduchess subsequently invited the wives of the American and English representatives to the tea room.

GLASS BLOCK STORE,

A Run On the Bank.

Once we saw a wild-eyed, excited throng of ruined depositors besieging the closed doors of a suspended bank. What pitiable misery was there! What raving! What stony, dry-eyed despair! The bank crowd clamored for money they could never get. Our throng sought bargains which were theirs for the asking. ECONOMY IS WEALTH, and you can become wealthy if you will only deposit your savings with Duluth's Big Bargain Givers and receive in exchange two dollars' worth of merchandise for one dollar.

Saturday was a busy day at the Glass Block Store. Monday will be a busier one, because the people who received our bargains will advertise them. Furthermore, we have added several more grand offerings for next week.

WEST DULUTH ITEMS

Chief Jackson Has Made Some Changes in the Personnel of the Fire Department Here.

Michael O'Donnell From the Duluth Department Has Been Given Charge of This Station.

Judge Himebaugh is Not Agitated Over the Rumored Invalidity of the Municipal Court.

A change was made in the personnel of the fire department this morning. J. Shay and Gunder Anderson was transferred to Duluth and Michael O'Donnell and George Mahan given positions at the West Duluth station. O'Donnell, who has held the position of captain of hook and ladder truck at No. 1 house, was directed to take full charge of the department here, thus supplanting James Ryan, formerly chief. When asked what title he now wore, Ryan stated that he did not know as yet, as he had only received instructions to turn over his authority to O'Donnell. Mahan was formerly lieutenant at House No. 2 at Duluth.

West Duluth has several fine teams in the fire department and a report that they are to be taken to Duluth and old ones sent here is arousing some indignation.

The Law Covers It.

Notwithstanding the attempt of a Duluth attorney to depose Judge Himebaugh from his comfortable position on the municipal bench, in the morning paper, the wearer of the ermine was found in his office in a very composed frame of mind. When questioned in regard to the matter he turned to the statutes and bade the reporter read for himself what he considered was conclusive evidence of his powers and authority in the matter. The law referred to is entitled an act to amend an act relating to and in perpetuity in case of annexation to another municipal corporation.

THE PARTY HEARD FROM.

Rainy Lake City Surveying Party Now at Its Destination.

Word was received today from John H. Weiner and his party of surveyors and workmen who started for the new gold fields via Tower, about a week ago. A letter was brought to W. C. Sherwood by an explorer named Sullivan, who met the party a few miles from the mouth of Ash river. They had a hard time getting their teams and supplies through, but all were well and in good health, and are doubtless hard at work laying out the township by this time.

Rainy Lake city appears to be attracting a great deal more attention outside of Duluth than among those who are at hand to take advantage of the opportunity offered by the opening of the Rainy lake and river district. No less than three hotel men have made good square business-like propositions and, as soon as the sawmill gets to work and lumber is obtainable there will be a town built up in short order.

The Curlers Left Today.

Three curling rinks representing the Duluth Athletic club, went to St. Paul this afternoon to attend the annual banquet of the Northwestern Curling association. They were as follows: No. 1, Alex MacRae, E. S. Palmer, S. F. Fullerton, R. J. MacLeod; No. 2, Alex Wilson, James Smith, R. Smith, H. Wilson, skip; and No. 3, George Mackenzie's rink.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional medicine. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a running nose, or a sore throat, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out of this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be restored. Cheap Rates to California.

The Northern Pacific railroad has put into effect a series of low round trip rates to California points. Tickets are good until April 30, 1894, and are good for stop over under certain conditions. These rates will enable those desiring to do so, to spend the winter in Southern California or to visit the midwinter fair to be held at San Francisco. This latter event will undoubtedly be second only to the World's fair just closed and will repay a visit as it will exhibit the resources and capabilities of California.

WHEAT CLOSED UNCHANGED.

The Market Was Lower and Active Early and Closed Firm.

The wheat market opened early this morning at a lower level than Saturday's close for cash and for lower May. There was a first rate demand for cash wheat, and good trading, the fairly good sales being made of No. 1 northern to arrive, which advanced 1/2c. Trading in futures was slow and confined to May at declining prices up to noon. After the noon hour the market quiet but became firm, and May advanced 1/2c, despite the increase of $50,000 bush reported in the visible supply of corn. The increase in wheat stocks here was $30,000 bush and at Minneapolis $25,000 bush. The close was firm and the same all round as on Saturday. The Foreign Markets.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—The grain markets opened this morning steady. At Liverpool wheat was quiet, but steady. At London wheat was steady and in fair demand. At London cargoes of California wheat were unchanged; there is an increased demand from France; wheat on spec was firm and one or two cargoes of Argentine Lano foreign wheats were steady and English wheat was quiet. The foreign country markets were firm. Flour was 10 cents higher. At Berlin wheat was 1/2c higher. A bushel lower.

Gossip.

Received over private wire of W. P. Brown, grain and stock broker, room 107, Chamber of Commerce. Cables higher. Wheat visible increased nearly 200,000 bushels. Wheat a sale on every hand spot at present. Corn and oats both broke in sympathy with wheat, and provisions went higher. Think you a good purchase now. Stock very strong. Put, May wheat, 61 1/2c. Call, May wheat, 61 1/2c. Put, May corn, 27 1/2c. Call, May corn, 27 1/2c.

New York Stock Exchange.

New York, Jan. 15.—Money on call easy at 1 percent. Prime commercial paper, 4 1/2c to 5c. Sterling exchange is steady with actual bills at 48 1/2c to 49 1/2c. Demand for sixty days, at 50 1/2c to 51 1/2c, for demand, sixty days, at 51 1/2c to 52 1/2c, and demand at 53 1/2c to 54 1/2c. Government bonds were steady; state bonds dull; railroad bonds higher. Stocks continued quiet, but the undertone of the market is very strong. Reaction was in part due to the announcement that the reorganization plan for the Erie railroad had been forwarded to the New York bondholders committee. The stock and up to 1 1/2c and 1 1/2c, and preferences advanced 1/2c to 1 1/2c. Lacks was not affected by the terrible accident at the Hackensack river drawbridge this morning. In fact the stock advanced 2 to 1 1/2c. The changes in the general life were mostly fractional. In the specialties Evansville & Terre Haute rose 1/2c to 3/4c. At noon the market was firm.

WHAT PEOPLE SAY.

Capt. Pressnell Explains Eugene Hay's Reappointment By Eugene Hay.

"The appointment of District Attorney Hay by Judge Brewer of the supreme court, was necessitated by the fact that Mr. Hay's commission expired on Jan. 4, and as he does not hold over until his successor is appointed and qualified, it was necessary to reappoint him ad interim."

"A bad accident will happen here before long, if a temporary walk is not laid," said a board of trade man who dodged a delivery wagon on the front walk of the Duluth Trust company's new building.

"The latest question asked the unwary in order to get a laugh on them is as follows: 'Which would you rather do, would you rather ride in a cab and think how nice it would be to walk when you ride in a cab, or would you rather walk and think how nice it would be to ride in a cab when you walk?'"

"I only remember one winter like this in all my experience," said one of the "oldest inhabitants" today, "and that was in 1876-77. A tug, the old Siskiwit, left here on or about St. Patrick's day in 1877 for Port Arthur, and was not heard from for a few miles off that port. She had a crowd of Canadian Pacific contractors on board and the principal part of their provisions was whiskey and eggs."

THERE IS SOME FRICITION.

President Truelsen and Alderman Cox Disagreeing as to the Method of Employing.

Today about 200 men are employed by the city on work. Over fifty are at Cascade square and nearly that number at West Duluth, Fifteenth avenue west and Eighth avenue west. Those at Fifteenth avenue west will soon be transferred to the Superior street work, where all operations can be carried on to a fair financial advantage at least to the city.

There seems to be some friction between the committee appointed the other day and the board. President Truelsen maintains that so long as the board is held responsible it shall have the sole right to say who shall be set to work. He grants the committee power to recommend, however. Alderman Cox says that the idea of appointing that committee to remove the matter of employing idle men beyond the power of politics and politicians. He maintains that the committee should have full power.

PINK BLOSSOMS.

How They Were Showered Around the Nocturnal of Innocent Victims.

A body of cavalry sent out on a reconnaissance, to pass over the neutral ground between the two armies, to develop any recent earthworks thrown up, to locate the enemy's vedettes, to see if he is repairing the roads and bridges in his front, to observe everything which they have a possible bearing on the events of a week to come; more than that, to drive off horses and cattle, to load a score of wagons with provisions and forage, to add to the destitution and terror of helpless old men as they sit at their doors and of the women children as they work in the barren fields.

War is always sacrifice—never mercy. War demands that and wounds and destruction. He who can kill and wound and destroy most is the greatest hero. War respects nothing, venerates nothing, blackens the face of the sun, and taints the air with a venomous serpent winds through the grass. You follow the trails and look in vain for one single spot where mercy and pity stain the hand of destruction. Blackness, desolation, death and new-made graves are the milestones on the trails of war.

It is war, war, with the peach trees everywhere in blossom. Behind us were the smoke and flame of destruction; ahead, the old farmhouses which sheltered no one who could murder in the ranks and fight against us. The fragrant blossoms, the green hills, the sunny skies—everything told of peace, and you were at least as the human kind children came running to the doors. Just below a farmhouse we halted to water our thirsty horses at a brook flowing lazily across the level. A few men rode on to the house. We can hear children crying in affright. We can hear the voice of a woman raised in fearful protestation.

In one minute the scene is changed from a child in his arms at the door, and though his voice is too weak to reach us we can see his mother's face as she looks on from the window of the premises.

Some of us ride to the right to reach the barns, where the wagons are already drawn up, some to the left, where horses are at pasture; the remainder straight on up the road. Suddenly the bugles sound the alarm and then warn us to rally on the road. In one minute the scene is changed from dreamy peace to active war. A body of the enemy, having the same object in view as ourselves, has come up from the south and attacked us at sight. Many a saddle on our side is emptied before we check their fierce charge and push them back till we have room to form. Each side has a light battery. The guns get to work almost as soon as the carbines. The old farmhouses are the key of the battlefield. An old man and a mother and four children are in there, but what of it? This war. No one gives them a thought. Shot and shell plow through the ancient structure—but let us search out every nook and corner. Now our right wing drives the enemy back with a cheer—now we are in a close fight for 30 minutes—time enough for the dead and wounded to number 150. The reorganization of the guns being done, a shower of blossoms at every discharge, and the black powder smoke floats up through the branches and smotheres and discolors our faces and clothes.

"Rally on the center! Forward—to the gallows—charge!"

We have broken the enemy and sent him flying. We follow him for a mile or more, shooting and hacking, and then the pursuit slows the recall, and we cease the business of hot fighting on the dusty highway.

In the ditches, among the May weeds and the thistles, and dead horses almost block the way at certain points. Yes, a hot battle, and we are proud of our victory as we return to the old farmhouse. We have our dead to bury and our wounded to look after; but we have an officer's eye on the road to enter the house to say that it must be turned into a shambles that the inmates are remembered. The officer cries out and stands back in horror. Under the peach tree growing close to the back door—the body of the old gray-haired man—father and grandfather to the women and children—lies dead. He was shot in the head when struck by a solid shot which cut him almost in two at the hips. He was carrying a child not more than two years old, and he was holding the child in his arms. His little arms were around his neck, and her face was hidden in his bosom. We unclipped the old man's belt and took her up. She was dead—dead without a wound. She had died of terror as he sank down with her, perhaps kissing her in his last breath.

And as we stood with unmoved heads the women came out. Great heavens! but how white her face—how ghastly the color of her lips—how red the blood which dripped from her wounded shoulder on the pink blossoms at her feet! She looked at her father and gasped for breath. She looked at her youngest son, and her throat swelled up, and her eyes dilated until her look frightened us.

"Poor woman—poor woman!" some one sighed.

"Poor woman—poor woman!" she finally asked in a whisper.

"Poor woman!" replied the officer as we turned our heads away.

"Go in!" he cried, pointing to the open door; "go in and gaze upon the rest of your work!"

There they lay—the other three children—all killed and mangled by the same shell as it exploded in the kitchen. Flaxen hair and chubby limbs and little blue sunbonnets contrasted strangely with the red blood of war. We tiptoed out and stood beside the mother, who had prostrated herself on the bodies of those so dear to her. She could not weep and wail. She could only moan and crouch to them in the agony of her breaking heart.

The Senate and Treaties.

Mr. Cleveland appears to be the only president who has ever withdrawn from the senate treaties made and sent to that body for ratification or rejection by his predecessors. Other presidents have withdrawn treaties from the senate, but they have always been conventions sent in by themselves. President Cleveland during his former administration withdrew from the senate President Arthur's Nicaragua canal treaty, and in this administration President Harrison's Hawaiian annexation treaty. In neither case did the senate protest at this action or make any objection to such withdrawal. In 1839 the senate adopted a rule that "no paper sent to the senate by the president of the United States or any executive officer shall be returned or delivered from the office of the secretary without an order of the senate for that purpose." This rule has always been strictly enforced as was also the case on the two occasions referred to.

Treaties differ from all other measures
before the senate, different and distinct rules being made in consequence for their consideration and disposition. Bills and resolutions, everything in fact of a purely legislative character, which fail to be finally acted upon, die with the expiration of a congress (every two years), and to be considered again must be again introduced as new measures.
This is because the assent of the house
is necessary to the enactment of bills and joint resolutions into laws. Presidential nominations to office which require the "advice and consent" of the senate, and which have not been finally acted upon by the close of any session of the senate, are returned to the president
at the close of the session, and the rule is that they shall not be again considered unless they be again sent to the senate
by the president.

Treaties, so to say, go on forever. The senate is a continuous body and, as treaties do not require action by the house, these instruments may remain before the senate for an indefinite period,
unless finally acted upon either affirmatively or negatively, or withdrawn by the president. Whatever progress has been made on them, short of final action, is lost with the expiration of each congress,
the rule of the senate being that "they shall be resumed at the commencement of the next congress as if no proceedings had previously been had thereon."

Constitutional hangerslitters sometimes advance the opinion that once a treaty has been transmitted to the senate for its "advice and consent," the president's authority over that instrument is exhausted, and that consequently he has no power to withdraw it from the consideration of that body. Like all hair-splitting arguments, this one involves a possible absurdity. In the first place nothing would be gained by refusing to permit its withdrawal, because, even if the senate went ahead and gave its "advice and consent" to the treaty, it cannot become operative without further executive action, the exchange of ratifications
with the country with which the treaty was made and its proclamation in this country, the omission of which would nullify the convention.

The Iron Schedule.

One of the West Virginia senators—Representative Wilson comes from that state—says the coal and iron schedules
must be changed before Wilson's bill will receive senatorial approval. Perhaps this may mean a reduction in the duties upon coal and iron instead of letting them in entirely free of tax.

As the free iron ore provision is inserted in the bill for the announced benefit of the New England iron men, the following comment from the Boston Transcript, which supports the Wilson
bill, is interesting: "We have business men in Massachusetts who are perfectly willing to have their raw material free,
but object to allowing foreign competition in the articles they may manufacture. All such people are willing that the tariff should be fixed exclusively for their own benefit. As for the consumers of manufactured articles, domestic or imported, no matter about them."

men are the people who are clamoring
most loudly for free iron ore. They will be able, with free iron ore, they assert,
to compete with the world in iron manufacture, but at the same time they are making a strong fight to have their manufactures protected from foreign competition in this country. Mr. Wilson will probably find that the best policy is not to disturb the existing tariff on iron ore
and its products.

An Impossible Canal.

The Buffalo Express says there is very little left of the Erie ship canal craze in that part of the country, although a few Northwestern dreamers are still trying to make capital out of it. In a recent issue of the Northwestern Miller, a St. Paul writer gave some remarkable "facts and figures" in an attempt to enlarge upon what is known as the Sweet plan for turning the Erie canal into a 20-foot waterway,
and the Buffalo paper makes mince-
meat out of his calculations.

The St. Paul writer demolishes with a diagram the lift locks in the Jordan district and feeds the whole canal from Lake Erie—that is to say, he would do so
if such a small matter as the water supply were worth mentioning. He estimates the total cost, as others have done before him, at not over $150,000,000, but fails to observe that the new Manchester
canal has cost more than $2,000,000 a mile. There should be no thought of less than $5,000,000 a mile for the Erie
ship canal.

"The estimates of the ship canal
dreamers," says the Express, "never exceed one sixth of this amount. In one sense they are following the plan of the Manchester canal advocates. They make a ridiculously low estimate in the expectation that, if once begun, the work will be pushed through, no matter what the cost. They should be referred to the Panama canal scheme, for instance, wherein even such calculations failed disastrously."

"Free Raw Material" Fallacy.

One of the claims of the Democratic leaders in congress who want to put iron ore, coal, etc., on the free list is that if our manufacturers could get cheap raw materials they could compete with the world and sell in foreign markets in competition with manufacturers of all other countries. The cotton industry was recently cited by the Utica, N. Y., Observer as an illustration of the benefit of free raw materials. The Observer
said that we are able as a result to understand the English manufacturer in all parts of the world, and asked: "Why not give us other industries like this?
Why not the woolen industry?"

The Troy, N. Y., Times has shown the fallacy of the Utica paper's contention,
by publishing a table giving the value of exports of cotton goods annually from 1833 to 1892, inclusive. These figures show that while we have free raw cotton,
because we grow it ourselves, the value
of our exports is less than it was in 1833,
and that in only two years of the period
covered by the statistics have the exports of cotton goods exceeded in value those of 1833. Moreover, these figures show that of the $200,000,000 worth of cotton goods manufactured in the United States with no tax on the raw material, less than 7 per cent is sold abroad. Here is the statement:

1833.....$13,721,000 1885.....$13,013,150
1834.....11,835,511 1886.....12,500,277
1835.....11,836,591 1887.....12,500,277
1836.....12,500,277 1888.....12,500,277
1837.....12,500,277 1889.....12,500,277
1838.....12,500,277 1890.....12,500,277
1839.....12,500,277 1891.....12,500,277

The largest market in the world is found in this country. Is it not better for the American manufacturer to retain this market, without foreign competition, than to enter the smaller foreign markets, meeting foreign competition
both there and here?

While the railroads have agreed on rates to Duluth for the National Educational association, they are not as favorable as the association has received in the past, and therefore it cannot be considered settled that the convention will be held here. The probabilities, however, are that the executive committee of the association will accept the rates.

The Minneapolis Times claims that ex-Governor Gear, one of the leading candidates for the governorship of Iowa,
was formerly a resident of Minneapolis.
As he was but 14 years old at the time
and was taken there by his parents, this fact should not be put down to his discredit.

The Red Lake Falls Gazette has the following in its last issue: "To The Duluth Herald: What is your politics?"
The Herald is independent in politics,
condemning what it believes to be bad
in the policy of each political party and upholding that which it considers good.

By an error, an article referring to
Hon. F. E. Searle as a possible candidate for congress was published in Saturday's issue of The Herald without proper credit. It should have been credited to the Brainerd Journal.

Copies of holiday editions issued by the Moorhead News and the Grand Rapids Magnet have been received. They are highly creditable to the towns in which they are published and do them much good.

By the way, did you notice that the bank clearings of Duluth last week increased 14 per cent over the corresponding week of last year? Less than half a dozen cities in the country showed an increase.

When the directors of several Western Mesaba iron mining companies met the other day it was only natural that they elected Mr. Orr president of each corporation.

Doc Fish has decided to remove from Minnesota, and Ignatius Donnelly must hunt up another subject upon which to pour the vitals of his wrath.

Moody and Sankey are in Washington. With congress in session they have a splendid field for operations.

Donnelly's Locusts.
Chicago Iron-Ocean: The trouble with Mr. Donnelly is that he is not content to reform abuses through the law,
but insists upon its defiance. He always wants to "cut across lots." That is not practicable in a country where legal limitations are sharply defined. He runs up against a barbed-wire fence and gets the worst of it. The fence stands the shock of his tongue-lashing. Had he been in the place of Balaam and his ass
he would have done all the talking for both, and not even an angel of the Lord
would have abashed him.

The Major's Dilemma.
Superior Inland Ocean: Mr. Bal-win, congressman from the Duluth district, does not seem to know where he is
at. He wants to please everybody so that he can secure a second term. If he votes for or against free iron ore he is bound to lose support from his supporters.
Such are the straits in which a man finds himself who is elected on a free trade platform and expected to carry out protectionist principles.

WHEN DAVIS WAS A BABY.

The Senator's Father Shot Deer on the Way to the Grist Mill.

Washington Star: Among the most active observers of public affairs in Washington this winter is Major H. N.
Davis of St. Paul, father of Senator Davis. Maj. Davis was 81 years old the other day, and yet he walks from the senator's home at 1428 Massachusetts avenue every day to the capitol and back.

"My old friends," said the major to a Star reporter yesterday, "the real old ones who knew me 'bello' the wab," as they say across the Potomac, tell me I look precisely the same as I did thirty years ago. And, as far as I can tell, I feel just as well as ever. I can walk about as far, read without wearing glasses and spin yarn as long as anybody. I can look back on wonderful changes in our Western country. When my boy Cushman was a little fellow, in my pioneer days in Wisconsin—so small I had to hold him on the wagon or sled when I went to the mill, I have many a time taken my gun along and shot a deer either going or coming. Now that country is the most populous and prosperous farming country in the Northwest. And on beyond that is the great city of Chicago. The Badger state are eight states that were not in existence then and had hardly been traversed by white men.
What railroads, telegraph, telephone and electric lighting and travel have done for this age only the old folks who settled up the West can fully realize."

OUTLOOK FOR IRON ORE.

The Mesaba as a Factor in the Future of Iron Production.

During the last year there have been many statements published, professedly as explanations of extraordinary depression in the iron regions of the far Northwest, which have been peculiarly calculated to excite public interest in the new mines of the Mesaba range, says the New York Tribune. It was desired to encourage investments in such property, and to depress the prices of the old mines in Michigan and Wisconsin so that they could be bought for a song, these accounts have been well adapted to that end. But it was meant to give trustworthy information regarding the future of a great industry, perhaps the statements are less worthy of praise.

For instance, it is asserted that the Mesaba mines, which produced in 1892 only 124,000 tons of ore, will produce this year not less than 1,500,000 tons, and that this will put at once to production in the other mines of Wisconsin and Michigan. It is not worth while here to discuss the probability that this new region will so suddenly multiply its output more than a thousand-fold. Estimates of this sort are necessarily of the vaguest character, and so much depends upon the number of iron furnaces that may be in blast this year within the region drawing supplies from these mines that it is on the face of things mere guesswork to set down any definite figure as the output of the new range this year. But if it should turn out 1,500,000 tons of ore, why is it to be expected that all the other Northwestern mines will close, which sent to market in 1892 no less than 9,000,000 tons? If the manufacture is to be so prostrated throughout the year that less than half the quantity of iron required in 1892 will be produced, then what certainty is there that the new mines will find encouragement to take out as much as is estimated, in competition with the new mines in the South on the one hand and the mines in Cuba on the other?

It is stated that the Mesaba deposits can be mined readily with steam shovels, and loaded at a cost of 50 cents per ton, including royalty. But this is obviously an estimate based upon a single day's work, and that the best ever done in the new region, and it is little less than absurd to suppose that the costs of mining will remain the same when the cuts into the hills have been deepened and extended by removal of some million tons of ore. Much the same facilities were claimed at first, it will be remembered, for the remarkable deposits in Alabama and other Southern states, and afterward for the deposits in Cuba. It may be true that from these iron can be taken at a merely nominal cost, but returns thus far do not prove it, nor have all the Mesaba mines continued in operation through the past dull season. If it be true that the ore cost no more on board ship in Lake Superior than on board ship in Cuba, the shipments down the lake to Cleveland must cost about as much as shipments from Cuba to Delaware Bay, and the movement by rail from Cleveland to Pittsburgh must cost about as much as the movement from Baltimore to Pittsburgh. Meanwhile the Pittsburgh furnaces, using in part ores from abroad, are today underselling all the Western establishments which are supplied at least to some extent with the cheap Mesaba ores. Moreover, there are Southern furnaces close to large deposits which are also said to be working very cheap, and which according to market reports, are delivering iron in Chicago at a lower cost than it can be made from the ores of the Northwest. It is a question which can be answered only after much testing and competition, whether the works at Pittsburgh, Birmingham and along the seacoast, can produce iron as cheaply, and so can command the largest share of the business.

All this leaves out of sight the question whether the older mines of Michigan and Wisconsin can continue to compete at all. If they are to be closed, and the supply of 9,000,000 tons of ore which they delivered in 1892 is to be cut off, a revival of activity in iron production would be likely to create a strong demand for ore that the price would advance materially. But if the price advances what is to prevent the older mines from being worked at some profit, if indeed at a smaller profit per ton than the mines of the Mesaba range? No doubt the less favorably located and the leaner mines may suffer, and may perhaps be closed, but it does not appear quite so clear as it might that the Mesaba people will generally sell their ore at cost in order to shut out competitors when a higher price can be obtained.

It is a fortunate thing for the country that it has thus opened and made available within a few years supplies of iron ore large enough to keep more furnaces at work than were employed in the country a short time ago. In 1892 the imports were over 700,000 tons, the production from Southern mines was 1,514,557 tons, mines in the Eastern states produced about 1,700,000 tons and the lake region about 9,000,000 tons. If accounts are correct, the South, the Mesaba and the Cuban deposits alone can now furnish more than 7,000,000 tons a year at the very lowest cost. This is a long step towards industrial independence in this branch of manufacture, and it will be of the greatest value in the future, because the competition of new sources of cheap iron ore in this country will break up all the combinations formerly used to force iron makers to pay exorbitant royalties to owners.

CRITCHETT WAS SELECTED.

A Former Duluth Teacher Made a Superintendent.

The state superintendent has received notice that F. T. Critchett has been appointed superintendent of the New Ulm schools, and the school board is still looking for a principal for the high school.

The appointment of Mr. Critchett appears to be satisfactory to both parties, and the chances for his harmonizing the trouble so far as his office goes are very good, as he has in no way been identified with the light in that town. He was formerly principal of the high school at Mankato and later of the Duluth high school. For the last year he has been in Chicago with Maj. Crocker, who was agent for the Menage property in that city.

New System of Alarms.
A new system of fire alarms has been adopted by Chief Jackson as follows: First alarm, the number of the box repeated four times; second alarm, 2 taps of the bell followed by 11 taps and the number of the box 4 times; third alarm, 3 taps followed by 11 taps and the number of the box 4 times. The general alarm is six eleven, which will bring out all apparatus but will send a chemical back to Lakeside and West Duluth. Each house has a card indicating just what apparatus is to go out at each alarm.

The Polo Games.
The polo games on Thursday and Saturday night at the Glen Avon rink between the Duluth club and Henrietta club of St. Paul, will be great contests and the home team is confident of winning at least one of the games. The Henrietta hold the state championship and are hard players. The Duluth boys are not slow either and if their team work is good they will make a hard fight.

Large Flour Sheds.
The proposed flour sheds, so called, at the East End, if built, will be immense affairs, says the Superior Leader. The plans prepared by the Barnett & Reed company are for a steel structure 1000 feet in length and as wide as the dock will permit and have tracks and wharves on both sides. The estimated cost of the superstructure is $20,000. Such a warehouse, equipped with the proper hoists and trimming apparatus, would afford storage room for thirty vessel loads of flour.

The Most Pleasant Way.
Of preventing the grippe, colds, headaches, and fevers is to use the liquid laxative remedy Syrup of Figs, whenever the system needs a gentle, yet effective cleansing. To be benefited one must get the true remedy manufactured by the California Fig Syrup company only. For sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles.

DULUTH'S NEXT MAYOR.

The Patriots Who Are Willing to Become the City's Executive Fast Making An Appearance.

More Confusion on the Democratic Side. With J. M. Martin, C. O. Baldwin and Others Mentioned.

Many are the perspiring patriots who are willing and even anxious to have the vox populi call them for Duluth's next mayor. The goose bone, the bark on the trees, numerous aching corns, the left hind leg of a graveyard rabbit and all the other numerous signs and charms have been consulted. All unite in the indications that during 1894, the Zanich City will emerge from the chrysalis state and don the golden wings of a thoroughbred butterfly. The mayor of Duluth for the next two years, in decades to come, can boast that he was boss of the big leather chair at the city hall the year Duluth kicked off short dresses and commenced to be a full grown beauty.

Much gossip as to those in grooming has been written and much more will be within the next seven days. At present all is chaos, all is uncertainty. Wires are being yanked, trains laid and all the acts of veteran campaigners put forth with a view to capturing the prize. There are suspicions that a civil hunt is going on, and when a politician shies a stone into the political underbrush these days, he knows not what kind of an animal he will scare from cover.

It is admitted by the majority that three tickets will be in the field. If necessary to success, four tickets shall be spread out for the investigation of the voters. There is a state and county ticket to be elected next fall, and up their organization and prestige there are hundreds yelling. "The next mayor must be a Republican." It is reasonably certain, then, that the Republicans will have a straight ticket in this field. There are Populists who loudly cry for a straight Populist ticket, while others say, "We must keep the Democrats on the under side. We will help the Republicans if they put up the right man and promise us a few city hall appointments."

The Jeffersonian, Jacksonian Democrats also favor a straight, uncompromising ticket. Others, if necessary, rather than to see certain Republicans succeed, will nominate a liberal, "wide open" Republican and attempt to see that he is hoisted in. Some want to nominate a half-Democrat and half-Populist, swing in the labor vote and knock the radical Populist rocket sky high. Then, as said before, there are many who either do not know what they want, what to do or what to attempt to do.

Wang will be sung at the Temple to-night for the first time in Duluth and will receive the highest praise everywhere. Ed. F. Stevens is the comedian. The Minneapolis Times said of him last week: "Assuming that everybody else will compare him with de Wolf Hopper, let us be in the front of the procession with a company of his own."

Thomas Madden had his left hand badly cut last evening and may lose a finger. A man who was passing Atkinson's saloon, 23 West Superior street, slipped and fell against a plate glass window, breaking it. Mr. Madden was assisting Officer Smith in removing the pieces when he fell on his hand, cutting a laceration.

Have You Any Work?
Are there any families in Duluth who would like a man to do odd work around the house, such as taking care of the fires, carpenter work, etc., by the week or month? If so, the Associated Builders would be glad to supply their need. There are several men who have been ill, and are out of work, who would be greatly helped in this way. Please send word to 415 Woodbridge building.

The Outlook.
Eighteen hundred and ninety-three was somewhat of a panic year. Banks smashed everywhere—but there are a great many left, in sound condition. Many factories closed down—a large proportion of them started again after a few weeks or months' suspension. It was inevitable that there should be a crash. There had been great inflation and over-speculation. Now that the wind has been let out of these financial bladders conservative and safe institutions can do all the business that they need to do. No pestilence has decimated our enterprising and industrious millions; our immense material property has not been destroyed; our productive lands still yield their harvests—why should we be in a panic? We believe the outlook is hopeful, and wish you all a successful year adding that when travel is necessary to your projects, the Burlington is a line that goes everywhere. For tickets, maps, etc., apply to nearest railroad ticket agent, or to W. L. Egan, general passenger agent, St. Paul, Minn.

DULUTH'S NEXT MAYOR.

More Confusion on the Democratic Side. With J. M. Martin, C. O. Baldwin and Others Mentioned.

Many are the perspiring patriots who are willing and even anxious to have the vox populi call them for Duluth's next mayor. The goose bone, the bark on the trees, numerous aching corns, the left hind leg of a graveyard rabbit and all the other numerous signs and charms have been consulted. All unite in the indications that during 1894, the Zanich City will emerge from the chrysalis state and don the golden wings of a thoroughbred butterfly. The mayor of Duluth for the next two years, in decades to come, can boast that he was boss of the big leather chair at the city hall the year Duluth kicked off short dresses and commenced to be a full grown beauty.

Much gossip as to those in grooming has been written and much more will be within the next seven days. At present all is chaos, all is uncertainty. Wires are being yanked, trains laid and all the acts of veteran campaigners put forth with a view to capturing the prize. There are suspicions that a civil hunt is going on, and when a politician shies a stone into the political underbrush these days, he knows not what kind of an animal he will scare from cover.

It is admitted by the majority that three tickets will be in the field. If necessary to success, four tickets shall be spread out for the investigation of the voters. There is a state and county ticket to be elected next fall, and up their organization and prestige there are hundreds yelling. "The next mayor must be a Republican." It is reasonably certain, then, that the Republicans will have a straight ticket in this field. There are Populists who loudly cry for a straight Populist ticket, while others say, "We must keep the Democrats on the under side. We will help the Republicans if they put up the right man and promise us a few city hall appointments."

The Jeffersonian, Jacksonian Democrats also favor a straight, uncompromising ticket. Others, if necessary, rather than to see certain Republicans succeed, will nominate a liberal, "wide open" Republican and attempt to see that he is hoisted in. The insurance adjusters are at work upon Howard & Haynie's loss. The annual election of the Duluth board of trade will be held tomorrow. There does not appear to be any opposition to the ticket headed by George Spencer for president, which was published a few days ago.

The Freeman mill at West Superior started up again this morning, and heavy purchases of wheat for the Daisy mill tend to the belief that it will resume in a few days.

An informal meeting of Republicans was held on Saturday night at the headquarters of the Republican city committee to arrange for a systematic organization of Republican forces for the coming campaign.

In police court this morning George Anderson and John Larcher were up on a charge of disorderly conduct, and pleaded not guilty. William Mattson, charged with grand larceny by Lewis Carlson, was arraigned this afternoon. His examination was set for Jan. 17.

THE DISTRICT COURT.

This Term is Fast Closing—Another Divorce Granted Today.

This term of court is fast drawing to a close. The judges were through at 11 o'clock this morning. Before Judge Lewis the case of Andrew P. Wilson et al. vs. Lydia H. Roe, on trial Friday, was taken up and after hearing the testimony of one witness was adjourned to tomorrow afternoon.

Before Judge Moe, Margaret Perkins was given a judgment for divorce from Frank D. Perkins and the custody of the child. Judgment was entered for the plaintiff in William Plankington vs. George H. Bissell et al.

The county attorney entered a motion that the state be granted judgment for delinquent taxes, which was granted.

Tonight's Council Meeting. The regular council meeting occurs tonight. At noon the prospects were that the session will not be of any great length unless the aldermen take a notion to indulge in oratorical pyrotechnics.

The city bills will come up for allowance and petition from the municipal judges, clerks and attorneys asking that the council chamber be used for a municipal court room. The finance committee will today and tonight the offer of the Duluth Loan and Trust company to sell the water works bonds will be acted upon, or the new ordinance authorizing the issue of 5 per cent bonds instead of these 4 1/2 per cent bonds will be given its second reading.

Has Heard Nothing Yet. Superintendent Denfeld this morning could give nothing concerning the National Educational association convention and railroad rates except what has appeared in the press dispatches. He is awaiting a communication from Secretary Shepard, which, to his disappointment, failed to come in the morning mail. "What we want," said Mr. Denfeld, "is a line of railroad that is Duluth's own, then rates can be dictated. That cannot be done now, as this point has no trunk line of its own."

Swamp Land Decisions. Swamp land decisions from the general land office at Washington were received as follows at the local United States land office this morning: Leon Blais vs. State of Minnesota, involving the 1/2 of nw 1/4, the sw 1/4 of section 21, and the se 1/4 of ne 1/4 of section 20-55-10, claim of state rejected and homestead entry of contestant relieved by suspension.

Mrs. Horace Haws, of 416 Nineteenth and a half avenue west, died yesterday. The funeral will be held on Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. from the late residence.

NO SQUABBLING NOW.

Port Collectors of Duluth and Superior Combine Their Figures For Presentation at Washington.

Statement Includes Statistics of Milling Business and the Operations of the Board of Trade.

Duluth-Superior Harbor Appropriation Committee Will Use This in Their Campaign For Larger Appropriations.

Collectors Johnson, of Duluth, and Shields, of Superior, have just finished a joint compilation of the customs house statistics of the cities at the head of the lake for presentation to the authorities at Washington by the Duluth-Superior harbor improvement committee. The report comprises among other items the number of arrivals and departures at and from both the cities, the statistics of the milling business and a synopsis of the operations of both boards of trade.

One especially significant item is the number of tons of merchandise of all kinds moved at both ports, exclusive of Two Harbors, which amounts to the tremendous total of 5,655,974 tons. Two Harbors, a sub-port of Duluth, moved nearly 1,000,000 tons in addition to these figures.

Fifty-four vessels have been built at Superior and Duluth. At Duluth a gross tonnage of 9230 tons has been constructed and at Superior 48,953 tons has been built. During the same time at all other points upon the great lakes a tonnage of 523,833 tons has been constructed. By these figures it will be seen that nearly 10 per cent of all lake tonnage built, during the period that shipbuilding has been practiced here, has been built at the head of the lake.

The report is certified to by both of the collectors who declare it to be true and correct as far as it is possible for them to ascertain.

That this compilation will carry great weight Collector Johnson sees no reason to doubt. "It speaks volumes," he said, "to any man who will take the pains to compare it with the statistics of any of the lake ports. When taken in conjunction with the Sault Ste. Marie canal reports it makes a very strong showing also, as it demonstrates clearly the destination of the greater part of the enormous traffic passing through the locks at the Soo." The report also marks a new era in the history of the two cities at the head of fresh water navigation, for here we find Duluth and Superior amicably presenting their customs statistics officially collated, instead of squabbling over them and making faces at each other across a mass of doubtful figures compiled by interested parties for outside effect.

Populists Call a Convention. There was a meeting of Populists on Saturday evening at the hall at 17 East Superior street and it was decided to call a city convention to be held on Jan. 24. The caucuses will be held on Monday evening next, the same night that the Republicans hold theirs.

THE COURT FILINGS.

Legal Papers Docketed in the Office of Clerk Sinclair Today.

George Benz & Sons of St. Paul have brought suit against E. W. Howard to recover $892.45 for goods sold. F. W. Benz of St. Paul is plaintiff's attorney. Other papers filed today were as follows:

Findings of fact and conclusions of law in John Rustgard vs. Edna A. and Charles H. Arthur. Stipulation and order in case of S. S. Williamson and Charles B. Hayes in case of Duluth, Missabe and Northern Railway company vs. Frances O'Hara et al.

Demurrer of Mountain Iron company and Biwabik Mountain Iron company in case of Shipley & Co. vs. Alfred Merritt et al on grounds that no cause of action is alleged, that the court has no jurisdiction and that the several causes of action are not properly united.

Amended summons in Crane Ordway company vs. Kincade Fire Proofing company. Exception of the plaintiff to the order of the court denying application to amend the findings in W. Holmes vs. Lakeside Street Railway company.

Exception of the plaintiff to the order of the court denying the application of the plaintiff to require the defendant to elect upon which of the several defenses set forth in its answer it will rely, in the case of Westinghouse, Church, Kerr & Co. vs. Duluth Street Railway company.

Findings of fact and conclusions of law awarding Margaret Perkins a divorce from Frank D. Perkins together with the custody of the child. Answer of Alfred Merritt and Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway in case of Shipley & Co. vs. Alfred Merritt et al. Judgment was entered today against L. J. Merritt & Son, C. C. Merritt and A. L. Merritt for $8791.20 in favor of K. D. Chase.

THE CANTON STILL RUNNING.

All Mines on the Mesaba Not Closed Down.

The report has been published in several papers that the Biwabik mine, which closed down last week, was the last mine on the Mesaba to be operated. This is incorrect. The Canton at Biwabik is in operation, with 200 men employed, while the Norman at Virginia is being stripped, and similar work will soon be begun on the Iron King. It is expected that the Biwabik will start up again, and the Mountain Iron and several others will resume at an early date. The Mahoning Ore company, which is composed of Mahoning Valley furnace men, has fifty men on exploration work in township 57, range 21, and one pit is down fifty feet in fine blue ore.

It is said the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road is trying to make a traffic arrangement with the Omaha and Michigan Central roads for all rail ore hauled from the Mesaba range to Buffalo on a basis of 85 cents per ton from Duluth to Buffalo, as the Mesaba road expects to haul more ore this year than can be handled at its dock, and desires to send the surplus eastward by all-rail.

E. J. Longyear reports that he has proved up for his company a body of ore 3000 feet long by 600 feet wide, on sections 7 and 8, 57-21, about six miles west of Hibbing. The ore is of good quality, the greatest depth is eighty-nine feet and the surface averages forty feet.

Discussion as to the demand for Mesaba ore the coming season seems thus far to have disregarded the statistical features of the problem, says the Iron

Trade Review. Of the 4,444,041 tons of Bessemer iron produced in the country in 1892—the high tide year for Bessemer—about 75 per cent, or 3,333,000 tons, was produced in the districts using Lake Superior ores. This means a consumption of 5,500,000 tons of Lake Superior Bessemer. Supposing that the consumption of Bessemer ore from upper lake mines is 4,500,000 tons in 1894—a liberal estimate under prevailing conditions; and supposing further that every producer of Bessemer pig in the districts smelting lake ores bought Mesaba ore and used 33 1/3 per cent of Mesaba in his mixture—both of which suppositions are beyond the probabilities, we should then have a total of 1,500,000 tons of Mesaba bought in 1894.

THE COUGHLIN TRIAL

Ex-Mayor Creiger Does Not Know What Has Become of Some Shortland Notes and Transcript.

William J. Hynes Denies Having Flourished the Transcript at the Close of the Last Trial.

Henry Clanski Tells of a Conversation Held in New York With Martin Burke.

Jan. 16.—Ex-Mayor Creiger was called at the Coughlin trial this morning. He was called at the instance of defense to throw some light, if possible, upon the disappearance of the transcript notes and transcript taken during the defendant's examination at the city hall the day he was arrested. The witness admitted having received the documents from his private secretary but did not know what had become of them. He explained that they were probably destroyed during the transfer of his private papers from the mayor's office to his residence at the expiration of his term.

William J. Hynes, the noted lawyer and enemy of the inlamin "triangle," who assisted the state at the first trial, was called in the same connection, he having been present at the police examination of Coughlin. He did not recollect receiving a copy of the transcript or of flourishing such a document during his speech to the jury at the close of the trial. That ended the effort of the defense to get the much wanted evidence to court.

Henry Clanski, the chemical powder concern's salesman, who came from New York to tell about a conversation he had with Martin Burke May 5, 1893, and the latter's refusal to take off his shirt so as to be measured for a new one, was put through a sharp cross-examination in regard to his relations with the police and the inducements offered him to testify. His testimony was not weakened much.

ANARCHISTS WERE FOILED.

Had Plotted to Lool and Burn the City of Carrara.

(Copyright, 1894, by the United Press.)

ROSE, Jan. 16.—There is considerable excitement today at Carrara and vicinity. The discovery Saturday night of the anarchist plot to loot and burn the city of Carrara led the police and military authorities to take extraordinary precautions to prevent any attempt to carry out the plans of the conspirators.

Early today a number of anarchists from the adjoining districts sought to enter the city, but were prevented by the militia. A number of shots were exchanged by the rioters and the troops, but so far as known no one was killed. Finding that it was impossible for them to get into the city, where there is no doubt they intended to join the anarchist residents in the city in rioting, the mob scattered in different directions.

They are now scouring the country, carrying terror to the quiet people living there. They go to every house and demand of the occupants to surrender whatever firearms they may have.

DEMAND NOW SUPPLIED.

The Shipping of American Flour to the Bahamas.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Mr. McLain, the United States consul at Nassau, Bahamas, reports to the state department in response to its wheat and flour circular that the people of the Bahamas consume a fair quantity of American flour.

During the year ending Dec. 31, 1893, there were imported 2,893 barrels of American wheat flour, valued at $135,107, an increase over previous years, no wheat is imported from anywhere. Nearly all wheat flour is imported from the United States. The shipping facilities from the United States are good.

Mr. McLain says the only obstacle in the way of increasing the sale of American flour is that the present demand for flour is fully supplied, but whatever increase in the flour trade may be developed it will go to the United States.

A VERY QUEER MEASURE.

A Cincinnati Surgeon Wants to Abolish the Abrahamic Rite.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 16.—Dr. Rosenthal, a prominent surgeon of this city, has gone to Columbus to introduce a very queer measure in the legislature. It provides for the abolition of the Abrahamic rite, on the ground that the operation is cruel and unnecessary, and that it is a relic of barbarism not compatible with the civilization of today.

The doctor holds that no religion can promote such cruelty to infants and hope to be protected in it by the law. He proposes a severe penalty for the performance of the rite, the violator to be prosecuted under the section prohibiting cruelty to children.

Seven Were Killed.

SANTA ROSA, Cal., Jan. 16.—The following are the names of those who lost their lives on the narrow gauge railroad near Casadero last night: Engineer Briggs, Fireman Collinson, John Rich, Thomas Gould, Frank Hart, proprietor of the Casadero hotel, William Brahmer, Station Agent Sabine.

Robbed by a Footpad.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Jan. 16.—On Saturday night Francis Taylor, aged 35 years, of North Adams, Mass., was assaulted by a footpad who robbed him of $145. James Whelan was arrested today and was identified by Taylor as his assailant and was remanded for examination.

Sentenced to Death.

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—Judge Brennan this morning sentenced Thomas Higgins to be hanged March 23, for the murder of Peter McCooey.

ENDED IN A DIVORCE.

The Love Match of a Newspaper Man and An Earl's Daughter.

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—Her name was Lady Fairfax, and her father was an English earl. She was traveling with her governess in this country four years ago, and in the course of her travels she went to St. Paul. There she occupied beautiful apartments at the Hotel Ryan, and was quite the social sensation of the city.

He was a newspaper correspondent for the Pioneer Press and he had just come in from a trip to the ghost dances at the Pine Ridge agency. There were still eagle feathers in his hair and buckskin fringe on his trousers. His name was Robert J. Boylan.

Lady Fairfax saw the handsome stranger and she lost her heart. Within a week there was a grand wedding at the Hotel Ryan. Mr. Boylan was the groom and Lady Fairfax, title and all, was the bride. The servants at the Ryan still tell stories of the splendid "tips" they received from the fair hands of the earl's daughter.

But somehow the word of the young woman's marriage was flashed across the water to her lordly father. And instantly came back by wire the paternal reproval and warning. If Lady Fairfax wished to retain her boudoir in the ancestral castle she must take the next ocean steamer and return to the Thames. She went, under the protecting wing of the stern governess, to whom the wedding was as much of a surprise as to any one else.

That was four long years ago. When she reached England Lady Fairfax—for a titled lady always retains her title when she marries a commoner—was met at the dock and taken straightway into the presence of the earl. What occurred at that interview history does not relate, but it is certain that the young woman was sent across to Paris to stay locked up in a French convent until she forgot her attachment for her American lover.

So the months went by. Mr. Boylan came to Chicago and at long intervals a letter reached him with French postmark and a lion couchant above. Latin motto stamped in one corner of the dainty note paper. It seemed that both could be united in the English house of lords lost another member.

A year ago the letters stopped coming over the ocean, and, naturally, none were received. The Paris convent, it was said, the link which bound two hearts, separated by the wide Atlantic, was gradually growing weak. At last it broke.

In the speech opening the session, his majesty declared that the deficit in Prussian finances amounted to 25,000,000 marks. This was the deficit in the railway earnings and an increase in the material payments made by the kingdom. He added that an organic financial reform in the kingdom was necessary. The difficulties arising from agrarian distress must first be relieved. The present agricultural department was not pleasing, owing to the acrimony among those belonging to it. It was desirable to reconcile its workings with the welfare of the kingdom.

RUSSIAN DIET OPENED.

The Emperor Was Present and Spoke About the Financial Deficit.

BERLIN, Jan. 16.—The Prussian diet opened today by the emperor's presence. The ceremony took place in the white hall of the castle at 11:20 o'clock. It resembled that which marked the opening of the Reichstag, except that the days behind the throne was decorated with the royal purple flag instead of the green and gold imperial standard.

THE BONSPLEI AT ST. PAUL.

Hundreds of Curlers Are Compelling For the ST. PAUL, Jan. 16.—About one hundred curlers came in from the north yesterday, and the evening trains brought to St. Paul most of the Wisconsin curlers who are to participate in the bonspiel of the Northwestern Curling association, which began at 9 o'clock this morning and ends Saturday night.

The opening draws today will be for the elegant tankard of the St. Paul jobbers union, the value of which, with the four medals to individual players $500. The ice was discouragingly soft yesterday, but a moderate cold wave struck St. Paul during the night and the prospect is good for keen ice surfaces.

Later—The second annual bonspiel of the Northwestern Curling association, which was to have commenced at 9 o'clock this morning, will not begin until tonight owing to the soft condition of the ice produced by present warm weather, and unless a change occurs during the day another postponement will be necessary. The rinks are as follows:

Seven from Winnipeg; three from Wausau, Wis.; two from Wausau, Wis.; one from Duluth; one from Milwaukee; one from Chicago; one from Portage, Wis.; one from Superior, Wis.; two from Minneapolis; one from Cambria, Wis.; one from Lodi, Wis.; and two from Portage, Wis. St. Paul enters ten rinks. The Northwestern, International and Royal Caledonian associations are represented.

Pleased With the Fair.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—The report of the British consul at Chicago on the recent fair was issued today. In it the consul says that perhaps owing to the McKinley bill the British exhibits were limited in number but the quality was excellent. The report adds that other countries vied in their exhibits of what had heretofore been special British products. Foreign countries were generally satisfied with the exhibition, and believed that its effect would be to extend their commerce with the United States.

ON THE WILSON BILL

A Number of Amendments Were Offered by Mr. Wilson and Agreed to Without Objection.

The Free Wool Schedule is Not to Go Into Effect Until August First Next.

The Chair Rules That the Chairman of the Committee Shall Have Preference in Offering Amendments.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—There was but little routine business to be disposed of by the house today, and after the call of the committee for reports Mr. Springer rose to a question of personal privilege. He said that in his speech on the Wilson bill a few days ago remarks made by Mr. Dolliver were attributed to him and the papers west of Chicago reported him as opposed to the passage of the bill.

At 11:12 the house went into committee of the whole to consider the tariff bill, with Mr. Richardson in the chair. A number of amendments were offered by Mr. Wilson, chairman of the committee on ways and means, and they were agreed without objection.

An obstacle was encountered by the amendment proposed by Mr. Wilson to the milk schedule. The amendment proposed raises the tariff on condensed milk from 20 per cent to 25 per cent and valorem to a specific rate of 2 cents per pound.

An amendment was offered by Mr. Marvin to the amendment of Mr. Wilson changing the tariff on condensed milk from 2 cents to 3 cents per pound.

Mr. Payne offered a substitute to make the paragraph read milk, preserved or condensed, including the weight of packages, 3 cents per pound; sugar of milk, 2 cents per pound. Mr. Marvin's amendment was lost by a direct vote.

Mr. Burrows again started a warm debate on the right of the chair to recognize Mr. Wilson to offer all his amendments before the committee. It was allowed to offer any. After a prolonged discussion the speaker ruled, sustaining his decision rendered yesterday, which gives the chairman of the committee the preference in the introduction of amendments. Mr. Wilson offered an amendment postponing the date at which the free wool schedule should go into effect until Aug. 1, 1894.

Mr. Payne offered another amendment to make the date Oct. 1, 1893, and the house proceeded to discuss it.

A WHITECHAPEL HORROR.

Terrible Story Which Comes From a Remote Part of Kentucky.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 16.—Capt. Granran, chief of the Granran Detective bureau, of this city, has received word from a detective in his employ at Canville, Ky., giving a messenger details of a Whitechapel horror at that place. A woman of suspicious character named Mortimer had in her home a beautiful daughter of 17. It was admitted that the girl was pure.

A number of her mother's male visitors attempted her ruin, but the girl resisted them, though it was understood that her mother did nothing to protect her. January 2 the girl died. Her burial followed in a state and secret manner. A few days ago the better class of people had the remains exhumed, when it was found the girl's neck was broken, her ribs smashed in and her intestines exposed. Other indignities too disgusting to describe had been offered the body.

Mr. Hight and the girl's mother are under arrest and may have been lynched by this time. The remoteness of the place accounts for the delay of the news reaching here.

FIFTEEN OFFERS RECEIVED.

Secretary Carlisle Besieged by People Wanting Bonds.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Fifteen separate offers aggregating $400,000 to take bonds, should Secretary Carlisle issue them, have been received at the treasury department. One offer to take a block of $25,000,000 was received from a New York firm this morning. Another offer to take $175,000 was received from a mechanic.

No preparations, however, are being made at the treasury department for an immediate bond issue. Secretary Carlisle will wait a reasonable time for congress to act, probably until Feb. 1, before he proceeds independently of congress, on the presumption that, now that he has officially called the attention of congress to the urgent needs of the treasury, it will act promptly. Until congress shows that it will not relieve the treasury, the secretary will not feel called upon, on his own responsibility, to issue bonds under the resumption act.

The Books Declared.

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 16.—Expert Bookkeeper Conrad testified today in the trial of John R. Ketting, cashier of the South Side Savings bank. He said that Ketting and Gustav Trumpp, president of the bank, had taken about $110,000 from the bank's assets and that the books had been doctored to cover up the deficit, which was of long standing and gradual growth.

Perished in the Flames.

BARBOURSVILLE, Ky., Jan. 16.—The store and residence of Fred Houston were totally destroyed by fire early this morning at Mills, a small village, sixteen miles west of this place. Mr. Houston and his son managed to escape from the burning building, but Mrs. Houston and her two daughters perished in the flames. The loss is estimated at $25,000.

WANTS TO ISSUE BONDS.

Mr. Carlisle Appeals to Congress to Give the Needed Authority.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The senate committee on finance met this morning and after discussing for one hour the proposition of Mr. Carlisle, were unable to agree upon any definite result. At noon the committee adjourned until 2 o'clock when another meeting will be held.

Mr. Carlisle's proposition was contained in a letter to Chairman Voorhees, showing the present critical condition of the United States treasury and its urgent needs. He said: "The receipts and expenditures during the month show that the estimate of a deficiency of $38,000,000 at the close of the year was much too low. It will appear from the statement that the coin reserve has been reduced to $74,108,149, and it is evident that the condition of the treasury that the department will have no means to defray the ordinary expenses of the government unless a large part of the payments are hereafter made out of that fund. If this is done the coin reserve will be reduced by Feb. 1 to about $66,601,864, a sum wholly inadequate for the purposes for which it was created." He asks for authority to issue bonds to avert the danger.

PRETTY SURE TO HANG.

A Negro Who Murdered His Family Likely to Be Lynched.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 16.—John E. Johnson, a negro, murdered his entire family at Somerville, Morgan county, Sunday night, and tried to cover up the crime by burning the house. The wife and two children, aged respectively 5 and 3, were the victims.

Johnson first cut their throats and then saturated the room with oil and set fire to the house. Only charred portions of the bodies were found in the debris. Jealousy and another woman figured in the case.

Johnson is in jail and is pretty sure to be lynched, as excitement among the negroes is intense and they are gathering in large numbers to avenge the horrible crime.

HON. HENRY M. RICE DEAD.

One of the Builders of the State of Minnesota Passed Away.

ST. PAUL, Jan. 16.—A telegram was received from Antonio, Tex., last evening announcing the death of Hon. Henry M. Rice of this city, yesterday afternoon after a lingering illness at the age of 78 years. His wife and son-in-law, Capt. Thompson, were with him when he died, and his remains will be brought to this city for interment.

The news of the death of Mr. Rice had been received with universal regret. He was one of the builders of the state, and few men had a larger part in the history of Minnesota.

LEFT A TRAIL OF BLOOD.

Burglars Entered a Lake City Drug Store and Were Fired At.

LAKE CITY, Minn., Jan. 16.—Two burglars entered Bellevue's drug store in Stockholm, Wis., last night. Two young men who were sleeping in the store were awakened and confronted the intruders. The latter fired two shots at the occupants without doing any damage, and the revolver exercise was promptly reciprocated, when the burglars fled without any booty.

They left a trail of blood behind them for several blocks, where it ceased, the bleeding having probably been stopped by a bandage. No further trace of them has since been discovered.

THE SENATE WILL KILL IT.

Free Iron Ore Provision of the Wilson Bill to Be Beaten.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—[Special to The Herald.]—Senator Washburn said today that he was receiving and presenting a great mass of petitions from the mining regions of Minnesota and other states against the provision in the Wilson bill that iron ore be put on the free list. It is evident from Senator Washburn's opinion expressed today, that if this provision is not defeated in the house it will be when the bill comes to the senate.

The Colorado Legislature.

DENVER, Jan. 16.—Twelve more bills were introduced in the house this morning, making a total of forty now docketed. The speaker gave notice that more are to be filed as soon as possible. The special committee to inquire into the condition of the state treasury made a partial report today that they had discovered $122,000 available for the expenses of the session. The house then adjourned until this afternoon to await the printing of the bills. The senate will caucus on the situation this afternoon.

"Lord" Beresford Escaped.

ATLANTA, Jan. 16.—"Lord" Beresford, who was convicted in Rome, Ga., last year for forgery and sentenced to serve five years in the state penitentiary, escaped from the convict camp at Kramers last night. He boarded a train for Florida, and it is supposed has made his arrangements to sail from a Southern port to England.

Secured Four Thousand Dollars.

Nearing The End!

January was named after Janus, the two-faced Roman deity. One countenance looking backward into the year just passed and the other towards the good time coming.

We propose that neither of these faces shall longer look upon anything which partakes in any manner of fashion to winter stuff.

In disposing of these we will lose enough money without adding the words or the time.

New Fire Alarm Boxes Brought From Duluth This Morning and Will be Placed at Once.

Police Boxes are Nearly Ready for Use and a Team and Sled Ordered Purchased.

This Was the First Day of Registration, But Only a Few Voters Appeared and Registered.

The new fire alarm boxes were brought up from Duluth this morning and the workmen are busy making the necessary connections and placing the boxes in position. One of the Family. Too many of us are less courteous to our own than to the stranger who has no special claim upon our affections. Knowing how much will be forgiven, we grow lax in the little attentions that the outside world demands.

Mrs. Benson had been regretting her son's departure to the city, but still found comfort in the fact that he was to board with friends just like one of the family," she said for the fortieth time.

"I dunno that's much of an outlook," said the father in a dubious tone. "They used to tell their Aunt Hannah about round from morning till night an never give her a cent for it, an then they let Kiekil get all run down fore they let him come home to live."

"Why, Hiram?" exclaimed Mrs. Benson, "it ain't for us to judge 'em."

"I ain't judgin' 'em," he replied, "I was jest sayin that the old mother was sent to a home, an all the children set to work fore they was able, an I was only jest thinkin' 'p'p's it would be jest as well if they didn't make John one of the family, so to speak, but treat him more like a stranger. I guess he'd fare full 'er."—Youth's Companion.

A Little Hint. He (devoted, but bashful)—There's been an awful lot in the papers lately about political combines and rings and such things.

She (determined to help him out)—Yes, I've noticed. Do women ever get mixed up with 'em?

He—Certainly not. Why do you ask that?

She (with a "now will you tumble?" emphasis)—Because I feel as if I would like to get into a ring of some kind myself.

No presents.—Buffalo Courier.

Taking Him Up. A student had been bragging of his various accomplishments until one of the company, losing his patience, said, "Now, we have heard quite enough of what you can do—just tell us what you can't do, and I'll undertake to do it myself."

"Indeed, well, I can't pay my bill, and I am very glad to find that you can do it," replied the student.

Amaid the hilarity of the company the guest redeemed his rash promise.—Tit-Bits.

"straight" from the governor down to councilmen. It would greatly lessen the influence of the independent voter, and would promote the interests of politicians."

In Favor of Bimetallism.

While President Cleveland has declined to call another international conference on the silver question, the outlook not being propitious for any agreement being reached, it is not improbable that such a conference will be held within a few years at the latest. The sentiment for bimetallism has been gaining strength in England with great rapidity lately and many of the leading Tories are converts to the cause. Only a few days ago Lord Salisbury, speaking in the house of lords, suggested that the British government should try to discover "whether the other nations of Europe cannot agree with us from time to time on some stable relation between the value of gold and silver." Mr. Hal-four, Lord Salisbury's nephew, and probably the ablest man in his party, has spoken for bimetallism in a manner which could hardly have been more pronounced and positive if the speech had been made by Senator Jones, of Nevada.

A very high English authority, well informed respecting the condition of opinion in England, told the editor of the Philadelphia Manufacturer lately that if the Tories should again come into power
they would be likely to propose the holding of another international conference
for consideration of the silver question.

The Tories went out of power shortly before the late Brussels conference was held. Had they remained in office there is little reason to doubt that the influence of England at Brussels would have been cast for instead of against the remonetization of silver. It is, of course, not believed that England in any case
would consent to change her own system; but she could do much by remone-tizing silver in India, and by making India a party to some kind of a compact which would give silver its ancient position as a full money metal. The Tories are likely to be in power again within a few years, and then the conference will probably be held.

It is explained that the impulse which has driven many Englishmen over to the silver side is the swift movement of British agriculture toward destruction because of the joint influence of foreign competition and falling prices. The manufacturers, also, have largely become bimetallists because the rise of gold has disordered their trade with silver-using countries. Mr. Gladstone has tried to remedy this difficulty by partially destroying the Indian export trade, but his experiment seems likely to have no permanent success. A very large mercantile interest in England is also bimetallist, and every professional economist of any account in the British islands is upon the same side.

Henry M. Rice.

The decease of Henry M. Rice, which occurred in Texas yesterday, removed a man who has played a prominent part in the history of Minnesota. He was one of the builders of the state. Born in Watkinsville, Vt., in 1816, he emigrated to the territory of Michigan in 1835 and was employed in making surveys of Kalamazoo and Grand rivers, and on the survey of the Sault Ste. Marie canal in 1837. He removed to Fort Snelling, Iowa territory, in 1839 and was postsutter at Fort Atkinson in 1840-2, and subsequently an agent of a fur trading company, when he established trading posts from Lake Superior to the Red river of the North.

Mr. Rice became interested in land around what is now the city of Duluth,
and Rice's Point in this city was named after him. On Aug. 2, 1837, he served as United States commissioner at Fond du Lac in making a treaty with Ojibway Indians for the cession of the country south
of Crow Wing and Long Prairie rivers.
On Aug. 21 he obtained from the Pil-lager band of Ojibways the cession of a large tract between those two rivers, known as the Leaf River country. He assisted in making many other treaties.
Mr. Rice settled in St. Paul in 1849 and was elected a delegate from Minnesota territory to congress in 1853, and was re-elected in 1855. He was the author of the law extending the right of pre-emption over unsurveyed lands in the territory, and procured the passage of an act authorizing the framing of a state constitution preparatory to the admission of Minnesota into the Union. He was then elected to the United States senate, serving from May 11, 1858, to March 3, 1863. Senator Rice was a member of the committees on finance and military affairs and the special committee on the condition of the country in 1861, and was a delegate to the Philadelphia national union convention in 1866.

He was the founder of Bayfield, Wis., and Munising, Mich., and gave Rice park to the city of St. Paul. Of late years his services have been several times employed in negotiations with the Indians, who reposed great confidence in his integrity and good faith toward them. His death will be deeply regretted throughout the state, and more especially by the older residents who knew what great extent the state is indebted to him.

The Grand Rapids Review is pleased with the suggestion of Capt. W. H.
Smallwood as the Republican candidate for the mayor of Duluth. It thinks a better selection could not be made and that the captain would receive not only the Republican vote, but would draw heavily from the Democratic ranks. The captain, however, declines to enter the field.

Eugene Hay has been reappointed district attorney for Minnesota. This seems strange when so many Democrats are after the job, but probably Grover finds it hard to make a selection or Boss Dodge has not decided who shall have the office.

Mr. Hornblower's nomination as justice of the supreme court has been rejected
by the senate. Senators Hill and Murphy kicked at his appointment, because he opposed the New York machine, and "senatorial courtesy" did the rest.

By a vote of 14 to 18, the Colorado house repudiated Governor Waite's
Mexico-Colorado silver dollar scheme.
This shows that Colorado has some sense
left on the silver question.

How the administration must tremble
every time a steamer from Honolulu is reported in San Francisco bay. The dread of what may have happened must be intense.

"Senatorial courtesy" was dragged in the mite yesterday.

David B. Hill blows his horn today.

New York Society for the Poor.
Chicago Herald: New York has a new society for the amelioration of distress, called the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor in its Department of Food Supply. It also has one for the Distribution of Flowers to the Poor. It is expected another club will soon be organized for the Promotion and Distribution of Chafing Dishes.
Among the Deserving Destitute. It does not seem to have struck New Yorkers that a society for Providing Horse Sense to Persons who Can Help
the Poor but Don't Know How would be a mighty good thing.

The Secret of Old Age.
New York Herald: Mr. Jules Simon discovered the secret of old age, and formulated the recipe in two words—intellectual work. Nothing, he declares, helps so materially to conserve the physical strength as mental employment,
and in proof of this theory he points out that the French institute is a perfect congregation of hale and hearty octogenar-ians.

Asparagus Driving Out Smilax.
New York Sun: The asparagus, introduced some years ago as an ornamental foliage plant for winter decoration indoors, has become so popular as to drive out smilax to a considerable degree. It lacks the vivid green of the smilax, but has delicate lace-like,
feathery beauty of its own that commends it for some purposes.

Preferred Old Picnic.
Closely related to the asparagus
picnic is the one at Cleveland, Maj.
Baldwin describes campaigning as a picnic and general horsehock. This is a picnic, however, that our venerable president appeared to have no inclination to take part in.

Colonel Moonlight.
New York Sun: The Hon. Colonel
Tom Moonlight is still bathing. Washington in his splendor; and if he isn't appointed minister to Bolivia or consul
to Victoria or to something as good,
the mellow romance of Kansas is not appreciated, and the Philistines have the ball.

Help Is Needed.
Superior Telegram: If Superior can help Duluth secure the National Educational institution it should do so with might and main.

Mr. Riley's Duty.
Washington Post: If James Whitcomb
Riley will give some assurance that it is his duty to return to his native state,
much apprehension will be allayed.

Dying Away.
Chicago Record: The custom of shaking hands over an imaginary bary bar-fence is dying away. Who says the world is not improving?

A Chance for Parkhurst.
New York Commercial Advertiser: When Hagenbeck requires another tiger tamer he should at once open negotiations with Dr. Parkhurst.

What a Combination.
Washington Post: When Mr. Croker and Mr. Platt combine in the cause of reform there ought to be some lively results.

day for Honolulu.

A BEAUTIFUL DAWNING.

LIGHT SPRUNG FROM THE DARKNESS.

A Grand Awakening Which Shall Last Forever.

A Brighter Outlook Than the World Has Ever Before Known.

Changes are constantly taking place
which tend to make the world happier
and to cause a feeling of joy and con-tinentment to pervade our lives. One of the greatest blessings which has fallen to mankind and which is indeed the dawning of a new era of life, has just taken place in the well-known family of Mrs. Albert Blanchard, residing at 358
Webster avenue, Chicago, Ill. She writes
the following interesting letter:

"My health has been very poor for several years. I would have sinking spells and was so weak that I could not hold my hand up to my head. I would have to lie down on the sofa and was so very nervous that I could not sleep at nights.
"My stomach troubled me so all the time and my food distressed me so that I was afraid to eat. I had chills most of the time and sometimes chills and fever with trembling and shaking. I was also troubled with catarrh. "I was so dizzy at times that I nearly fell; I would grab at the chair, and dark spots appeared before my eyes. I could not begin to tell how I suffered. I was so sick I did not enjoy life and was told that I would not live long.

"I took many remedies and employed several physicians, but received no permanent benefit. I was induced to take
Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and after using six bottles I found it had done wonders for me. I now feel real strong and well and can walk a couple of miles.

"My stomach does not trouble me and I am not chilly. My catarrh has entirely disappeared. I am so well that I am assisting my husband in the office and helping mother when I go home. I hope any one who is not well will try Dr.
Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

"My little daughter, Helena, has also been using this remedy with great benefit. She was very delicate and nervous.
After taking this wonderful medicine for a short time she gained three pounds and is not near so nervous as she was. I do not feel afraid to recommend Dr.
Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, for I know what it has done for me and my little girl and I would advise any one who is suffering to take it."

WHAT PEOPLE SAY.

Ransom Metcalf Says There is No Distress at Biwabik.

Ransom Metcalf, the editor of the Mesaba Range of Biwabik, is in the city.

He said that at present there is no distress at Biwabik, as the December pay day is at hand and most of the men there worked in December and January.

C. M. Hill, the Merritt lumberman, has a lumber camp near Biwabik, which employs about seventy-five men, but that is all the work going on about there at present.

Merritt, Mr. Metcalf said, is almost entirely deserted, most of the houses there were not burned having been moved to Biwabik.

Chief Wakemup, the head chief of the Bois Fort Indians, is in town. An old acquaintance met him today, and congratulated him upon his recent conversion to Christianity.

Wakemup did not seem to be extra well pleased, and when pressed to give his experience he finally said: "We Wakemup this Indian hungry all tomorrow same day. Preacher he say wait and bimeby may be some time Christ he come. Me this Indian Wakemup wait, but hungry all the time and no body come, so I tell him that preacher I no more Christian."

From this it is evident that Chief Wakemup has "backslid."

"I do not yet despair," said Secretary Buchanan today, "of Duluth getting the convention of the National Educational association after all, as the Beauty and Chicago steamboat lines will give the extension of time asked and the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic and the Canadian Pacific road will also do so. I am of opinion that the other roads will see that it is expedient to yield this point and that we shall get the convention after all."

The "Wang" company were very much surprised when they were met by Henry Haskins, the humane officer, upon their arrival in town on Saturday. Henry flashed his star and asked for the manager.

That overworked individual appeared and Henry spoke thus:

"Sir, I hear that you have an elephant on your hands. I mean with your show, which I understand you subject to an explosion every night in your play. Now, sir, I warn you that we allow no cruelty to animals, not even to clay pigeons, in this town, and I warn you that if that poor elephant is hurt here I shall put the law in motion."

WILL GO RIGHT AHEAD

It Has Been Decided to Double Track the Missabe Road From Duluth to Iron Junction.

Completion of the Ore Docks at the West End Was Also Ordered at Yesterday's Meeting.

Issue of Second Mortgage Bonds to Cover the Large Expenditure Necessary Was Also Ordered.

The stockholders of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad held a special meeting yesterday at the company's offices in the Lyceum building and it was formally decided to double track the road from Duluth to Iron Junction, the work to be commenced at the earliest possible date. The completion of the ore docks at the West End was also ordered. This alone is a very important piece of work, as the dock will be taxed to its utmost capacity next summer.

The terminals of the company will receive their share of attention. The grading of the docks, which are located at the top of the hill about three miles from the dock junction will be continued. A round house and repair shops will also be built and probably a townsite will be laid out in the vicinity of the yards. If this is done a village is sure to spring up. It was also decided to increase the equipment of the road and to be ready to care for next summer's business in good shape and to build several spurs and sidetracks.

In order to meet the large expenditures made necessary by these great improvements, and also to take care of the floating indebtedness of the company, it was decided to issue second mortgage bonds to the amount of $3,500,000, the same to be deposited with the Central Trust company, of New York.

The importance of this move cannot be overestimated. With a double track and increased equipment, the Missabe road can, it is estimated, move four times as much ore as a single track road could. With the ore dock ready for business to its utmost capacity, there will be no scarcity of ore to load every ship that wants a cargo during the whole season of navigation, and with the spurs and extensions contemplated, there is no part of the Mesaba range that will not be tapped by the railroad. The work, as stated above, will be commenced as soon as practicable.

Death of J. F. Bishop, Sr.

J. F. Bishop, Sr., of Superior, one of the best known old settlers at the head of the lakes died yesterday in Superior. About four weeks ago he was taken with a gripe, and appeared to be recovering, and was contemplating walking out yesterday, before the heart trouble came upon him which caused his death. He was 83 years of age. He leaves a wife and four sons.

Confusion in Registration.

Today was the first day of registration. At most of the precincts the number of names taken in to 3 p. m. was large. There was more or less confusion at some of the registry places on account of voters wanting to get transfers to the new wards in which they now live. There are no transfers this time, but every one who wishes to vote must register anew as entirely new poll lists are being made in each ward and every ward in the city. The places of registration will be kept open until 9 o'clock tonight and on Tuesday, Jan. 23, from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., and on Tuesday, Jan. 30, from noon to 9 p. m. It should be remembered that every one must register this year or he cannot vote.

Cully Was Robbed.

The man who broke the window in Atkinson's saloon, 205 West Superior street, on Sunday night seems to have had an eventful time. His name is Mike Cully. According to the Superior Leader he claims to have put up $100 as security for the window. Soon after he was put in a hack and the driver told to take him to his home in this city. Cully does not remember clearly what then occurred, but claims the driver held him up on the way over for $400 and then dumped him on Connor's Point. He thought the man was an officer when he gave up the money and thought he was being taken to the station.

Cully came over to Duluth yesterday and made complaint at police headquarters. Whether he will recover his money or not remains to be determined in the dim future.

Damage Case Growing Out of the St. Louis Hotel Fire.

An answer was filed in the district court today by the Realty company of Maine in the case of Swan Polson, administrator of the estate of Helen Polson vs. the Realty company and Butchart & Michaud, and also a motion for judgment. The complaint in this case has never been filed, it has been served on the parties in interest.

Helen Polson is the woman reported to have been burned in the St. Louis hotel, but there are a good many different stories as to whether she was or not. No trace of her body was ever found in the ruins and two or three people are said to have seen her on the street during the fire.

The complaint was drawn up in August last and served. Five thousand dollars was asked for and the claim was set up that the building was not properly provided with fire escapes, hose and stand pipes and that the gas mains were in bad condition.

The Realty company's answer denies that Swan Polson is administrator of Helen Polson's estate, denies further that she was burned in the fire and alleges that she is still alive. The building is declared to have been fully equipped with fire escapes, standpipes, etc. The Realty company also denies its liability, alleging that, as the house was leased to Thomas Cully and Butchart & Michaud, it had passed from the control of the company. It also alleges that Butchart & Michaud made changes in the gas pipes without the knowledge of the company.

Messrs. Butchart & Michaud's attorneys have also prepared an answer. The liability of the firm is denied, as the building was protected as well as could be expected. It is also alleged that the girl is still alive and was never burned. Messrs. D'Auteourt & Thurman, their attorneys, think the case will never come to trial.

SEVERAL SHOTS FIRED.

Strike at Plate Glass Works That May Prove Serious.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 16.—The strike at the Charolai Plate Glass works has developed trouble that may result in violence and bloodshed. Yesterday a party of non-union men were taken to the works and assigned to the packing department. The strikers regarded this as the beginning of an arrangement to fill the works with non-union men and escorted a party of the new men to try to induce them not to help break the strike. There was a row in which several shots were fired but nobody was hit. The strikers insist that the non-union workers were the shooting.

The sheriff and three deputies arrived during the afternoon and eight arrests were made. This morning those arrested were released on bail in $300 each for trial at court. The indications are that trouble will follow.

Cheap Rates to California.

The Northern Pacific railroad has put into effect a series of low round trip rates to California points. Tickets are good until April 30, 1894, and are good for stop over under certain conditions. These rates will enable those desiring to do so, to spend the winter in Southern California or to visit the midwinter fair to be held at San Francisco. This latter event will undoubtedly be second only to the World's fair just closed and will repay a visit as it will exhibit the resources and capabilities of California.

St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth to San Francisco and return to Missouri river, $82.50, and to Los Angeles and return to Missouri river, $90.

RIOT IN KANSAS CITY.

An A. P. A. Lecturer, Claiming to be an Ex-Priest of the Catholic Church, Caused It.

In Opening His Lecture He Made a Bold Bid for a Riot, and it Came.

Serious Riot Narrowly Averted at Leavenworth-Kansas-Sims Escorted to the Depot at Washburn.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 17.—J. V. McNamara, who styles himself as ex-priest of the Catholic Church, and who last night with a loaded rifle in his hand, "I'm taking my life in my hand," as he said, "to take aim," at the hoodlums and blackguards of Rome come on, is not my own. It belongs to the A. P. A. I know there is a riot in Kansas City this night, but there will be other blood shed before mine. I fear neither Hogan or Father Dalton nor Father Lillis, nor any of the church's blackguards and hoodlums and ruffians but let them come, I am ready. Then he advanced to the footlights and dramatically declared that there was murder in the air.

"I want loyal men and brothers to stand by me," he shouted. "I want twenty-four volunteers, men who have Protestant hearts, stout arms, strong nerves and quick eyes. Stand up, those who are willing. A dozen men stood up. McNamara told them to go to the gallery, range themselves at equal distances and be ready for quick action. 'Forward, march,' he yelled and the twelve men went up to the gallery. The hall was crowded at the time, there being at least 1200 people packed into it. There was not the slightest disturbance by anyone when McNamara appeared and not a suggestion of trouble. His bold invitation for a riot was greeted before the night was quite half over. He lectured at the same hall Sunday night. He then frequently made the most pointed and severe statements about the Catholics and said things every minute that were calculated to arouse Catholics almost to riot.

A stone was thrown on the stage at the end of the lecture, where McNamara pulled a revolver and kept it displayed until he reached his carriage. There was only a small crowd at that lecture and the facts were not generally known until the next day. McNamara lectured at the hall yesterday afternoon to a large and noisy crowd.

News of the character of his lectures had spread, and last night the hall was packed. Outside there was a small crowd, which grew to a large one during the two and a half hour lecture. Only once was it heard from inside, that a big rock came sailing through a window with a great clatter of broken glass, and struck an auditor on the head, making a bad bruise. There was no disorder of consequence in the hall during the lecture. A drunken man once called out "liar." He was promptly arrested and hustled out. Twenty-one policemen were sent in to his carriage, and there, seated, he was not needed. McNamara's lecture was disgustingly filthy. Hardened ruffians say they never heard anything so obscene. There were many threats and busses often, but no outbreak. Turner hall, is at Twelfth and Oak streets, the former much traveled street. About 1100 gathered too men at the close of the lecture. When the audience was dismissed, it was quickly seen that a good percentage of those inside had been Catholics, determined to hear just what McNamara charged of their church. Another proportion was of A. P. A. men. They joined the mob outside until fully 3000 men were about the hall. It was a perfectly orderly crowd, marvelously quiet for one that was waiting a chance for an outbreak. The hall is on the second floor. The lights were turned out and McNamara and his wife were left alone in the darkness. For forty-five minutes the crowd waited quietly on the outside. Then the police became satisfied that there would be no outbreak, and a charge was called. It was compelled to wait for five minutes, and in this interval a goodly portion of the crowd lined up on Twelfth and Oak, uncertain which way McNamara would depart.

He came down the steps, rifle in one hand, revolver in the other. His wife followed with her arm across her breast, holding a big revolver. They quickly stepped into the carriage. As it started up Twelfth street, one of the doors flew open. A man ran up as if to shut it for them inside, but instead broke the glass with a cane he carried.

A moment later McNamara stuck his pistol out of the window and fired point blank at the people on the south side of the street. Then a yell of direful anger went up from the crowd. Cane, stones, bricks, anything upon which hands could be laid, were thrown at the rapidly moving carriage. A dozen shots were fired at it, the driver madly whipping up his horses in an attempt to escape. Every glass in the carriage was broken in a twinkling and its sides threatened to give way under the shower of stones. McNamara and his wife crouched in the bottom of the vehicle and did not even attempt to fire a second shot. Two blocks east a stone hit the driver, and at the same instant a bullet went through his clothing and grazed his left side. He slipped down on the footboard and lost control of his team completely. They ran two blocks further east on Twelfth and then turned north on Holm street. An attempt was made to follow by the crowd, but it was soon dispersed. The driver regained his seat after half a dozen blocks, and by a circuitous route took the couple to the Midland. The carriage was badly wrecked. McNamara and his wife refused to be seen by any one, but the driver says neither were seriously injured and were not hit by any of the twenty or more shots fired. The wildest excitement prevailed in that entire section of the city. No one knew positively where the couple was stopping, and one portion of the mob went out to Woodland avenue to the house of a man named McNamara, reported a relative of the ex-priest. They found that he had been stopping there and proceeded to stone the house, breaking many windows. Only an old man was at home, the others having gone to the lecture. He stood on the porch threatening to kill any man who entered the yard, with a loaded Winchester in his hand. He awed the crowd so the bombardment was kept up only from a distance. A large number of people were hurt by flying missiles on Twelfth street, but nearly all were splittled away by friends. Only three arrests were made.

A RIOT NARROWLY AVERTED.

An A. P. A. Organizer Drew a Revolver in a Kansas Meeting.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Jan. 17.—A serious riot was narrowly averted in this city yesterday at Grand Army hall where J. W. Hile, an A. P. A. editor and organizer, was addressing a meeting. He was speaking on the objects of the A. P. A. and bitterly denouncing the Catholic church, when he was interrupted many times and frequently branded a liar.

His audience seemed about equally divided between Catholics and Protestants, and in a short time the people were worked up to a high pitch. Those in sympathy with the speaker made an effort to put out a man who was interrupting the address, when blows followed. Cane and chairs were used, and two men were knocked down. Then Spencer drew a large revolver from his pocket and placed it on the table in front of him. It had a quieting effect. While the trouble was going on, people rushed from the building in a stampede and ran over one another on the way out.

SIMS SENT OUT OF TOWN.

A Squabble at Washburn and Several People Bruised. ASHLAND, Wis., Jan. 17.—Prominent representatives of the American Protective association, of Washburn, were here yesterday procuring legal talent for the prosecution of several city officials of Washburn for riot. William Sims, of Detroit, spoke there and was escorted to the depot the next morning with warnings never to return. It is reported that representatives of the antagonistic factions were badly bruised in a squabble. Sims will speak Thursday at Ashland.

THE BRAZILIAN REVOLUTION.

Many Italians Were Killed by Shells From Cobras Island.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—The Herald's Montevideo, Uruguay, special says: The Herald's correspondent in Rio Janeiro sets a record under date of Jan. 10, that shells from Cobras island were dropped in several parts of the city where thickly populated. Many Italians were killed. The Italian minister, in an interview with the minister of foreign affairs, called his attention to the fact that many of his countrymen had been killed and asked indemnity.

The government replied that, having published notice of danger, the request for indemnity could not be granted. Such such affairs would be settled when the revolution ended. It is now reported that President Peixoto's fleet will leave for Rio de Janeiro, and will remain close to Rio and will enter the bay. Admiral Mello has said he is confident the Aquidaban can defeat Peixoto's combined fleet.

THE NEXT STATE FAIR.

It Will be Held at Hamline on September 9 to 14.

ST. PAUL, Jan. 17.—The board of managers of the State Agricultural society met at the Merchants hotel yesterday and re-elected A. B. Moffat, treasurer, and W. F. Cross, secretary, for the ensuing year. In both cases the election was unanimous and the outlook is for a harmonious year, as there are no factions or other disturbances in the board. The date for the fair is decided upon yesterday is Sept. 9 to 14. President Stevens will announce the executive and other committees later.

A University Dispute.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 17.—The council of the university of Brussels, evening rejected the protests by the students against the action of the council in refusing to allow M. Jacques Elise Reclus, the well known geographer and anarchist to lecture at the university. M. Reclus was professor of comparative geography at the university, to which position he was appointed in September, 1892, but he has now resigned the chair in consequence of the council's action. He has, however, accepted an invitation to deliver in Brussels a series of extramural lectures.

Suits Against Brewers.

ASHLAND, Wis., Jan. 17.—All the big brewers of Milwaukee and Chicago who are doing business in Ashland, Pabst, Schlitz, Seipp, Val Blatz and F. Miller, will be made defendants in a suit to be prosecuted by Attorney Rossmann. It is claimed that the late liquor license law was framed in their behalf, and it will be tested. The cause for complaint is that they sell beer at their warehouses and also through some local dealers, all under the same license.

She Has Disappeared.

PARIS, Jan. 17.—The daughter of the condemned anarchist Auguste Vaillant, has disappeared. It is supposed that she has been kidnapped by some would-be guardian. There has been considerable discussion as to who should have the care of Vaillant's child after he has been executed. The duchess d'Uzes offered to educate her, but Vaillant expressed a preference that her bringing up be entrusted to a friend of his, a cabinet-maker named.

Newton P. Fassett Dead. ELMA, N. Y., Jan. 17.—Newton P. Fassett, father of ex-State Senator J. Sloat Fassett, died at his home in this city this morning, aged 71.

HEROIC MEN PERISH.

Chief Officer Myer and Five Men of the Dutch Steamer Amsterdam Drowned at Sea.

They Were Capsized While Going to the Aid of the Crew of a Sinking Schooner.

After a Heavy Snow Squall Set in and the Schooner Disappeared from View.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—The Dutch steamer Amsterdam, Capt. Stenger, from Rotterdam, Jan. 4, which arrived this morning, lost her chief officer, J. Myer, and five men by the capsizing of her port life boat, while proceeding to the assistance of the crew of the American fishing schooner Maggie Ewell, which was in a sinking condition.

The names of the heroic men who thus risked their lives and lost them are: Chief Officer J. Myer, aged 25 years; Second Boatswain E. Requa; Carpenter A. J. Oudin, Steamer Steward A. Ross, Quartermaster F. G. Eichhorn, Seaman A. Van Wecht, Seaman A. Vanderwilt was also on the boat, but being the master of the art of swimming, was saved. The captain's story is as follows: "Jan. 14, lat. 43.21, long. 58.18, at about 11 a. m. during a strong northwest breeze and moderate high sea, perceived a fishing schooner south of us showing the American flag under half mast. We made for the schooner and saw that the sea was washing constantly over her, and that only by hard pumping the ship was kept afloat. The crew of fourteen signalled us by gestures, that the vessel was in a sinking condition and that they were anxious to leave her, showing at the same time by throwing overboard pieces of their boats, that they had been wrecked.

"I called my crew on deck and told them the position in which the schooner was. Immediately the first officer and six of our crew offered themselves to man a boat and go to their rescue. At about 12 o'clock noon the boat No. 4 left our steamer and was all right until it was in the vicinity of the wreck, when a sudden snow squall capsized the boat, with the fatal result that three of the crew disappeared immediately and the remaining four succeeded in taking hold of the capsized boat. "I went at once to their assistance and succeeded in getting the boat afloat alongside, but it appeared that the remaining four men were thoroughly exhausted by the cold and the exertion, and that they were unable to hold on to the life saving apparatus, which was given to them, and were drowned, with the exception of one sailor, who by his extraordinary presence of mind, and calm behavior got hold of a rope and was taken on board. Another crew presented themselves to man a second boat, but owing to the increasing wind and sea I objected and concluded to wait for a better and a calm sea.

"We kept in the vicinity of the wreck until 6 o'clock when in a heavy snow squall we lost sight of her, and although we searched two hours we were unable to find any trace of the wreck, and proceeded. The wreck appeared to be the American schooner Maggie Ewell. I could not read the hull name. "The ill-fated vessel reported by the steamer Amsterdam, is undoubtedly the Maggie E. Wells, of the Gloucester fishing fleet. She is eighty-five tons register and was built in 1870 at Essex, Mass., and is owned at Gloucester, Mass.

CALLED ON THE PRESIDENT.

Maj. Baldwin Had a Talk About Sixth District Offices.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—[Special to The Herald].—Representative Baldwin had an interview with the president yesterday about appointments in the Sixth district. The president, it is presumed, intimated to Maj. Baldwin that all these matters would be referred to the heads of departments. Secretary Smith informed Maj. Baldwin that the appointment of Fred Ryan, as receiver of the land office, had been made out, but for some reason it had not been sent to the senate.

B. F. Carr, of Sauk County, and M. Pettigall, of St. Paul, were today, upon recommendation of Representative Baldwin, appointed examiners of Chippewa pine in Minnesota. Walter D. Stevens, of West Superior, and John McQuillan, of Merrill, Wis., were also appointed Chippewa pine examiners, together with two Southern men.

Maj. Baldwin, before presenting the bill providing for the sale of pine on the Red Lake reservation, has so amended it that the price at which it shall be sold will correspond with that named in the original act, namely, $5 per 1000 feet.

Veterans Are Angry.

YOUNGVILLE, Cal., Jan. 17.—The pensioners at the veterans home here are in a state of active mutiny against Commandant Dimpel and the directors of the home in consequence of the latter enforcing a regulation by which the home takes possession of the veterans' pensions. Severe encounters have taken place between the malcontents and the authorities, and the commandant's life has been threatened. Several arrests have been made, the hearings of which will take place today.

Will Ship by Water.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 16.—Spreckels Sugar company has signed a contract with the Rosenfeld line to ship about 10,000 tons of raw sugar hence to New York via Cape Horn during the ensuing year at a rate of $2.50 per ton. The ship J. D. Rice, which leaves in a few days, will take the first shipment, about 800 tons. It is stated that the high railroad rates have caused this new departure.

THE LAKE CARRIERS' ANNUAL.

Capt. Wolvin of Duluth Elected One of the Vice Presidents.

DETROIT, Jan. 17.—The second annual meeting of the Lake Carriers' association was called to order by President Wilson in the club room of the Hotel Cadillac this morning. Nearly 200 vessel owners were present. Secretary Keep read the annual report of the board of managers. The tonnage of the association at the time of the last annual reports was 579,919 tons. This had been increased in the past year to 606,205. The association now numbers among its members 612 vessels, of which 384 are steamers, and 228 are schooners or barges. The average tonnage of the vessels in the association is almost exactly 1000 net registered tons. The earnings of lake vessels during the season of 1893 have been so entirely unsatisfactory, and the present prospect for an improvement in 1894 is so unpromising that the discussion of methods to improve the earnings of vessel property, which has been going on quietly for the past three months, is what might have been expected under the circumstances. For several weeks past vessel owners have been discussing the feasibility of some agreement with one another, by which the active competition of 1893 in the carrying trade of the lakes could be brought within reasonable bounds in 1894. In closing the report protests against the early removal of buoys and stakes by the lighthouse authorities.

The report of the treasurer showed receipts of $26,500 and expenses of $26,743. The convention increased the membership of the board of managers from 48 to 65. The election of officers followed: James Corrigan, of Cleveland, was elected president without opposition; vice presidents—Peter M. Peck, Detroit; Washington Bullard, Buffalo; J. S. Dunham, Chicago; A. B. Wolvin, Duluth; C. A. Eddy, Bay City; George G. Hasley, Toledo; H. A. Wood, Cleveland; James McBrier, Erie; David Vance, Milwaukee, and F. J. Firsh, Philadelphia. Several committees were appointed to report on recommendations and the convention took a recess until this afternoon. The afternoon session will be occupied in discussing the reports of committees.

ARE IN A DUNGEON CELL.

Many Leading Anarchists Under Arrest in Spain.

MADRID, Jan. 17.—Villar Rubias, an anarchist has been arrested in the village of Garcia, a short distance north of Barcelona, on the charge of making bombs. The place where he manufactured the bombs was in a cave in the Valliderra mountains. The anarchists Cedina Sogas, Cereza, and Bernat are sharing the same dungeon. Confined appears to have no effect upon their spirits and they spend much of their time in singing and dancing. The Lyceum theatre, the scene of the same bomb explosion which killed thirty people, will be opened tomorrow for the first time since the explosion. A popular concert will be given.

A State of Siege Declared.

(Copyright 1894, by the United Press.)
ROME, Jan. 17.—A royal decree, dated yesterday, countersigned by all the ministers, has been issued, proclaiming a state of siege at Carrara and Massa di Carrara, the cities in which certain classes of workmen have been acting in a riotous manner for several days. Gen. Hulsch has been nominated to execute the decree. He has been invested with plenipotentiary power.

A Mayor Assaulted.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 17.—S. J. Cox, an ex-policeman, attempted to assassinate Mayor M. M. Stephens, of East St. Louis, at the race track on this city at 11 o'clock this morning. Cox made a number of vicious lunges at Mayor Stephens with a huge knife, but before he could inflict serious injury, he was overpowered by bystanders and locked up. The trouble is the result of an old political quarrel.

Chinese Registration.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 17.—The Chinese consul, vice consul, and representatives of the Six companies and the Chinese merchants exchange have notified the collector of internal revenue that a circular would be issued tomorrow, giving the Chinese instructions to comply with the McCrory registration law. The circular will be printed in the various Chinese dialects and will inform the Chinese that if they do not register the law will be enforced and they will be deported.

Suicide in Berlin.

BERLIN, Jan. 17.—Herr Etienne, formerly vice director of the Danube Steamship company, has committed suicide. The anti-Semites violently charged him with irregularities in 1892, but the company acquitted him. Two weeks ago, however, he was dismissed by the company. Herr Etienne, in 1892 sent seconds to Herr Lueger, an anti-Semite leader who had attacked him, but Herr Lueger refused to fight a duel with him.

Tried to Poison His Wife.

OAKLAND, Cal., Jan. 17.—Philip Boegert, a local capitalist, is now on trial for having attempted to poison his wife by putting rat poison in rice on three different occasions. ONLY FIVE INJURED.

What Was at First Reported to be a Terrible Railroad Horror is Not so Serious.

A Freight Train Ran Into a Sleeper on the Richmond & Danville and Wrecked It.

Ten Passengers Were on Board and Five Were Injured and None Are Fatally Hurt.

CHESTER, S. C., Jan. 17.—The limited train No. 35, from New York to Florida, on the Richmond & Danville, was run into by a Georgia, Carolina & Northern train at the crossing here at 10 o'clock this morning. Twenty-five people were either killed or injured. The sleeper was full of people and was struck in the center and crushed. Not a person escaped unhurt. The day coaches were turned upside down on the side of the track. They were nearly full of passengers, and few on board escaped some injury.

The passengers on the sleeper comprised chiefly prominent people of Washington and New York. Those in the day coaches were persons who, making a short trip, all had retired before midnight and when the crash came, few except the trainmen were awake. There was not a moment's warning, and almost in an instant the monotonous rumble of the train's wheels was succeeded by the cries of the stricken passengers. Those in the sleeper bore the brunt of disaster and to them all attention was immediately given.

The car presented a ghastly spectacle. Pressed against the broken fragments of the car were almost shapeless masses with life and identity crushed out almost simultaneously. Scattered about were others, in whom life still remained, but whose piteous cries were as hard to endure as their companions who were dead. For a minute the terror of the scene, exaggerated if that be possible by the darkness and the smell of steam from the engine, baffled the courage of the few who were able to rescue. They soon recovered their self-possession enough to turn to the practical work before them, and the work of rescue began. There was an awful plenty of material for stretchers, and the wounded who could be reached were quickly placed on the backs of the car seats and placed beside the wreck until they could be removed to a more suitable place. Others of the wounded were so hemmed in by the debris that it required considerable time to free them from their imprisonment. They, too, were finally got out and placed on the hastily improvised cots.

A physician was on board and fortunately he escaped serious injury and was able to do a world of good. By prompt attention he succeeded in restoring comparative comfort to one who seemed on the point of death, and most of the others he cared for sufficiently to render their subsequent removal safe. The excitement and confusion are so great that no names have yet been secured, as it has required the full time and attention of all who are able to move about to care for the injured.

Chester County House, which is the proper name of the place where the accident occurred, is the county seat of Chester county, S. C., and in 1890 had a population of 26,000. It is forty-five miles from Charlotte and an equal distance from Columbia, lying half way between these two cities.

FIRST REPORT INCORRECT.

Five Passengers Were Injured but None Were Killed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—At 10:30 this morning a telegram was received in this city by General Manager W. H. Green from General Superintendent McBoe, of the Richmond & Danville railroad, which shows that the accident near Chester, S. C., early this morning, was fortunately not so serious as was first reported. It appears there were only ten passengers.

MYSTERIES!

The Nervous System the Seat of Life and Mind. Recent Wonderful Discoveries.

No mystery has ever compared with that of human life. It has been the leading subject of professional research and study in all ages. But now this mystery is being solved.

The human body is a complex of life is located in the upper part of the spinal cord, in the base of the brain, and in the nerves. It is the nervous system that even the pick of a needle will cause instant death. Recent discoveries have demonstrated that all the organs of the body are under the control of the nervous centers, located in or near the base of the brain, and that when these centers are deranged the organs which they supply with nerve fluid are also deranged. When it is remembered that a serious injury to the spinal cord will cause paralysis of the body below the injured point, because the nerve force is prevented by the injury from reaching the paralyzed portion, it will be understood how the derangement of the nervous system will cause the derangement of the various organs which they supply with nerve force.

Two distinct classes of diseases are due to the imperfect action of the nerve centers at the base of the brain, and from a derangement of the organs which they supply with nerve fluid are also deranged. gers on the wrecked Pullman and only five of these were injured. F. H. Spears, of Pittsburg, received a scalp wound; J. H. Hoffman, New York, wrist burned; Mrs. M. E. McCarthy, Washington, D. C., elbow cut; G. D. McCarthy, Washington, received several bruises. J. T. Wilson, Pittsburg, back hurt; Pullman conductor Davis was bruised about the head and ear cut. No other persons were injured. Mr. Davaga, the company's surgeon, has charge of the injured persons and says that he does not consider any of them seriously hurt.

The accident occurred at 12:38 this morning. The Richmond & Danville fast mail No. 35 was crossing the Georgia, Carolina & Northern tracks and was run into by a freight train on the latter road, which struck the Pullman at the front trucks. The sleeper was overturned, with the results as stated. It is intimated that the freight at the time of the collision had become unmanageable.

DIED IN THE CATHEDRAL.

A Mason Falls Dead While the Sixteenth Degree is Being Worked.

DETROIT, Jan. 17.—The cathedral of the Michigan sovereign consistory, thirty-second degree Masons, was the scene of an incident last night not often seen in Masonic circles. While the degree of Prince of Jerusalem, sixteenth degree, was being worked William H. Boothroyd, for forty years a prominent book publisher and dealer here, started to cross the floor.

He had taken less than a dozen steps when he tottered and fell. Two doctors were by his side in ten seconds but he was dead of valvular rheumatism of the heart. The work was immediately called off and the silent watch of the dead began. Before the body was removed from the cathedral a solemn service for the dead was held.

Boothroyd was born in Poughkeepsie in 1837 and had been a high degree Mason for years. He leaves a widow.

LYNCHING IN MISSOURI.

A Mob Hanged a Man Who Assailed Two Women.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 17.—John Buchner, a negro, who yesterday criminally assaulted a young white girl and a middle-aged negro woman near Valley Park, Mo., fifteen miles west of this city, was lynched this morning.

Buchner was caught late last night and locked up in jail at Valley Park. At 5 o'clock this morning a mob broke open the jail and dragged the negro from his cell. They placed a rope around his neck and strung him up to a railroad bridge.

The body was still hanging within full view of all passengers on the Frisco railroad at 8 o'clock this morning.

TO SQUEEZE OUT THE WATER.

A Receiver Appointed For the Famous Eureka Ditch.

WICHITA, Kan., Jan. 17.—P. J. Bonebrake, of Topeka, was yesterday appointed receiver for the famous irrigation ditch extending from Ingalls, Gray county, to Kinsley, Edwards county, Kan., known as the "Eureka ditch," by Judge Williams, of the federal court. The receiver was appointed for the benefit of the English bondholders. The ditch, which is owned by the Eureka Ditch company, of New York, representing the English bondholders, is a water right of 100,000 acres in the state of New York, and is the originator of the enterprise, and the desire now is to squeeze some of the water out of the stock in the canal.

INSANE AITKEN MAN.

Rudolph Kertzius Picked Up by the Minneapolis Police.

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 17.—A middle-aged man named Rudolph Kertzius, who says he lives in Aitken, was picked up near the Union depot yesterday in a condition of mind which convinced the police that he was insane.

He stated to one of the officers that the town of Aitken was "all on fire" when he left there and that he came away because it got "too hot" for him. He was taken to the county jail.

ESCAPE OF A MURDERER.

He Cut a Bar in the Jail Window and Escaped.

WICHITA, Kan., Jan. 17.—Clyde Mattox, who was convicted of murder in the first degree in the United States court at 12 o'clock yesterday, broke jail at 7:30 last evening and is now at large.

He cut a bar in a window on the third floor of the jail, dropped to the ground below and that is all known of his escape. A posse is now after him but the indications are that he had friends on the outside who furnished him ample means of escape.

The crime for which he was convicted was the murder of John Mullen at Oklahoma city four years ago. The trial just closed was the third one.

REPORT ON THE FAIR.

President Palmer, of the World's Fair Commission, Presents His Annual Report to President Cleveland.

A Further Amount of Money is Required to Properly Close Up the Commission's Work.

Work of the Board of Lady Managers in the Department of Awards Practically Finished.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—President Palmer, of the World's fair commission, accompanied by Secretary Dickinson, called at the White House this morning and presented to the president his annual report, which also included the report of the board of awards, which has already been published. After preliminary statements as to the dates of opening and closing the exposition, and its general purposes as provided by the act of congress of April 25, 1890, the report states that at the close of the exposition the committee approved a special committee consisting of Commissioners J. W. Sinclair, of West Virginia; O. B. Tinsley, of Minnesota; E. L. Roche, of South Carolina; Geo. V. Massey, of Delaware; Eyclid Martin, of Nebraska; P. H. Lanham, of Utah, and Chairman Palmer and Secretary John T. Dickinson, of Texas, to prepare the final report to be presented to the commission for its authoritative action.

The report proceeds: "In view of the fact that this committee will be required to treat upon every feature of the exposition covered by its plan and scope, and for that purpose consider the final reports from all the various departments, boards and agencies employed for the inauguration, installation and conduct of the same, including the very important work of the committee on awards, several months' time will be necessarily occupied in the work. The final reports cannot be made from the director general and the exhibit department until the exhibits are delivered to the exhibitors, which is expected to be accomplished by the middle of April, 1894. However, it is confidently expected that the final report of the commission will be transmitted not later than Nov. 1, 1894."

An estimate is submitted that to enable the commission to complete the work required by the acts of congress approved April 25, 1890, and Aug. 5, 1892, respectively, not including the expense of the committee on awards, an expenditure of $12,500 will be necessary. The statement of the exhibit department of the United States up to Jan. 1, 1894, shows expenditures amounting to $106,792, out of an appropriation of $18,000 leaving a balance of a little over $11,000. The report proceeds:

"It will be observed that to pay the actual and necessary expense of completing the work of the commission the sum of at least $25,000 will be required in excess of the appropriation for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1894. This sum can be provided without any additional expense to the government if congress will authorize the expenditure of that sum out of the appropriation made to the commission for the year ending June 30, 1894, to enable the commission to complete the work of the board of lady managers in a complete and efficient manner, and to execute the provisions of section 6 of the act of congress approved April 15, 1892."

The work of the board of lady managers, etc., both of the commission and board of lady managers, judges and examiners for the exposition, and preparing the medals and diplomas to be delivered to exhibitors, there will be a balance in excess of the said deficiency of $5,000 which can be rightfully expended to pay the same. In equity and fairness this should be done, since a sum much greater than this deficiency has been expended by the commission from its general appropriation made necessary in the work of granting awards to exhibitors."

Statements are submitted showing the accounts of the commissions and board of lady managers with the treasury for Jan. 1, 1894. These statements of account show a large balance on Jan. 1, 1894, to the credit both of the commission and board of lady managers, on account of the appropriations for awards in said report.

The board of lady managers have performed a very important work in the exhibition of the medals and diplomas to be delivered to exhibitors, there will be a balance in excess of the said deficiency of $5,000 which can be rightfully expended to pay the same. In equity and fairness this should be done, since a sum much greater than this deficiency has been expended by the commission from its general appropriation made necessary in the work of granting awards to exhibitors."

In conclusion, it is proper to state that throughout the conduct of the exposition the most kindly relations were maintained with the foreign governments participating therein and to their friendly co-operation, and that of the states and territories of the Union the great success of the World's Columbian exposition is largely to be attributed.

To Make the Gold Reserve Intact. WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Considerable headway appears to have been made at yesterday afternoon's meeting of the senate finance committee, which was largely attended and lasted for more than an hour. Mr. Carlisle's letter was again discussed and while no conclusion was reached by direct vote it appeared to be the sense of the committee, manifested in the absence of opposition, that the best thing to be done for the immediate relief of the treasury was to make the gold reserve intact, leaving the question of meeting the deficit in revenues open for further consideration.

The Police at Sea. ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Jan. 17.—General Manager Brown, of the Burlington, and R. Sanford, superintendent of the Adams Express company, have increased the reward for the five men who held up the train near this city last Wednesday at $200. The police are as much at sea as ever.

A FREE TEST.

All Arguments Have Been Overthrown.

The Heart-sick and Hopeless Can Try Without Cost.

For Them the Liberal Offer is Especially Made.

To enable the public to obtain some practical idea of the Copeland system of disease treatment, and to demonstrate its superiority to other methods, the Copeland physicians announce a free test treatment to all sufferers from catarrh or other curable chronic maladies. All who apply in person will be examined, advised and treated upon their first visit absolutely free of charge. Remember, that, in addition to a free treatment, all who apply will receive the benefits of thorough professional consultation and advice without a penny's expense. This is a test which the patient can make use of absolutely free of cost for examination, first treatment, consultation and advice.

It is claimed by many that it ought not to be necessary for the Copeland physicians to make a free test treatment to convince the people of their skill and ability to cure disease. As a matter of fact, it is not necessary. But the Copeland physicians, because of their immense practice they charge exorbitant fees, or to obtain such successful results they must use very harsh methods. Such erroneous ideas will not last in the face of the testimony of hundreds of residents of Duluth, who have been prominent in business and official life. The testimony of such men as Dr. Eason, who has practiced medicine over half a century, and L. D. Robertson, the Lauen exchange man who tried every catarrhal remedy under the sun, cannot be gainsaid. It is a notable fact that the Copeland people who have been treated, the percentage of cures has been larger than that of any other system of treatment in existence today.

The Copeland physicians admit the force of these suggestions, and while they feel they have the confidence of the people, they have no objection to every day of the existence of a large class of sufferers from old and chronic diseases who have exhausted their patience and wasted their means in the vain attempt to find relief until they are discouraged, they have concluded to try no more, and to expect to suffer as long as they live. It is to this class of sufferers, who admit the skill of the Copeland physicians, but believe their cases incurable, that the free trial treatment is especially directed.

All are welcome who apply at the office in person, but it is hoped that those who have abandoned hope will not fail to avail themselves of it.

Very Few Candidates for Aldermen Have Publicly Announced Themselves Up to the Present Time.

A Number of Names of Men Who Might Run Are Mentioned—Caucus Will Settle It.

James-Oakes Marriage Claimed to be an Old Story—Manufacturers' Bank Annual Election.

There have been but few open moves on the political checkboard the past few days and the hesitancy of the modest candidates is becoming oppressive. The only aldermanic candidate that has openly and frankly confessed his ambition in that direction is ex-Trustee John Peterson who is willing to accept the nomination on the Democratic ticket. Among the names mentioned on the Republican side are those of J. D. Boyd, Thomas O'Brien, B. C. Dent, O. S. Olson and E. F. McNeill, but it is not yet known that any of them are candidates. The ward caucus takes place next Saturday night when those who are willing to bend to the wishes of their friends will present their names for the consideration of the voters.

Is an Old Story.
The secret marriage of Miss Stella James and Edward Oakes which has been stirring the gossip of the town in the morning paper has been a worn out story in West Duluth for several weeks. Its prominence before the board of education probably arises from the fact that the young lady has a rejected suitor now attending the high school who has been stirring the gossip of the town to cause trouble between the young married couple.

Smith and S. S. Williamson. The directors elected the following officers: W. H. H. Stowell, president; T. D. Merrill, vice president; and H. P. Smith, cashier.

BONDS TO BE ISSUED.
Secretary Carlisle was to make the official announcement today.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Secretary Carlisle during the day will officially announce a bond issue. What form this announcement will take cannot be positively stated until the official statement is made.
It is believed, however, that the announcement will be in the form of an advertisement inviting bids for 5 per cent bonds to a figure that will make the rate of interest 3 per cent a year. The bonds will be issued under the resumption act of 1875, but what amount will be issued cannot now be stated.
Under the resumption act the three classes of bonds run as follows: 4 per cent, thirty years; 4½ per cent, fifteen years; 5 per cent, ten years.

The Favor She Asked.
"Pa, do you know that this is my eighteenth birthday?"
"Yes, my dear."
"Pa, I want you to do me a great favor on my birthday, and the beautiful girl buried her glowing face on the paternal bosom."
"And what is the favor my little girl wants?"
"Papa, you have influence with the parish vestry, haven't you?"
"Well, yes, my dear."
"Then have them move that gas lamp away from in front of our gate."
Thus it was that the fond father discovered that a daughter isn't a little girl always. She had a young man.—Fit-Bits.

His Canning Scheme.
Mr. Dreffelshorff—Sophronia, I wish you would look at that paper again and tell me the exact date when that train robbery took place on the Missouri Pacific.
Mrs. Dreffelshorff—Why? What are you doing, James?
Mr. Dreffelshorff—(who is busily writing letters to various relatives out west)—I want to locate a lot of bundles of costly Christmas gifts that we didn't send on that particular train.—Chicago Tribune.

TRACK WHEAT WAS STRONG. While Futures Showed a Decline.

Wheat opened very weak here this morning at below yesterday's close for cash wheat and nominally 1/2 cent lower for May, though the first transactions for May were reported at 1/2 cent above the opening and had been down from last night's figures. Wheat to arrive was in good demand and fairly active, with a number of lots taken by the mills at 1/2 cent above yesterday's closing price. The weakness here was caused by a similar decline in all other American and by lower foreign markets. The afternoon session was quiet, but steady at the advance, and the close was unchanged from yesterday for cash, 1/2 cent higher for track wheat, 1/2 cent lower for May and 1/2 cent lower for July. Following were the closing prices:

Business Must Improve.

There is no excuse for the blues on account of the condition of business throughout the country. Some of the shrewdest observers declare that the country is recovering slowly and is steadily reaching that point where dullness in business ceases and activity begins. The country has experienced the bitter lesson which inevitably results
from hundreds of firms and institutions
trying to do business on wind or reaching out without sufficient capital. The weak concerns have been forced to the wall. Their fall created a great noise and a consequent scare, but those who have survived are in better shape than before and their condition will steadily improve.

In a special article written for the New York World on the prospects of business for 1901, Henry Clews, the well known banker, says that the panic of 1893 can not be regarded as one of the ordinary kind. It was not caused by industrial overproduction, nor by financial indication, nor by over-speculation, nor by an excessive inflation of prices, nor by war or sympathy with great European political complications. The entire business of the country, in all its departments of production, merchandising, financing and credit, was as a rule, in a perfectly sound, conservative and fairly profitable condition when the tidal wave struck us. It started, and it progressed to its culmination under a sudden fright.

But there is a most radical difference between a panic coming upon sound conditions and one precipitated by intricate rottenness; all the difference that there is between an accident to a man in vigorous health and to one weakened by constitutional disease. In one case nature helps by a self-curative process; in the other diseased organic conditions aggravate the mischief caused by the accident. For this reason Mr. Clews looks for much more rapid recovery from the effects of the purely monetary causes of the panic than has followed our previous great crises.

By this time we should have witnessed a much larger measure of recovery than has actually appeared, had it not been for the intervention of a new disturbance
of confidence arising from the introduction of measures for revolutionizing the commercial policy of the country. The prospect of tariff changes has shut down
many industrial establishments until the changes are definitely settled, and this has in turn curtailed the retail business of the country from 15 to 20 per cent of its usual volume.

"The most stubborn obstacle," says
Mr. Clews, "that now remains to be overcome is the suspension of business
until the new tariff duties take effect.
Here I think the real probabilities are undoubtedly in the present gloomy public mood. We have already used up our stocks of merchandise to the verge of absolute exhaustion. Our imports are declining to such an extent that the December arrivals of dry goods at New York were only one-third of those of a year ago."

With supplies in this condition, and
with the current output of manufactures
falling behind the requirements of consumption, it is not difficult to see that our closed factories must reopen long before the new tariff goes into operation. And, with the reduction in the prices of raw materials and the general concessions in wages that are taking place, there is no apparent reason why moderate profits should not be made upon an early, fair resumption of operations.

In proportion, as work is resumed,
labor will be better employed, and the better employment of labor will extend the market for goods. Under these circumstances the way seems clear to a gradual revival of business and a steady

sliding into a healthier and more active condition of affairs. At present enterprise is largely held in restraint by an inverate attack of the "blues," in which every unfavorable factor is magnified
and every favorable one undervalued.
Mr. Clews concludes:
"By the close of 1901 I expect to witness a degree of recovery far beyond what most of us now dare to predict. To that extent I am willing to become a prophet."

The Iron Ore Duty.

The Minneapolis Tribune continues in defense of the free iron ore provision of the Wilson bill. It claims to be a Republican paper, yet on this point it is diametrically opposed to the tariff policy of the Republican party. Not only is it thus at variance with the political party
that it professes to support, but it likewise is opposed to the best interests of a large section of Minnesota. The iron men in this section, who are not theorists
like the Tribune, but are practical miners and have figured out the exact cost of mining and shipping the ore, say that to place iron ore on the free list would be ruinous to many iron properties.

The Tribune lays great stress upon the lower cost of mining upon the Mesaba range and claims that Mesaba ore can be laid down at Cleveland
at $2.35 a ton while it would cost $3.65 to deliver a ton of Cuban ore, if duty free,
at Philadelphia, on the other side of the Alleghenies. The duty is 75 cents a ton, consequently Cuban ore should now cost
$4.40 a ton delivered at Philadelphia.

During the past year, considerable quantities of Cuban ore were imported, paying the duty, and some of it came as far west as Scranton, Pa. Now if it is possible for Cuban ore, with the duty imposed, to be sold at Scranton in competition with American ore, what will be the result should the duty be removed and the whole American ore market thrown open to competition? What will become of the valuable mines on the Vermilion range and other American mines where the cost of production is greater than it is on the Mesaba?

But it is probably useless to argue with
the Minneapolis Tribune on this question.
It refuses to consider any facts and steadily publishes figures that have no
solid basis whatever. The Minneapolis Journal thus explains the cause of this strange position on the part of its neighbor: "The Minneapolis Tribune is 'one of those people whom you sometimes hear called 'notionate.' It gets notions in its head, it doesn't exactly know how,
and when a fresh idea gets in its presence tickles the Tribune so that it hangs on to it without much regard for the consequences. When the Tribune got the notion of free ore into its head that idea so occupied the space for ideas
that the Tribune was unable to accommodate that other one that the curtailment of iron production of Minnesota would not only cut off the business and reduce profits of the operators in the mines and deprive workmen of wages, but would also deprive the state of its royalties which are expected to be very large under a proper development of the ore fields. The Herald needed not credit the position of the Tribune to jealousy of Duluth, but rather,
as indicated, to the habit the Tribune
has of taking up with queer notions, regardless of whether they are to the public's interest or not. It is a habit of the Tribune which makes it impossible to tell in advance on which side of any public question that paper is likely to be."

Made a Combination.

The story was in circulation in Washington yesterday that the defeat of Mr.
Hornblower for justice of the supreme court means the defeat of the Wilson tariff bill in the senate. It is claimed that the deal was engineered by Steve Elkins to bring enough Republicans to Hill and other Democrats opposed to Hornblower, in return for which an absolute pledge was given to oppose the Wilson bill by Hill, Murphy, Gorman
and other Democratic managers.

One correspondent, who is usually very reliable, says that it is known as a fact that the story is a practically true.
The Wilson bill, in consequence, will be either defeated outright in the senate or cut and slashed to pieces, which practically amounts to the same thing.

Oh, They Don't?

The Kansas City Star says it is cause for surprise that the wild "North and South" railroad scheme, which had its inception in the brain of Nebraska's Populist governor, has advanced so far as the election of officers. The whole project is so utterly visionary and chimerical
that it is a wonder that it has held out as long as it has, even on paper. Next summer a lot of tinhorn statesmen and politicians out of a job will get around the farmers to be "benefited" by the "North and South" and pick up enough money to pay their expenses under the plea of "promoting" the enterprise, and then the whole business will fall through and go to pieces.

The Boston Herald, a free trade paper,

expresses the opinion that the large petitions against the Wilson bill, which are being sent to congress, will not have much weight there, and it insinuates that workingmen are being intimidated into signing them. This may be true in some isolated cases, but there has been no intimidation used in securing signatures in Duluth and St. Louis county to the monster petition against free iron ore.

CONBETT STILL TALKING.

If He Fights as Hard as He Talks, He Will

New York, Jan. 17.—A Jacksonville special quotes Corbett, in speaking of the strictures of Jackson and Sullivan
published in the local papers as saying:
"I have never said one word against Peter Jackson nor his ability as a fighter,
and I think his remarks uncalculated for.
What I said was that not one of the officials in our match is a friend of mine and this can be proven. Sullivan's remarks are equally out of place, as he is out of the question altogether."

"I wish to add this for the benefit of Jackson, Sullivan or anybody else:
That I can whip any man on earth today
with my two hands, gloved or ungloved.
I cast down the gauntlet to the whole brood of blowers, with the reservation that I will not waste time on men who are not recognized as first class."

Continuing the special says: Manager
Brady will insist on a barb wire fence around the ropes, so that the crowd may be kept back from the fighters. Delaney, who is bitter against Mitchell, insists that if the Englishman finds that he cannot win at will foul Corbett.
This, however, is laughed by those who are staking their money on the Englishman's courage.

TO RETIRE A FEDERAL JUDGE.

A Bill in Which the Kansas People Are Interested.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The Republican members from Kansas are much interested in a bill which it is proposed to retire United States Judge C. G. Foster from the federal bench. The judge is a confirmed invalid and has not been able to attend to his judicial duties for a long time.

Henry W. Cannon, the New York
banker, says that if it is right to pay off $12,000,000 of government indebtedness six years before it is due, it should be right to temporarily borrow to make good a temporary deficit.
Mr. Cannon's point seems to be well taken.

Edwin Atkinson is delivering lectures
in Boston to prove that it is possible for a man to live on $1 a week. Now if he will show the man where to get $1 a week
this winter, the problem of the unemployed and destitute will be solved.

The Pittsburgh Dispatch says: "A ton of diamonds is worth about $35,000,000."

As prices are not likely to advance soon, anyone contemplating the purchase of a ton need not hurry.

dinance is a good deal like building a

A Patriotic Sacrifice.

St. Louis Republic: When a congressman obtains an opportunity to speak on dewdrops were poverty tears.

Starvation in Manitoba.

MONTREAL, Jan. 17.—The reports of starvation in Manitoba and the Northwest are being verified. Advice state

that hundreds of destitute people are walking the streets of Winnipeg, and
the distress is terrible. To make matters worse, the Canadian Pacific has discharged a large number of men.

Pensions Granted.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The following

pensions were granted today: Minne-

Asahel Harrison, Hartland, Wisconsin;
Henry Lloyd, Phoenix; Walter Stratton, Milwaukee; minor of Orrin Ennis, Wau-
paca.

What Was the Object?

FARMINGTON, Minn., Jan. 17.—Early

yesterday morning some person placed a
dynamite cartridge inside the storm door
of the Exchange bank at this place. The explosion blew out the front of the bank
building besides doing considerable damage inside. As the bank has gone out of business and there were no funds in
the vault and no attempt made on the
safe, robbery was evidently not the motive.

Starvation in Manitoba.

MONTREAL, Jan. 17.—The reports of

starvation in Manitoba and the Northwest are being verified. Advice state
that hundreds of destitute people are
walking the streets of Winnipeg, and
the distress is terrible. To make matters worse, the Canadian Pacific has
discharged a large number of men.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The following

pensions were granted today: Minnesota—Thomas J. Janney, Minneapolis;
Asahel Harrison, Hartland, Wisconsin;
Henry Lloyd, Phoenix; Walter Stratton,
Milwaukee; minor of Orrin Ennis, Wau-
paca.

What Was the Object?

FARMINGTON, Minn., Jan. 17.—Early

yesterday morning some person placed a
dynamite cartridge inside the storm door
of the Exchange bank at this place. The
explosion blew out the front of the bank
building besides doing considerable damage inside. As the bank has gone out of business and there were no funds in
the vault and no attempt made on the
safe, robbery was evidently not the motive.

ALDERMANIC TIMBER.

Large Number of Patriots Who Are Willing to Serve Their City Are Coming Forward.

Several of the Present Aldermen Are Not Unwilling to Again Represent Their Wards.

List of the Men in Different Wards Who Are Credited With Having Aldermanic Aspirations.

The political field in Duluth now has much the appearance of an asparagus bed. Some aspirants have come up, spread out and gone to seed. Others have made considerable stalk and attained a corresponding prominence. Still more have just got their heads above ground and made a start. A little prodding around in the soft, political soil also shows that some have not yet pushed their heads above ground, into the light of day and public gaze.

Every now and then, new mayoralty timber is brought forward. Yesterday morning the friends of Senator F. H. Daugherty posted his name on the walls and then that of E. G. Swaenstrom was hoisted high into the skies. There are no changes in the positions of the other candidates. A delegation some days ago in the interest of Capt. Lewis, called upon M. J. Davis and asked that he decline to run. He declined to do so. Some declare that the Democrats are making a still hunt, while others say that they are making up no slate and that they will leave the outcome to Providence and the convention. The Populists are not saying much, but they keep up a mysterious winking and nodding, and smile knowingly.

The aldermanic candidates in the eight wards are coming forward thicker than fleas on a Kansas prairie. In the cultured First Alderman Morris Thomas feels that he would make a good watch dog of the treasury for another term. W. C. Sargent some time ago retired from the mayoralty race and announced that he would stand for the council, but his voice has been silent of late. Judge Hale has opened the gates to his political ambition and will push his insurance business. T. W. Lemieux was an alderman for a year in days gone by and he wants to be in that position again. L. Kingman thinks that his duties as a real estate dealer would permit him to act as a city father and W. W. McMillan has acquired enough cash in the plumbing business to enable him to indulge in the luxury of posing as a candidate. R. F. Howard would be willing to return to the Lakesiders and be satisfied with him, it is said. It was erroneously stated that he retired from the mayoralty contest in favor of the city clerk.

In the Second ward Thomas Wood some time ago declared that he would enter the race, but he has changed his mind. William Getty, a present incumbent, will do his best to succeed himself, as also will that sterling young Democrat Alexander Wilson. William G. Jerns is a Republican but he thinks that as such he should be elected to sit in one of the sixteen armchairs. John Evans, of the firm of Evans & Grady, contractors, is an old union labor man, and he is willing that the voice of the people be raised up in his behalf. Dr. Maas, a Democrat, is not only willing to be an alderman, but, if elected, would agree to act in a professional capacity in time of councilmanic combats.

James Pilkey has tuned himself up with an idea of capturing the contract in the Third ward. R. S. Lerch runs the Palace livery barn and he is willing to attempt a pace fast enough to land him in an alderman's berth. Bert Johnson likes it pretty well as far as he has got and is willing to suffer for a full sized term. William Harwood feels that a man who can successfully operate a city day line ought to make a good councilman and he's going to try to be one, too. Swan Olson, a Populist, also been mentioned, but he has not yet showed the color of his hair nor the size of his pocketbook.

Down on the banks of the ship canal some are yelling for Martin Sorensen and he likes to hear 'em. Those who will not shout for him are lifting up their voices for Henry Schisser, a butcher and a Democrat. Some want James Dingwall, the noblest classman of them all, but he says he knows when he's had enough, so declines another dose. Fred W. Wieland is clamored for and it is said the clamor is a loud one. Frank Osborn is a prominent sidewalk contractor, but as a Populist he believes in keeping in the middle of the road, so he will not refuse to represent the natives who live across the canal. His sidewalk associate, John Boyer, also would not refuse to drive a few nails as a Duluth alderman. Charles Schutt, a Republican, has had his name numerous times mentioned along with the rest.

In the Fifth ward, Charles Ganning, the Populist, says that he does not want the nomination for mayor but that he will run for the council. J. A. Butcher thinks that if he was an alderman it would draw trade for the St. Louis hotel, so he is going to put in his best ticks to that end. Philip Westaway, who was street commissioner under John B. Sutphin, has up his lightning rod again this year and George Goldsmith is in the same fix. Jake Lember is frequently mentioned and Capt. Con Flynn is one of the latest to jump into the ring. "Con" is an old lake captain and would be a valuable man during a stormy session of the council. Dr. D. D. Murray, an old Dakota Populist, now a strong Democrat and the possessor of a grievance against the Duluth Gas and Water company has girded up his loins and will hustle faster than a compound cathartic pill. Dan Blanchard, a Populist will not object if he is thrown into the aldermanic den of lions and J. D. Hayes, the electrician, and delegate in the Federated Trades assembly would like to flash the lightning of his oratory before the populace in the council chamber.

In the new Sixth Aldermen Cox and Nelson seem to have no opposition up to date. It is said, however, that if James B. Hart does not get the Democratic nomination for mayor, that he will pull off his goshaws and run Cox a race for the council.

In the Seventh, Aldermen Helm and Oie will settle their claims to another term in the Republican caucus. John D. Brady, of the Phillips hotel, is right on his muscles. E. H. Hall is neck and neck with him and both are ready, who feels pretty good after his year of retirement says that if he don't come out ahead of both, he will set 'em up in the crowd. L. D. French, who was up in the alderman business in the old village of West Duluth, objects to so many straws being placed on the defunct camel's back, so he will strive for a seat in the new council.

Henry Haskins has a new carload of old clothing and in the battle which he will make, hopes to come out a winner. Loud clamors are made for "Paddy" McDonnell to grab his blackthorn and wade in. He is counting up the cash prizes that he drew the other day and any moment may sing out, "Bless, I'm wide yet." Obituaries may yet be heard from W. J. Matthews, with the West Duluth car works, wants to represent the glorious Eighth, and H. C. Dent's corns are aching to make the run. Real Estate Dealer Olafson is being coaxed to accept the nomination. Elmer F. Mitchell, the contractor, has most flattering prospects indeed, for nomination. All the names named are Republicans. The Democrats are pushing P. O. Noben and W. J. Peterson, a tailor who believes that a man who shaves a "goose" is not disqualified from helping to govern a great and growing city.

MISTAKES IN REGISTRATION.
Many of the Judges Are Not Posted as to the Law.

There was an informal gathering of Republicans at Republican headquarters last night and some important facts concerning the registration were brought to light and freely discussed. In some of the precincts the judges required transfers from the old wards and in others the old poll lists were copied into the new books, and the means absolutely necessary to register in order to vote. All the judges of election should be clearly given to understand that every man who wishes to vote at the coming election must be registered anew in the new precinct in which he now lives; that no transfer certificates are necessary; and that any name copied from the old poll lists is not legally registered by being transferred to the new list. Registration is needed as absolutely as if this were the first election ever held in the city. The attention of the city clerk has been called to this matter.

It Is Not Settled.
In response to an inquiry from the Superior chamber of commerce as to where the Northern Steamship company would have its dock for the new passenger steamer, President Hill replied that the matter is not settled and will not be until General Manager Gordon and he have a chance to visit the head of the lakes.

Burning Chimneys Numerous.
Burning chimneys make the Duluth firemen very hot. Nearly every day two or three alarms are sent in from different parts of the city for burning chimneys. Yesterday afternoon one went in from West Michigan street and Twentieth avenue. It was the same old case of "marching up the hill and then marching down again."

The Annual Meeting.
The Twelfth Mercantile company of West Superior held its annual meeting yesterday at which the old board was re-elected. The board consists of Edmund Twoby, Dan W. Twoby, John Kerwin, J. D. Coleman, Thomas Dwyer, P. D. Connor and W. R. Fanning. At a subsequent meeting of the directors Edmund Twoby was re-elected president and Dan Twoby secretary and treasurer.

The Violin Recital.
The violin recital introducing Herr Carl Riedelsberger at the Spaulding on Friday evening will give unusual pleasure to the lovers of music in the city. The program arranged is an admirable one. Miss Jessie Hunter, soprano, will assist, singing two numbers. Mrs. Emil Schmidt will be accompanist.

The Indians Kick.
There is talk about the Grand Portage reservation, near Grand Marais, being thrown open to settlement and the Chippewas removed to White Earth. The Indians, however, do not favor the scheme.

MANITO'S KICK.
The St. Louis and the Duluth Roads Are Complained Of.

The state railroad and warehouse commission was engaged yesterday in hearing the complaint of Gen. Pope and other citizens of Manito to the effect that the rates on coal and other articles were higher per ton per mile between the Twin Cities and Manito than they were between Duluth and the Twin Cities, and that the rates are too high all the way through.

ROAD TO RAINY RIVER.
A Shorter Route From Mountain Iron Has Been Found.

MOUNTAIN IRON, Jan. 17.—[Special to The Herald].—At a meeting of the citizens of this village Monday night it was decided to cut a tote road from here eighteen miles north to connect with the old county road to Rainy lake. By this route we will have a shorter line to Rainy lake from Duluth by twenty-nine miles, making our wagon road eight miles shorter than the one from Tower. The merchants here naturally expect to get a good share of this trade. The road will be completed in side of ten days.

On Friday last the Cosmopolitan camp, lying west of Mountain Iron, owned by John McKinley, of Duluth, and occupied by Mrs. C. A. Campbell, were totally destroyed by fire with all contents.

Judgment Affirmed.
The state supreme court yesterday handed down the following decision in the case of Owen Fergusson, appellant vs. Duluth Improvement company, respondent.

Where parties enter into an oral contract for the vacation of a plat of real property and the replating of the same, which is done, and an oral contract is made by the same parties at the same time as a part of such oral contract that one of the parties should convey to the other a portion of the replated premises, but which premises it is admitted cannot be located or described, and that therefore specific performance cannot be enforced, and there has been no entry into possession of said premises under the contract, an action for damages for non-performance of the oral contract cannot be maintained, as it is within the statute of frauds, and therefore void. Judgment affirmed.

ARE FOLLOWING THE PLAN.
Inspector of Applications for Work is a Man Who Needs Work Himself.
President Truelsen said today: "We have employed Percy E. Volwyn, a former street car conductor, as inspector of applications for work on the rock-breaking gangs. Mr. Volwyn comes well recommended and is one of those who sadly need employment this winter. His wife is in the hospital and the care of a small family has devolved upon him, so that in giving him employment we are still following the plan outlined by the resolution appropriating the money for relief work. Volwyn's duties are to secure a list of all men employed and then personally investigate the fitness of each man to be employed on the work. If any man is found to be possessed of means sufficient for his support, to be a single man or to be unworthy to receive aid, he is to be discharged at once and another man is to be put in his place. The only qualification that a man needs to obtain work from this city is that he is a married man and is worthy of relief. I want to say right here that I am a Democrat, but I can act like a man and that no one but Alderman Cox has ever attempted to introduce politics into this matter. I court the fullest investigation into the methods of the board of public works and I, as president, am willing to stand on the results."

Broke One of the Bones.
Ed Mattix, the proprietor of the Lyceum Pharmacy, who met with a painful accident on Saturday evening, is now going on crutches in consequence. While he was standing on a ladder, an electric light ladder slipped and Mr. Mattix fell about ten feet to the floor and broke one of the small bones in his right leg. It is a painful injury and it will be some time before he will be able to walk without the aid of crutches.

Register Taylor, Special Agent Young and Indian Agent Mercer Said to Have Had Some Trouble.
Lieut. Mercer Thinks His Indian Allotment Certificates Have Not Been Given Proper Recognition.
It is Reported That He Has Filed Charges Against Register Taylor and Agent Young.

Register Taylor of the local land office, Special Agent Young and Indian Agent Mercer of Ashland are reported to have become involved in a sort of triangular fight. Indian Agent Mercer is said to believe that Register Taylor has displayed an unaccountable antipathy to all Indian allotment certificates bearing his signature, turning down all such applications for Indian homesteads. Those signed by ex-Indian Farmer Leiby are said to have been freely accepted, but Mercer would not go. Special Agent Young is reported to have backed up Taylor's action by a series of letters, said to contain serious charges against Lieut. Mercer, alleging that he is an interested party and that in making these allotments he was governed by personal motives and private interests.
Lieut. Mercer, as the report goes, was greatly aroused and demanded an official investigation, at the same time preferring charges against Register Taylor and Agent Young for malfeasance in office. According to current reports this is the standing of the case at present and it is a very pretty quarrel. If the investigation is granted light may be shed upon Register Taylor's system of determining who are Indians.

Charles Holtoquist Claims Simon Clark's Assignment Was Illegal.
Judge Moor took up the case of Charles Holtoquist vs. Andrew Jackson, Simon Clark et al. this morning and the arguments were begun immediately after the opening of the court this afternoon. This is an action brought for the purpose of setting aside the assignment of Simon Clark to William A. Cant. This assignment, it will be remembered, was made by Mr. Clark before he left for Europe but was not filed until a few weeks later. The plaintiff in this case secured a judgment against Messrs. Clark and Jackson but found that he could not reach any property because of the assignment. He claims that this assignment was illegal and wants the court to decide.
The lien case of A. P. Wilson et al. vs. Lydia H. Roe does not involve much more than $300 but it has been on trial for three or four days already and is not yet concluded.

Answer of West Duluth in the Light and Water Company Suit.
The case of J. J. Frey vs. the West Duluth Light and Water company and the officers and trustees of West Duluth begun some time ago, is evidently to be prosecuted regardless of the consolidation of the village with the city of Duluth. The action was begun to test the validity of the franchise and the officers of the village were included in the action because an injunction was asked for restraining the city from paying the hydrant rentals.
The village and officers through ex-Village Attorney H. H. Phelps, filed their answer today. They are interested in seeing the franchise declared illegal, naturally admit nearly everything the complaint. The passage of the ordinance conferring a franchise is admitted. It is also admitted that the ordinance is invalid, illegal, against public policy, prejudicial to the citizens and taxpayers, creates a monopoly and that the rates fixed are exorbitant. The allegation is then set up that ordinance is validated by an act of the legislature. This is the question which the village wants tested—whether the legislative act is legal.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional means. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed, you have a running ear, or, if the inflammation is not taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.
We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Sent for free. Free. E. J. Conroy & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

CURRENT GOSSIP.

What People Say of City Affairs and Things in General.

Secretary Buchanan said this morning "every place seems eligible for the National Educational association except Duluth. Three years ago St. Paul received all concessions asked for from the railroads, and no demoralization of rates or traffic ensued, but it seems that some co-rent influence is at work against Duluth. There is work where the unemployed might be put at with profit and credit to the city."

"As I was passing down Fourth avenue east yesterday," said one of the county commissioners, "in company with an old and respected gentleman, we were subjected to an outrageous assault by a number of the scholars who pelted us with water soaked snowballs as hard as rocks. The younger ones were egged on by two or three hooligan boys of about 18 or 20, in long hair and long tailed coats. It is a disgrace to any city to have such things happen and I shall complain to the police and try and have a stop put to the practice."

"This mild weather certainly lessens the coal bill," said the barber as he filled the reporter's right ear and left eye with lather at one and the same time, "but I am afraid that what I'll save in coal I shall have to pay out to the doctor. An open winter is good for our business, however, as men are not afraid of catching cold after a haircut."

Hon. James Boggs last night was entertaining his friend Mayor Shell, of Worthington, who sat in the house with Mr. Boggs and whom he describes as the best natured legislator of the session. The conversation turned upon Congressman Tawney and the two lawmakers compared notes over the hard work done by Mr. Tawney when senator in getting the bill ordering all street cars to be vestibuled through the legislature. "I heard today" said Mr. Boggs "that the street car men were seriously thinking of presenting a slight testimonial to Mr. Tawney, in grateful recognition of his efforts in their behalf, which would be a very appropriate thing for them to do." "Speaking of Tawney" said Doctor Barrett, who was also present, "I regard him as the best friend that Duluth has in the Minnesota congressional delegation and I should like to see a mass meeting of citizens pass a resolution asking him to consider himself the special representative of St. Louis county at Washington and while we were at it we might as well include Professor McCleary as well."

PERFORMED AN OPERATION.

Doctors Maxwell, Ritchie and Robinson, and Ship, can, of Ely, performed an operation upon William Ross, the Duluth & Iron Range engineer who was recently injured by a bursting locomotive boiler. The lamina and spinous processes of the ninth and tenth dorsal vertebra were removed and no displacement of bone was found sufficient to produce any compression of the spinal cord, but a slight roughness of the bony portion of the canal at one point was observed and removed. Mr. Ross' condition up to midnight was critical, but he rallied and today is bright and cheerful. Dr. Maxwell says that if he survives the operation for the next four or five days he considers his chance of ultimate recovery a good one, but although the operation was successful in demonstrating no compression, yet there may have been an instantaneous injury to the cord which might disappear with time and still leave fatal effects behind. Dr. Maxwell, however, has strong hopes for his patient.

STATE'S CASE CLOSED.

All Evidence Against Dan Coughlin Has Been Given and the Defense Will Begin Monday.

The Actual Detailed Plan of the Defense
Not Known and Some Surprises Are Expected.

An Important Motion Made by the Defense
Which Might Result in Another New Trial.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—The state rested its case against Dan Coughlin at the opening of today's session. The defense will begin Monday morning, the interval being used to arrange the order of testimony and get the witnesses into line. There will be between seventy-five and eighty witnesses. The actual detailed plan of the defense, particularly as to new sensational witnesses to offset the state's evidence relating to the white branch of the conspiracy, and the identification of Coughlin by Frank Arden and William Mertes, has been kept a secret.

This policy will make the defense as interesting as the prosecution, and the surprises are expected to be more numerous. At the opening of court Attorney Bottom, by agreement, announced that he would introduce a map of Edgewater, showing the docks and the extent to which they were opened in May, 1888. He said: "We rest, your honor. Before the jury was taken to the hotel, Judge Wing said the defense had no objection to the jurors enjoying the interim by being taken to the theater under proper guard. The suggestion was concurred in by the court."

Judge Wing closed the proceedings by reading a long series of formal motions to exclude from the evidence all material testimony presented by the state. The court overruled every motion save one, which raised an important new point. It may result in the supreme court ordering another new trial in case of conviction.

The motion was to exclude Mrs. Conklin's testimony relating to her identification of the white horse taken for her to see by Charles Beck, a newspaper reporter now in Mexico. Beck's testimony had not been proved by Beck's own testimony that the horse Mrs. Conklin saw was the one taken from Dinan's livery stable. Judge Wing refused the motion, and the court took the motion under advisement.

R. M. Wing and Daniel Donohue, counsel for Daniel Coughlin, created a sensational scene in Judge Tutthill's court at the close of the regular proceedings this morning. Judge Wing, as senior lawyer, read a legal paper containing certain articles and letters recently published in two afternoon Chicago newspapers attacking the honesty of the jury and witnesses on both sides, and even reflecting upon Judge Tutthill's conduct of the trial.

The last article read which caused the sensation was in the form of a letter written and signed by Kickham Scanlan, the young lawyer belonging to the Cronin faction who is assisting the state. The letter openly reflected on the integrity of the jury and intimated that if there was no conviction the jury must be corrupt. Judge Wing motioned the papers to be taken out of the court and ordered Attorney Scanlan to desist from contributing such articles to the press.

Attorney Bottom started to make a defense for his colleague, but Judge Tutthill cut him off short and hotly exclaimed: "If Mr. Scanlan wrote that letter, his action was simply unprofessional and outrageous. It reflects upon almost everybody in the case and is absolutely indefensible." The judge was never so excited and indignant. Mr. Scanlan, who had previously sat quiet, rose meekly to explain.

"I don't want to go from you Mr. Scanlan," abruptly broke in Judge Tutthill, "unless you want to say that you did not write the article. It is an outrage on the jury who, for all we know, will conscientiously do their duty. Every man is of his own selection."

"Do you know that a lawyer for the defense had an article published in another newspaper brutally attacking me in connection with Bardeen's testimony?" asked the humiliated lawyer.

Judge Tutthill—Two wrongs don't make a right.

Attorney Wing—No one but Mr. Donohue and myself are engaged in this case. Do you mean to say either of us wrote that article?

Attorney Scanlan—No. It was A. S. Trude.

Attorney Wing—Mr. Trude is a stranger to this case, and if any one intimates there are other lawyers in this defense he lies. You are a pack of slanderers so far as I know you. You are suspicious of yourself and the world.

"Attorney Scanlan was not in fighting mood. He had his peace to make with the court, and he made it by saying: 'I'm thinking over the matter I saw it was not right for me to allow that letter to be published during the trial, and no one has regretted it more than I.'"

"I accept your explanation," said the court, adding: "I shall not attempt to regulate the newspapers. They are certainly not aiding in the administration of justice in slandering the jury, in abusing the court and counsel, who are trying to do their duty, and in singling out certain jurors to brand them as corrupt men without a shadow of proof. The press have committed a great wrong upon honest citizens, who are deprived of the means of defending themselves until the end of the trial. I think the newspapers should be content to publish what happens in this court room."

The Crew Rescued.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Jan. 18.—A dispatch just received here says that the crew of the schooner Marie E. Wells, reported in a sinking condition by the steamer Amsterdam at New York, were rescued by the schooner Magnolia and landed at Halifax.

STABBED BY HIS MISTRESS.

William Haywood Killed With a Butcher Knife in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Jan. 18.—William Haywood was stabbed to death in his lunch stand at Eighth and Biddle streets last night. Jennie Leggett, alias Leggit, whom he discarded a month ago, committed the deed. Haywood and the woman, both colored, had frequent quarrels and a year ago Haywood almost killed his mistress, splitting her head with a hatchet.

About 7:40 last night she appeared at his lunch stand and demanded 50 cents. He refused to give her any money and a furious quarrel ensued. It ended by the woman rushing into the stand, seizing a butcher knife and stabbing Haywood in the left side. The blade pierced his heart. The Leggit woman was arrested this morning.

THE ADAMS SHUT OUT.

The St. Paul Express Company to Work With the American.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—The Record this morning says: Ex-Senator Thomas C. Platt, of New York, president of the United States Express company, was in Chicago yesterday. Before he left he had consummated a deal by which his company will occupy the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway and all its branches, retiring from the Chicago & Northwestern railway in favor of the American Express company.

This practically shuts out the Adams company, which has hitherto had the St. Paul business. The agreement goes into effect about March 1.

WANT FOUR MILLIONS.

Claims for Supplying Washington's Army With Supplies.

READING, Pa., Jan. 18.—Col. Nicholas Lotz, of this city, furnished supplies to Washington's army at Valley Forge. His heirs held a meeting here yesterday. They claim that he has never been paid in full and will shortly present a claim to congress for nearly $4,000,000. About forty interested persons were present. The necessary funds were subscribed to push the claim.

Shot Through the Heart.

HOUSTON, Texas, Jan. 18.—At 6 o'clock last night James McCane, head of a detective agency here, shot and instantly killed John F. Morris, head of another agency of the same kind. Three shots were fired, one entering the heart of Morris. McCane is in jail. Morris was shot by McCane's office and accused him of instigating a number of burglaries in the former's territory with a view of injuring his business. The men stepped out into a hallway and the shooting followed.

Homesteaders Win.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Two homesteaders as against the State of Minnesota and the Duluth & Iron Range railroad upon appeal before the commissioner of the general land office. They are Frank Le Elliott and Leon Blais. Elliott's claim is just back of Beaver bay and Blais' north of Tower, both in Lake Superior. The state claimed the land under the swamp land act, but the homesteaders proved that it was heavily timbered and suitable for agricultural purposes when cleared.

McNamara in Hiding.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 18.—J. V. McNamara, "ex-priest of Rome" whose arrest of the Catholic church and its priesthood created a riot at Turner hall, left the Midland hotel very quietly about 7 o'clock yesterday morning, his wife and secretary accompanying him. Nothing further is known of him. This action of McNamara's seems wise for public sentiment had so crystallized against him that his life would have again been in danger.

Beer to Be Destroyed.

JAMESTOWN, N. D., Jan. 18.—The district court of North Dakota yesterday ordered the sheriff of Stutsman county to destroy twenty-eight barrels of beer, one quarter barrels, and thirty cases of beer, ten barrels of bottled beer and one box of mixed drinks. The property belongs to the Minneapolis Brewing company and was found stored in the old Danner Brewery in this city.

Will Not Interfere.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—A special to the Herald from Springfield, Ill., says Governor Altgeld last night determined in the case of Erastus Lacro, who is sentenced to be hanged at Joliet on Friday next for the murder of Ellen Byron, that the law would be granted to him were not sufficient to warrant interference with the sentence of the law.

Will Not Extend It.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—The eastern committee of the Western Passenger association held a special meeting here yesterday at which it was decided not to extend the return limit of National Education association tickets to thirty days, but to adhere strictly to the arrangements adopted Saturday last.

Ex-Congressman Forged Dead.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—General regard was expressed at the capitol yesterday at the receipt of the intelligence of the death of ex-Representative Foreney, of Alabama, at his home in Jacksonville, Ala., where he has been dangerously ill for some time.

Pensions Granted Today.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The following pensions were granted today: Minnesota—Marshall Wilber, Minnehaha; Gustav Rosendahl, Minneapolis; Wisconsin—James Foster, Milwaukee; George F. Davenport, National Military home; William J. Davidson, Green Bay; Amy E. Conant, Lancaster; John Denney, Cookville.

May Ask Extensive Power.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 18.—A dispatch from Rome to the Independence Belge says that the intimate friends of Prime Minister Crispien believe that owing to the situation in Italy daily becoming warmer, he will demand of the chamber of deputies that it grant him extensive power be conferred on him for a year.

A RIOT AT KAUKAUNA

An A. P. A. Lecture by Walter A. Sims Precipitated a Serious Riot and Caused Wild Excitement.

Stones and Clubs Used and Revolvers Drawn and There Were Cries of "Lynch Him."

The Mayor Called on the Governor for Troops But Six Deputy Sheriffs Restored Order.

KAUKAUNA, Wis., Jan. 18.—The city was wild with excitement last night, the result of a riot precipitated by an address delivered by Walter A. Sims, an A. P. A. lecturer, Monday, Tuesday and last evening. He was promised protection by the local A. P. A. society. The hall was crowded, many Catholics being present. Those who could not gain admittance remained on the outside.

At the conclusion of his speech an excited crowd of men gathered on the street, and waited for the appearance of the speaker. When he did appear he was greeted with yells of derision, and there were cries of "lynch him." Stones and clubs were freely used and revolvers drawn. The friends of the speaker and the police escorted Mr. Sims through the angry crowd, which was growing more desperate every moment.

Later on Sims was badly hurt by a stone. Stones were thrown through the windows of the hall, and it is reported that several persons were hurt. Arrests are expected to follow. Professor Sims was escorted to the depot this morning under protection.

Troops Asked For.
MILWAUKEE, Jan. 18.—Governor Peck, who was here this morning, received a dispatch from the mayor of Kaukauna asking for troops to suppress the riot excited by Sims' A. P. A. lecture. Later he received advice that deputy sheriffs had arrived at Kaukauna from Appleton, and six of them armed with Winchester rifles, sent in early morning train and got him out of town. Troops therefore were not needed.

DOINGS OF CONGRESS TODAY.

The House Still Considering the Wool Tariff Schedule.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—After the disposal of some routine business the house at 11:20 o'clock went into committee of the whole to consider the Wilson bill. There was a lengthy discussion of the wool schedule.

The Senate.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—A note to the vice president from Senator Webster of Mississippi, stating he had sent to the governor of his state his resignation, to take effect on Jan. 24, was laid before the senate.

After a speech by Mr. Vest on the bill to repeal the federal election laws, an executive session was held, after which the rejection of Mr. Hornblower's name was made public and the senate adjourned until Monday.

THE DULUTH & WINNIPEG.

Congress Asked For Right-of-Way Through Reservations.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—[Special to The Herald.]—Senator Washburn today introduced a bill granting to the Duluth & Winnipeg Railroad company right-of-way through the Chippewa and White Earth reservations in Minnesota. The road can commence at some point on its already constructed lines and run in a general northwestern direction to some point on the western boundary line of the state or to some point on the northern boundary of the state, Salt Lake City, of the North and the Lake of the Woods, or to both such points.

Stations within the reservation must be at least six miles apart and the work of construction must be begun within three years after the passage of the act.

WILL USE A CIRCUS TENT.

The Duval Club Will Pull Off the Corbett-Mitchell Fight.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 18.—The best information is that the Duval club will attempt to pull off the fight near the city by chartering a special train and taking a circus tent with them and putting it up at the train stops. This can be done in St. John's, Clay, or Baker counties.

Little prospect is entertained of having it here. Troops will rendezvous here on Jan. 23 under the command of Sheriff Latta, now in Tallahassee, conferring with the governor about his powers, as his bondsman are very anxious about what he will have to do, as suits for damages against him are threatened by the club. Snapper Garrison and party arrived today, and "Hoost King" Kelly, the referee, will be here in the morning.

Wants the Fight.

OMAHA, Jan. 18.—The World-Herald this morning received the following telegram from Stockville, Neb.: "The Crocodile Athletic club of Stockville offers a prize of $50,000 in frontier county unimproved land for the Corbett-Gorbett fight, in case it cannot be brought off at Jacksonville and guarantees no interference from the governor."

Defying the Governor.
JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 18.—A special to the Times Union from Tampa, Fla., says that a glove contest has been arranged for Friday night between Joseph Robertson, of Tampa, James Johnson, of New York, for $1000, and also one between Ed Tilman, of Jacksonville, and Butler Greer, of Baltimore, for $500. The train from Tampa is encouraging the contests, claiming, as does the Duval Athletic club, that there is no law in Florida against prize fights. As Governor Mitchell's home is at Tampa, he is likely to be heard from.

THE IRON TRADE REVIEW.

Ore Producers Can Not Stand Any More Competition.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 18.—The Iron Trade Review says today: "While the general impression still prevails that industry is on the road to improvement, and that the iron trade is responding to the movement in other lines, it is still difficult to marshal specific indications of betterment. In none of the primary markets for iron has there been any considerable buying in the week just closing. The plight of the ore trade, to begin with, has been emphasized by the failure of an important Gogebic producer and the protests now going to Washington from all over the Lake Superior region are strongly reinforced by this demonstration that the iron ore producers of the country cannot stand an added finger-weight of competition."

"In pig iron there is little disposition on either side of the market to make a move. Eastern reports note that a few furnaces that have accumulated a good deal of stock have been inclined to unload at whatever price the market would afford, and in such cases transactions have been at 25 to 50 cents per ton below nominal quotations. The expectation is general among pig iron producers that a better demand is just ahead. In the Central West there has been almost a standstill in raw iron. Prices are another shade weaker. Pittsburgh gives no indications of improvement."

NEW ANTI-OPTION BILL.

It Will Differ Radically From Hatch's Former Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The so-called anti-option bill which Mr. Hatch, of the committee on agriculture, will introduce at this session will differ radically from the measure that was talked to death in the senate in the Fifty-second congress and was so bitterly opposed by all boards of trade in the country. The chairman has been in consultation with the internal revenue authorities, by whom the law will be enforced, if it becomes a law, and with other expert statisticians in the government service in regard to its provisions, and the result will be, it is understood, a bill that will not be prohibitive in its operations affecting legitimate trading bodies, but a straight revenue measure that will aim a telling blow at the bucket shop fraternity and wildcat speculation in the commodities of life.

STOLE DIAMOND RINGS.

A Whole Tray of "Sparks" Taken from a Boston Store.

BOSTON, Jan. 18.—When the salesmen in the Harrington & Freeman's jewelry store, 59 Court street, were busy in the back part of the room last evening a brick crashed through the plate-glass window and a thief snatched a tray containing thirty-six diamond rings valued at $3000 and escaped.

One of the clerks saw the tray disappear through the front window and rushed for the front door, but did not catch the man. The brick was wrapped up in a newspaper and was thrown with such force that it smashed a transom mirror five feet from the front window.

JURY COULD NOT AGREE.

The Suit of H. H. Porter Against Ex-Senator Sabin.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—In the suit of H. H. Porter against ex-Senator D. M. Sabin in the United States court the jury this morning came into court with a verdict in favor of Porter for $130,018. The defendant asked for a poll of the jury and two members said they had not agreed on the verdict. Judge Grosscup sent them back to deliberate further.

Later—the Porter vs. Sabin jury was unable to agree and was discharged by Judge Grosscup. The verdict which was brought in but which did not stand, allowed Porter $130,018 damages against the defendant, being the principal and interest of $100,000, which Porter invested in the Minnesota firm of Secor, Sabin & Co. The firm was afterwards organized into a car company which failed, and Porter's claim was that Sabin was responsible for the loss because he had made representations to the firm that were false in order to induce him to invest his money.

LAKE CARRIERS' MEETING.

DETROIT, Jan. 18.—There was a slight decrease at this morning's session of the Lake Carrier's association, but there was not the slightest decrease in the enthusiasm which prevailed yesterday. Capt. James Corrigan, the new president of the association, was introduced by the retiring president.

Gen. Wheeler, superintendent of the Soo canal, was then introduced and read a long paper on the Nicaragua canal and its relation to inland waterways. The association will endeavor to secure a reduction of rates for discharging iron ore cargoes; of the trimming rates; the handling of grain at Buffalo elevators and the lumber shoving rates.

The legislative committee will draft a bill to be presented to congress to widen the Lime Kiln crossing channel from 400 feet to 600 feet on the west side of the channel. This committee will also endeavor to secure a breakwater at Ash-tubula. The association will be incorporated to give it a legal existence. A uniform code bill of lading was adopted.

Secretary C. H. Keep, of Buffalo, Treasurer George P. McKay, of Cleveland, and Attorney Harvey D. Doulter, of Cleveland, were all re-elected to their offices. Rescess.

Bank Manager Arrested.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18.—H. M. Leonard, manager of the wrecked Santa Clara bank at San Jose, Cal., has been arrested at the instance of the grand jury charged with embezzling $8000. Leonard and the cashier, Hayward, now dead, managed to divert to themselves $200,000 of the bank's funds.

Two Men Arrested Last Night for Swindling Saloons Out of Whisky on an Old Dodge.

They Provided Themselves With Bottles of Colored Water and Worked Them Off on Bartenders.

They Pleaded Not Guilty When Arraigned in Court This Morning—Other Matters of Interest.

Tom Brown and John McKlusky were registered at police headquarters this morning under the charge of petty larceny. They pleaded not guilty at the tribunal of justice and their trial was set for this afternoon. The young men got into trouble by working the old colored-water dodge on several saloon keepers about town. Their scheme was to purchase a bottle of whisky and ask for credit after carefully depositing the bottle in their pocket. This modest demand would be refused by the bar tender, and after returning the bottle, or rather a counterpart filled with colored water, they would make a hasty departure. After playing a successful game at three different places and procuring about two quarts of the best whisky, the police caught on the scheme and arrested them on Second street south.

A Painful Accident.

LITTLE FALLS, Minn., Jan. 18.—Ernest Lemieux, 16 years old, who is employed at the paper mill in the night force, met with a very painful accident last night. His right hand was caught between two drying rollers, which heated by steam to a very high degree, and his arm was drawn in between them up to the shoulder. The belt which runs the machine caught and prevented more serious and probably fatal results. His arm was terribly burned and bruised.

Trading Was Not Very Large, But Prices Ruled Steady.

The wheat market today was dull, slow, but firm. It opened firm at a higher than yesterday for cash and wheat to arrive, and firm buyers of May at unchanged figures. LOOKS BAD FOR THEM

Communication From the General Land Office is Against the Pre-emptors Who Filed Last June.

All Pre-emption Filings Received Before Nine o'clock on the Day of Township Opening Declared Illegal.

Timber and Stone Men Regard This as a Great Victory and in Consequence Are Jubilant.

A lengthy communication from the commissioner of the general land office which was received by Register Taylor this morning makes plain the practice which is to be followed in cases of conflict between the pre-emptors who filed last June and the timber and stone claimants who filed over them. The commissioner decides all pre-emption filings which were received at the local office prior to 9 o'clock on the morning of the various townships were opened to filing, to be illegal; and they are obliged to come in and show cause why their said filings should not be cancelled.

The right to make new filings is accorded to such pre-emptors as have no timber and stone claim filed over them, but this right is denied where an adverse claim exists. As nearly all of the pre-emption filings have been covered by timber and stone filings, the privilege accorded to the pre-emptors of making second filings will avail them nothing. This decision is hailed as a glorious victory by the timber and stone applicants, and it certainly looks as if they had much the best of the fight for the lands in dispute.

DIVISION IS DISCUSSED.

The Question of Dividing the Episcopal Diocese.

"The Division of the Diocese of Minnesota" was the subject discussed at Minneapolis Tuesday evening at the epiphany meeting of the Church club, an organization composed of members from the different Episcopal churches in the state. On the subject of the discussion an able paper was presented by Rev. J. L. Faude, rector of Getsemane parish, of this city, and there were also addresses from Frederick Faine and E. W. Peet and Bishop Gilbert, of St. Paul.

Mr. Faude believed that something besides a division of the diocese and more ecclesiastical was necessary in the extending of the kingdom and the only excuse which could be offered for division was that a half a dozen missionaries could do more than one bishop. He favored the division, but the question he considered one merely of money. He expressed himself as in favor of the division, but in the event of its taking place it must be arranged so as to permit St. Paul and Minneapolis to be in separate dioceses. Thereafter the talk of three dioceses, with St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth as their centers.

Got a Job Under Sam.

Appointments to minor offices in the federal service are being made from time to time though little is said about them in the newspapers. The most recent is the appointment of John Flynn to a clerkship at White Earth Indian reservation. Mr. Flynn has gone to the reservation and assumed the duties of his office. Mr. Flynn comes from Litchfield, Minn., and is a nephew of William M. Campbell.

THE MASQUERADE BALL.

Turner Hall Was Packed Last Night—A Great Success in Every Way.

Turner hall was packed last evening and the annual masquerade ball was undoubtedly the most successful event ever given by the Duluth Turn Verein. Not only was the floor filled with a happy, jolly crowd of maskers, but the gallery was packed with spectators. In characters there was almost anything to be found, Spaniards, Sicilians, Italians, market women, flower girls, clowns, dandies and everything from the grotesque and ridiculous to the elaborate and elegant.

About 10:30 o'clock a grand march was called for by the judges, Henry Trevelsen, J. Cox and Fred Reynolds. When the unmasking came, a midnight dance was called for. Mrs. Jos. Schneider was declared to have the finest ladies costume, that of a drummer boy. The costume that best represented the character of a drummer boy was that of Mrs. William Meier, Pocahontas. The group of masked women, Mrs. Ernest Meier, Mrs. Rukowski, Mrs. Miller and Miss Jensen were awarded the prize as the best group.

Among the gentlemen, Joseph Flynn who wore a Spanish costume, was awarded the prize for the most elegant costume. John Gonska, a German monk, was decided to have the best characteristics, and the monks, P. S. Ande, Prof. Altheimer, Max Levy, F. Hase, F. Heinrich, L. Roos and F. Luerzer captured the prize for the best group. As to the hour of removing the masks only those in costume were on the dancing floor but afterward a large number of others joined in the dance and it was the early hours of morning before the lights were out.

IS WALL IN DULUTH?

A Young Millionaire in Trouble With His Girl.

In Justice Foster's court at the Harrison street station, Chicago, Tuesday morning was a handsome young woman whose face and dress showed plainly that she was not a frequent of the place. She gave the name of Jennie Howard and the charge against her was disorderly conduct.

The woman's arrest, says the Chicago Dispatch, was caused by Walter Singer, the young millionaire blood and son of the former wealthy sewing machine manufacturer. It was about midnight when young Singer rushed into the court station closely followed by the Howard woman, who was about thirty years of age. The woman appeared to be slightly intoxicated and talked in a loud tone and used some profane language. She was about thirty years of age and placed her under arrest. She put up a sum of money at the Harrison street station as security for her appearance and was released.

It was then learned that Millionaire Singer and the woman had been living together for several years in magnificent furnished rooms in the Argyle flats. Young Singer was much infatuated with the woman and had lavished money and jewelry upon her. He was leaving the station last night she deposited diamonds and jewelry valued at $1000 with the desk sergeant for safe keeping. This morning an $800 sealady coat encased her finely molded form and large sapphire diamonds glistened in her ears. When the case was called Singer begged to appear to prosecute and Justice Foster discharged the woman.

It now appears that the fair Jennie has been trilling with gold, with giddy brewer, and Walter, having learned of the matter had grown cold and concluded to leave her. Monday night he announced his intention of leaving for Duluth the next morning. A quarrel followed and Singer left the apartments in the Argyle flats and was followed by Jennie. Wherever he went she produced his heels until to escape her he rushed into the central station. After the woman's arrest he left the station and has not since been seen. Jennie now announces her intention of going to Europe with the rich brewer next week and forever forsaking Walter.

Second Annual Ball.

On Wednesday evening next the employees of the Duluth Street railway will give their second annual ball at the Pavilion, this making the twelfth building for this year. The first annual ball given last year has not been forgotten and was a thoroughly enjoyable well conducted affair. This year's ball was made even more elaborate and successful. The street railway company donates the use of the Pavilion. Horace's orchestra will play and supper will be served in the Pavilion.

An Unseen Enemy.

Is more to be dreaded than an open and visible one. That subtle and lurking foe, which under the generic name of malaria manifests itself, when it clutches us in its tenuous grasp, in the various forms of chills and fever, bilious remittent, dumb ague or ague cake, can only be effectually guarded against by fortifying the system against its insidious attacks with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a thorough antidote to the poison of malaria in the system and a safeguard against it thoroughly to be relied upon. In the event of a malarious attack, avoid poisoning your system with quinine and use instead this wholesome remedy, objectionable in taste and far more efficacious than any drug. Use the Bitters for dyspepsia, biliousness, constipation, kidney complaints and rheumatism.

STOP THE CALAMITY TALK.

Ex-Senator Bowen Thinks There Are Too Many Duluth Wall.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Is it not about time for us to call a halt on the duluth wall, the calamity howls, as they may well be termed, regarding the ruin that confronts Duluth in case iron ore is placed on the free list?

Possibly what I have to urge on this subject may be regarded as the views of a Democrat. But really I am not in favor of placing iron ore on the free list. I have reasons for that stand, reasons which in my humble opinion are abundantly fortified by Democratic doctrines and traditions. If I have studied them correctly.

But that is neither here nor there; my opinion is of no particular consequence in the turmoil of persons and parties over specified tariff schedules. But I do think that as a community we are making a serious mistake when we make the very heavens resound with our predictions of impending ruin in case the Wilson bill is passed as it now stands.

Have we not published to the world with our characteristic vigor and boldness that we have at our doors the greatest iron mines in the world, the best in quality, the cheapest in production? Have we not claimed that eventually we would close down the iron mines of less favored sections because they could not compete with us in quality and cheapness? It was about midnight when young Singer rushed into the court station closely followed by the Howard woman, who was about thirty years of age. The woman appeared to be slightly intoxicated and talked in a loud tone and used some profane language. She was about thirty years of age and placed her under arrest. She put up a sum of money at the Harrison street station as security for her appearance and was released.

And is not all this true? I believe it is. Have we not upon these claims and assumptions attracted capital and industries and population to our city? Have we not upon the basis of our great resources fanned our minds, one and all, into a common faith in the inevitable destiny of Duluth?

But to-day, upon the heels of our proud boasts, the mourners go about the streets predicting ruin and ruin simply because it is proposed in congress to reduce taxation on iron ore. Is not this pitiful? One might paraphrase Mark Twain's language and exclaim:

O mighty Duluth,

Are all thy conquests, triumphs, glories,

Shrunk to this little measure?

The articles published by some of our newspapers have sounded this key note and joining in the chorus the calamity howlers on the street, tariff or no tariff, and offices have echoed it. Nine-tenths of them have not a dollar's interest in iron mines and at least half of them don't know a piece of ore from a chunk of lava. But even the idlers must preach it, because it is the current cry. And so we are anxious of late to hear nothing but advertising it broadcast, that our property depends on the measure of "protection" we receive from the government.

Wherever we go, it is produced elsewhere. Some day, when we come to our senses, when we are making earnest efforts to encourage the influx of new industries and the investment of capital and great industries from other places, we shall be spending thousands of dollars at 20 cents a line in the newspapers and journals to prove that what we claim today is sheer humbug.

We do have the best iron mines in the world. We can produce ore cheaper than any other mineral region. We are able to lay this ore down at the leading furnaces of the world. States champion iron Canada or Cuba, tariff or no tariff, Duluth fears no foe, asks no favors. Until we, as a community, realize these facts and stand by them there will be no activity in Duluth real estate, there will be no new mills and factories nor jobbing houses, there will be no abundance of money from the outside for investment. We cannot expect strangers to have faith in the future of this city unless we have faith in it ourselves.

There can be no political argument on this point. If what I claim for Duluth is true, then we can afford to be "serene and confident" so far as the Wilson bill is concerned. If, however, free iron ore is a calamity to our city, we had better take it on our sign and abate what might be the deeply felt just resentment of our lofty pretensions. THOMAS E. BOWEN, Duluth, Jan. 18.

Cheap Rates to California.

The Northern Pacific railroad has put into effect a series of low round trip rates to California points. Tickets are good until April 30, 1914, and are good for stop over under certain conditions. These rates will enable those desiring to do so, to spend the winter in Southern California or to visit the midwinter fair to be held at San Francisco. This latter event will undoubtedly be second only in the world's fair just closed and will repay a visit as it will exhibit the resources and capabilities of California.

CURLERS AT ST. PAUL

President Towne Says the Duluth Men Spend Most of Their Time Whistling for Weather.

Another Rink May Go Down Tomorrow and Enter in the Bonspiel, Making Three in All.

Three Rainy Lake Gold Land Contests Are on at the United States Land Office Today.

President E. P. Towne, of the Athletic club came back from St. Paul this morning. He says the curlers down there are more than praying for cold weather, but alas, their prayers seem to fall on deaf ears. Every few minutes Kon MacLeod and Sam Fullerton skip out of the hotel to see whether it is growing colder. Another man, supposedly from Duluth, wets his towel, hangs it out of the window and then gets up every few minutes in the night and feels it to see if it is growing stiff with cold. There probably never has been a dinner of curlers gathered together in the country than there is in St. Paul this week, says Mr. Towne, and it seems unfortunate that the week selected should be the only one of the whole winter in which it is impossible to curl.

It is not improbable that another rink will go down to St. Paul tomorrow and enter in the bonspiel. Arrangements have been made whereby a third Duluth rink can be given a place. It may be that George McKenney's rink will go down. President Towne thinks the Duluth rinks have a fair show to capture something in the way of prizes. R. J. MacLeod's rink is depended upon to sustain the Duluth reputation and there is nothing about Harry Hurdon's either.

Is Nearing the End.
The lien case of A. P. Wilson et al. vs. Lydia H. Roe, is still on before Judge Lewis today, but the end is in sight. The defendant rested shortly before noon. The plaintiff's rebuttal testimony and the arguments are yet to come. There is now but one more case on the calendar and that is to be tried on Monday. This has been the longest drawn out term that has been known in St. Louis county for some years.

Persons still remains general manager and he has seven institutes now under his charge.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a running ear, which is often attended with pain, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. P. A. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio. 237 South Broadway, Mo.

A Little Talk Upon a Universal Subject.
During the present week the people of this city will be furnished samples of Rahr's Malt Coffee, which has been so successfully introduced in many cities of Wisconsin. The coffee, as its name implies, will be furnished samples of Rahr's Malt Coffee, which has been so successfully introduced in many cities of Wisconsin. The coffee, as its name implies, will be furnished samples of Rahr's Malt Coffee, which has been so successfully introduced in many cities of Wisconsin.

When the great harm that the free use of coffee causes is considered, it must be admitted that the manufacturers of malt coffee deserve the applause of everyone. They have discovered a valuable thing for themselves, but is no less valuable for humanity. In a short time every family in Duluth will be using it. The laborer will drink it because it is cheap and good, and the brain-worker because it exhilarates without weakening and underrunning the system.

If you want to test the exhilarating and life-giving qualities of pure malt coffee, try Rahr's Malt Coffee according to direction. You will notice its remarkably health-giving and beneficial effects after using it only a short time, and will prefer it to the finest Mocha or Java coffee. In Rahr's Malt Coffee we have malt in its purest, most palatable and assimilable form. We produce a great and well-deserved success for the coffee.

GOSSIP OF THE TOWN.

How Endion People Stand on the Mayoralty Question—Other Talk.

"We had a pretty interesting talk at the East End last night," said an Endionite today, "at which thirty voters were present. After discussing the almanac situation to our satisfaction we polled the meeting on the mayoralty question and the result was twenty-six votes for Ray T. Lewis, two for M. J. Davis, one for H. R. Spencer and one for J. R. Carey, and I am of opinion that this is a fair expression of public opinion down in our alley."

"I was in Minneapolis the other day," said George Crosby, the real estate man, "and I was fortunate enough to secure the attention of a gentleman who was looking for a chance to locate himself in business. I represented to him the great natural advantages enjoyed by Duluth and he has since decided to locate here. He will commence operations in March upon a large new dock and warehouse and will engage in general wharfage and storage business. The location of his premises is decided upon but as the deal is not yet closed I cannot make it public."

In speaking of the workings of the Associated Charities, James H. James said last night that in Chicago every body who is in is to be expected to do it through the association. The bums and deadbeats show up in their true colors directly a charity ticket is offered to them. The worthy poor are only too glad to obtain them. Mr. James also said the work done by the association in Chicago was beyond all praise and hundreds of people were being looked after and helped along who otherwise would suffer their misery in silence and solitude.

"I hope" said R. S. Munger today "to see the Republicans of Duluth unite this year upon a good man for mayor and elect him to the office. Duluth never needed a level headed business man in the mayor's chair more than she does now. We want a man of more than ordinary business ability and one whose track record will bear the closest investigation and whose standing both in business and social circles is undeniable."

Last night a short stout real estate man rushed into the St. Paul & Duluth ticket office and shouted to Walter Whitton "Hide me, save me, he is after me with a gun." Walter, accommodating as usual, put the trembling man in a safe place and, locking the door, started out to investigate. He found the clue in a barber shop. The short man had gone in to get shaved where there was a tall man having his hair cut. The long man had a gun and also had a monumental jag. The short man to wit away the time began toying with some razors, when all of a sudden the six-footer bounced out of his chair and pulling out a gun, yelled at the other, "Get out, you can't carve me, get!" at the same time covering the little man with his gun. The little man made a break for the door, knocked over the colored porter, fell over a dog, and finally finished up exhausted in the ticket office. The big man got his hair cut finished. The short man still insists that his friend is afraid that he has got "over the bay."

"I have settled my registration question which is troubling so many," said Lewis Brownell this morning, while swapping campaign stories with the gang at the city hall. "I have settled it by deciding that every voter must register anew. No transfers go."

"What is your authority for that view of the law?" asked a bystander. "Brownell on Common Sense," was the prompt rejoinder of the irrepressible lawyer. "Where I used to live," he continued, "there was a great big farmer. He had but little education and his early religious training had been neglected. At length, however, Farmer Jones got converted, and I remember his first prayer in public. It wound up with these words: 'O Lord! take away our old sins and give us new ones.' So in this case—"

A policeman was out after Bob Benson, Tom McLaughlin and Dan Blanchard. From that a stranger might think that they had been accused of stealing chickens, but such is not the case. They acted as judges Tuesday in the Third precinct of the Fifth ward and the next day they neglected to return their registration books and blanks to the city clerk. Not only that, but they have neglected to do so ever since. This morning City Clerk Richardson sent out an officer with orders to get either the books or the judges.

This Year's Officers.
The annual meeting of the Clyde Iron company was held at its office yesterday and the following officers elected for the ensuing year: Charles P. Craig, president; M. H. Wardwell, vice president; R. A. Webster, superintendent; A. G. Brown, treasurer; George D. Kirkham, secretary. The stockholders were much pleased with the excellent showing for the past year and agreeably surprised by the prospect of quite an increase in business in the near future.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 18.—The weather in Southern Russia is becoming colder. At Odessa there is a field of ice that extends twenty miles seaward. The port is exhilarated without weakening and underrunning the system.

A Feast.
Mr. Sam Atkinson, the well-known caterer, has been engaged to serve the supper at the ball to be given by the Duluth Street Railway association at the Pavilion next Wednesday evening. A most tempting menu will be served, comprising delicacies to suit the most fastidious palate, including oysters, chicken and, in fact, everything in season. Mr. Atkinson's reputation as a caterer is a guarantee that an elaborate feast will be served.

TRADE IMPROVED

Summary of Reports from All the Leading Trade Centers Shows an Improvement Has Occurred.

There is no Boom Anywhere, Nor is the Revival Great, but Things Are Better.

Mills Are Picking Up Because Orders Are in and Stocks Are Nearly Exhausted.

Business Improving in Montana and the Mines Turning Out Twenty-Four Millions Yearly.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Under the head of "Business Revival in Sight," the Times today presents a summary of the trades which, it claims, show that there has been a visible improvement in the business situation since the opening of the new year. It says: "Better times are at hand and in many branches of trades their coming are already noted."

There is, of course, no general revival of business activity. It would be foolish and futile to pretend that the trade and industries of the country have fully recovered from the depression that began last July. The steady accumulation of idle money in the New York banks would disprove any sweeping assertions of that nature.

"But the evidence is ample that the worst has passed, that we have turned the corner and are now on the mend. The rapidity of the recovery will be measurably increased by the fact that there are no large stocks of goods on hand. The jobbers' shelves and the manufacturers' floors are bare. The large number of mills that have lately started up indicate that orders have begun to come in, and to fill orders the mills will make the goods."

BUSINESS IS IMPROVING. Montana Copper Mines Producing $20,000,000 a Year.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 19.—Martin Maginnis, the well known silver advocate and Democratic ex-congressman of Montana, and his wife have arrived here on a visit to the Midwinter fair. He says that business throughout Montana is improving and that the Day, Boston and other copper mines are very busy, producing in the aggregate $20,000,000 worth of ore annually.

TO BE MARRIED SUNDAY. Lillian Russell and Signor Perugini Ready to Wed.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Lillian Russell and Signor Perugini announce that their marriage will take place on Sunday afternoon next at 3 o'clock instead of March 18. It will take place at Miss Russell's home on Seventy-ninth street and the ceremony will be followed by a dinner in the evening.

There was some speculation as to whether the marriage could take place in this state, as Harry Braham, Lillian's first husband, got a divorce from her here, but apparently she has got around this difficulty, as Judge McAdam, who annulled her marriage with Teddy Solomon, will officiate.

Tom Johnson's Speech. WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The demand for the tariff speech made last week by Representative Tom L. Johnson, of Cleveland, in which he pleaded for free steel rails, already announced, has been met. Mr. Johnson is getting out an edition of 250,000 and says he is willing to circulate 1,000,000 if the people want it. As to the effects of the tariff, he says he succeeds in getting steel rails on the free list he will have done enough to compensate him for his four years' work.

Dr. Herz Growing Worse. LONDON, Jan. 19.—Within the past few days the condition of Dr. Cornelius Herz, whose name has been mentioned in connection with the Panama scandal and who came to England shortly after the first exposure of the scandal was made, has become more serious. He remains in his room at the hotel at Bournemouth, where he was arrested exactly a year ago.

An Old Republican Gone. CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—A special to the Herald from Jacksonville, Ill., says: John Haley Spears, an associate of Lincoln and one of the founders of the Republican party in this state, died at his home in this county yesterday at the age of 92 years. He was born in Kentucky, but removed to this state nearly seventy years ago, when all about here was a wilderness.

Black Smallop. CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Mrs. Minard, of South Campbell avenue, died yesterday at 4 o'clock. Homer F. Warren, assistant city physician, said the woman was sick only two days and that she was stricken with "black" smallop, the first case encountered in the city. He added that the smallop sign was posted as soon as the health officers were informed of the case.

Is an Impostor. WESTCHESTER, Pa., Jan. 19.—H. N. Bonfield, of Zanesville, Ohio, who was supposed to have been robbed by negroes and thrown on the track at West Grove, turns out to be an impostor. He cut out otherwise himself and concocted the story of assault and robbery. He was arrested at West Grove last night by Philadelphia detectives as he is wanted on various charges over the country.

ERNEST LACOUR HANGED.

The Murderer of Little Nellie Byron Executed This Morning.

JOLIET, Ill., Jan. 19.—The execution of Ernest Lacour for the murder of little Nellie Byron on Aug. 6 last in Wesley township, took place in a shed adjoining the jail at 10:30 this forenoon. Promptly at 10:30 he walked upon a scaffold and stood erect until the rope was placed around his neck, hands and feet strapped and the death robe placed around him. He displayed the most nerve that was ever seen at an execution and never flinched. He bid all present good bye and said he hoped to meet them all in the other world.

The crime for which Lacour was executed was committed on Aug. 6 last. Lacour was employed on the farm of Michael Byron, six miles north of Wilmington. As Byron's 13-year-old daughter Ella was coming through a wooded pasture near her way from church Lacour who had been hiding among the trees, seized and assaulted her, breaking her neck in the struggle. He afterwards went to work as though nothing had happened and two days afterward the body of the murdered child was found within forty rods of her home in a clump of hazel brush, where Lacour left her. He at first denied the crime, but afterwards when confronted with evidences of his guilt, confessed, saying that he was under the influence of liquor when he committed the murder.

IRON AND STEEL INDUSTRY. There Must Be Improvement Within Sixty Days.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 19.—The American Manufacturer says concerning the "outlook" of the iron and steel industry: "Reports from Eastern and Western iron centers indicate a slight increase in demand for crude and finished material. Inquiry is also made for supplies for railroad, boat and shipyard and for general machine shop work to cover February and March requirements. Chicago reports a somewhat better demand for structural material. Supplies are very low among nearly all classes of consumers."

"It is probable that no very heavy demand will set in for some time to come, because of the very widespread depression and the feeling that there is sufficient capacity to meet any probable demands. The crude iron market is unsettled by rumors of further shadings both from Northern and Southern iron making centers. At several points, the lowest prices ever reached in mill iron are reported, and although there seems to be no special drive being made by pig iron producers prices grow weaker."

"At three or four Western points there is evidence of a strong demand for material entering into agricultural requirements. Reports from Eastern markets show very little improvement and much uncertainty as to the future course of the market. The crude iron market is unsettled by rumors of further shadings both from Northern and Southern iron making centers. At several points, the lowest prices ever reached in mill iron are reported, and although there seems to be no special drive being made by pig iron producers prices grow weaker."

"The police state that in their opinion the habits of the woman have not been of the best and that the woman that caused her death was inflicted by some disappointed or jealous lover."

No Prospect of Settlement. DUNBURY, Conn., Jan. 19.—Yesterday's conference in the long drawn out fight between the hatmakers and the bosses lasted from 2 o'clock in the afternoon until shortly after midnight, and then the manufacturers' committee withdrew in submission to a reduction for a short time. It is said the committee were in a fair way of reaching a settlement when the men rejected a proposition made by the manufacturers that the men submit to a reduction for a short time. This proposition was rejected with great indignation. It is thought there will be no more conferences.

The Serbian Crisis. LONDON, Jan. 19.—A dispatch to the Central News from Vienna, says that the Serbian government has formed a cabinet. The new ministers are partisans of ex-king Milan and among the number are several military officers. It is believed that the new ministry will propose an adjournment of the skupschina and the suspending of the constitution.

The Internal Revenue Bill. WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The meeting of the majority members of the ways and means committee called for the morning to finally pass upon the internal revenue bill, was postponed until tonight. It is probable now that the bill will not be reported to the house until Monday next.

Resignation Requested. WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The secretary of the treasury has asked for the resignation of Frank W. Pense, chief of the fiscal division, office of the supervising architect.

HANGED IN A RAVINE.

Albert M. Bomberger, the Murderer of the Krieger Family in North Dakota, Executed This Afternoon.

The Scaffold Was in a Deep Ravine Surrounded by High Hills a Mile from Cando.

Thousands of People Climbed the Hills and Watched Every Detail of the Shocking Event.

CANDO, N. D., Jan. 19.—Albert M. Bomberger was hanged this afternoon about a mile from this place in a deep ravine surrounded by high hills, for the brutal murder, July 6, 1893, of six members of the Krieger family. A tight board fence about six feet high surrounded the scaffold, but the execution was witnessed by thousands of people who climbed the hills and watched every detail of the event.

The story of the crime is as follows: Alfred F. Bomberger, who committed one of the most horrible and revolting crimes ever known in the history of this country, was 22 years of age, on Feb. 18, 1893. His parents and relatives live in and near Lebanon City, Pa. When 17 years of age Bomberger ran away from home and worked his way from place to place, traveling through all the Western states until December 1892, when he obtained work at the farm of Daniel Krieger, a well-to-do farmer with a family of eight children, at Cando, N. D. He soon took a fancy to the oldest girl, Annie Krieger, 15 years of age, and upon several occasions made indecent proposals to her, which were always rejected. On July 4 Bomberger had been drinking and on the night of July 6, between the hours of 12 and 1 o'clock he went to Annie's bedroom and again tried to accomplish his purpose, but was resisted, and when she threatened to call her parents he left the room, but only to brood over his failed passion.

In the morning while attending to his chores he formed the awful resolve of killing the family. Immediately entering the house, he procured a double-barrel shotgun, and a hunting knife, and went to the man who had befriended him lay peacefully sleeping, he poured the contents of one barrel into his unsuspecting victim's head. Mrs. Krieger, who was in the kitchen preparing the morning meal, was the next one to die at his hands. Up the stairs while passion held sway he started and killed out much shot Merby, an 11-year-old girl. Mary, aged 9 and David, 7 years old, came next on the death list.

Thus far five had fallen by the murderer's hand. A 13-year-old girl named Bernice had jumped from the window and died to the bare while the fiend was at his work. Bomberger, following her, started in to put an end to her innocent life, but she begged so piteously to be allowed to see her father and a mother, brothers and sisters again that he took her to the house. After allowing her this last privilege he raised the gun and, while the poor little child crouched in the corner with her hands shielding her face, he deliberately shot her dead. At this juncture he turned out of the house and the second child he had shot, was not yet dead, and seeing a butcher knife he finished his bloody work by cutting her throat.

The other children, including Annie, he had ordered into his room until he could complete his awful work. He now entered the room and ordered the children to get up. Then proceeding to the barn he ordered her to follow. There, after outdressing the terrified girl again, he commanded her to go to the house and get breakfast for him in the room where her mother lay mangled, bleeding and dead. But his appetite failed him, and he ordered her to put up a lunch for him, which she did. Again ordering her to the barn he took her into the barn and bound her as he thought, securely, and mounting the pony started away. He headed his horse for the Canadian line.

Two days after he bade Annie Kreider goodbye, a prisoner at her desolate home he was captured without resistance by Sheriff McCune, of Cando. By this time the Cando people who had been alarmed by Annie's disappearance, had organized the help of the other surviving children, had started in pursuit as a mob. Sheriff McCune succeeded in finding him in Grand Forks county jail, and passing on to Devils Lake, Bomberger was incarcerated in the jail at that place, but as excited crowds began to gather and threatening demonstrations were made, the prisoner was removed to Grand Forks and placed in Sheriff Fadden's care. Word was sent Sheriff Fadden one evening that a delegation from Cando were on their way to the city with the avowed intention of getting the prisoner. Rather than swear in an army of deputies to guard the jail and run the risk of more blood being spilled, the sheriff accepted the more reasonable alternative and removed Bomberger to Fargo, going by way of Winnipeg Junction. The mob proved to be but a delegation of nineteen of the law-abiding citizens and prominent business men of Cando. Bomberger was returned the next evening with his prisoner and landed him once more behind the bars in Grand Forks county jail.

At first the people of Cando demanded a special term of court and the speedy trial of the murderer, but Judge Morgan refused to take up the case until the regular term of court in November, at which time Bomberger was taken to Cando. The grand jury made short work of the matter and on Nov. 21 Bomberger was arraigned in the church—the court house being too small to accommodate the great crowd. When called to plead to the indictments, Bomberger said he was guilty. Judge Morgan then remanded him for sentence, the law requiring that two days shall elapse between conviction and sentence. Therefore, on Nov. 23 Bomberger was again brought into court, and Judge Morgan, after the district attorney had stated the facts in the case, sentenced him to be

DOINGS OF CONGRESS TODAY.

Mr. Johnson's Steel Rail Speech Halted by Mr. Dalzell.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—There was a much better attendance of members when the house met this morning than for some time past. At 11:10 the house went into committee of the whole to consider the Wilson tariff bill.

At the request of Mr. Wilson (chairman of the committee on ways and means) unanimous consent was given to consider the sugar schedule of the Wilson bill for three hours immediately after the house goes into committee of the whole next Monday and that the vote shall then be taken.

Mr. Dalzell then took up the line of attack against Mr. Johnson, of Ohio, on which he was engaged when the house took a recess yesterday evening. He asserted that Mr. Johnson had misled the committee into the belief that he was a manufacturer of steel rails in general, whereas he was a manufacturer of a particular style and a monopolist in that class.

Mr. Dalzell summarized his charges against Mr. Johnson as being: First, that he had misstated the facts before the committee; second, that he was anxious to have steel rails put in the free list while he was still protected by 102 United States patents; third, that he forced his employees into receiving their wages in one-third cash and two-thirds scrip; fourth, that he made a statement on the floor of the house in regard to the redemption of those certificates which was untrue; fifth, that he privately altered the stenographer's notes and inserted in the record a statement he did not make on the floor, which was true, and eliminated a statement he did make on the floor which was untrue.

Again, referring to the question of scrip, he asserted this scrip was hawked about the streets of Johnston and it was bought up by a relative of Mr. Johnson at a discount. The statement of Mr. Johnson that he paid better wages than the other mills Mr. Dalzell characterized as untrue. He had direct evidence from a person who was in a position to know that the wages paid at the Johnson mills were not higher than at the other mills.

The amendment proposed by Mr. Johnson putting steel rails on the free list, was lost by a vote of 70 in the affirmative to 130 in the negative.

BETTING FAVORS CORBETT. But the Duval Club Has a Job to Pull Off the Fight.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 19.—Sheriff Brown returned from Tallahassee this noon. He went to get full and detailed instructions as to his duty. Says Governor Mitchell is highly indignant over the defiant attitude of the club and says that the fight will be stopped at all hazards, if possible to do so.

The club people say that they will pull the fight off in secret, but seem exceedingly anxious about it. Jack Dempsey will second Corbett. Bets are $100 to $500 in favor of Corbett.

The Fight Will Occur. ATLANTA, Jan. 19.—A special from Jacksonville says: The Duval Athletic Club has leased the railway to Mayport, Fla., for Jan. 25. In case the governor stops the fight at the arena the fight will occur at some point on that road. The club will allow no one on the train without an admission ticket. In this event the fight will take place under a tunnel holding 600 persons. It will be impossible for the governor to stop the fight. The tip will be given as to the location on Jan. 24 and the battle will be fought to a finish on Jan. 25. Both men are training hard and the town is full of sports. Mitchell is growing in favor of the betting today.

SEVEN CONVICTS ESCAPED. A Battle With Four of Them Resulted Fatally.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 19.—Seven desperate convicts escaped from the Pratt mines early last night by blowing open an iron grating with dynamite. Guard John Patton was seriously hurt by the explosion.

A posse of officers, led by Deputy Sheriff Frank Dexter, came up with four escaped convicts this morning near Gorthie. Dexter called on the convicts to surrender, when a battle followed, the convicts having secured guns. Dexter was instantly killed and one of the convicts fatally hurt.

The others escaped but officers with dogs are in pursuit. The convicts are led by Jim Morrison, the noted Bibb county desperado. Further bloodshed is expected.

Five Hundred Men Get Work. PITTSBURGH, Jan. 19.—The Howard Plate Glass works at Duquesne, employing over 500 men, has resumed in full. The plant has been idle four months. Prospects favor a steady run. Six shops will be started tomorrow in McKeesport.

SUICIDE OF A JUDGE.

One of the Ablest Jurists on the Bench of Massachusetts Took His Own Life.

Judge Charles Thompson, of Gloucester, Who Had Been Ill for Some Time, Shot Himself.

Was a Prominent Democrat and Once Defeated Ben Butler for Congress in Gloucester District.

BOSTON, Jan. 19.—A dispatch from Gloucester to the City Press association states that Judge Charles Thompson, of the superior court, shot himself in the temple, while sitting in his library at 10:15 this morning. The members of the family, the dispatch says, decline to talk of the matter, but the report of the suicide is verified by a neighbor who was called in at the time. He had been ill for some time.

Judge Thompson was born in Braintree, Mass., July 30, 1837. In 1874 he was chosen congressman from the Gloucester district, defeating Gen. Benjamin F. Butler.

In 1876 he was house chairman of the committee to investigate the Florida election case and brought in a minority report thereon. He was twice a candidate for governor upon the Democratic ticket. He was appointed judge of the superior court by Governor Robinson and was one of the jurists on the bench.

APPOINTMENTS HELD UP. The President Waiting For J. J. Hill or Mike Doran to Arrive.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—[Special to The Herald.]—Inside information from administration circles today is that the president will make no big Minnesota appointments until either James J. Hill or his patronage broker agent, Mike Doran, arrives in Washington. It is also stated that the appointment of Fred L. Ryan as receiver of the Duluth land office will be delayed until Doran is heard from.

A. McGilivray, of Duluth, is in the city to delegate to the convention of the mine engineers which will assemble here next Tuesday.

LYNCHED BY A MOB. The Fate of a Negro Who Set a Corn Crib on Fire.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 19.—An unknown negro was lynched on the Greenwood plantation owned by Charles Reed near Rayou Sara, in the parish of West Feliciana, last Wednesday night. Some time ago the corn crib on Reed's place was burned and he concluded that it was set on fire. Suspicion pointed to the negro as being the guilty party. It was proposed to organize a mob to go to the negro's house and give him a severe beating.

The mob was organized, and on Wednesday night they cautiously approached the cabin of the negro and attempted to take him by surprise. Mary, heard them coming, however, and prepared to meet them. Just as the men appeared in front of his house the negro threw up the window and thrusting a double-barreled shotgun through the opening killed away.

One man named Roberts, an employee was killed outright, and a son of the proprietor, Mr. Reed, was badly wounded. After firing the shots, the negro attempted to escape. He was twice wounded and was finally captured. Yesterday morning his body was found hanging to a tree on the plantation.

THE RABBI WAS A NASCUL. Forged Paper, Ran in Debt and Was Engaged to Four Girls.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 19.—The conduct of Farber, the Hebrew rabbi of Macon, is creating the greatest sensation that Macon has had in a long time. Farber forged orders, notes and other papers on Sam Waxelbaum, Simon Josephson and others, amounting to between $1,000 and $2,000, and bought everything on credit that he could get.

His wife died recently and he leaves two small children behind, one a baby 1 year old. One of the children is to be put in the Hebrew orphan asylum, and the other will be adopted by a well-known family.

Farber was engaged to be married to four different girls and two of them have their trousseaus ready. He induced one of the girls to resign her position as typewriter of a leading law firm to marry him. One of his fiancées lives in Atlanta. The story is that one of the girls has been ruined by him and vengeance is sworn.

The Work of Anarchists. PARIS, Jan. 19.—An explosion occurred last evening outside the residence of M. Ducret, the editor of Cocarde, at Neuilly-sur-Seine, a western suburb of Paris. The explosion made a tremendous noise, but did very slight damage. The police believe that the affair was the work of anarchists.

Detectives All at Sea. GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Jan. 19.—The board of Kent county supervisors yesterday offered a reward of $500 for the arrest of the murderer or murderers of Mrs. Miller McKendrick. All clues have been run down and the detectives are all at sea as to the slayer of the Scotch woman.

Everybody is Talking Politics Now and Advancing the Claims of Their Favorites for Aldermen.

Democrats Know the Eighth Ward is Republican, but Think They Have a Fighting Chance.

Dr. Burnside is Talked of as a Candidate--The Two Colored-Water Whisky Swindlers Sentenced.

Politics warm up a little each day and the friends of the candidates are beginning to gather in groups and suggest names that they think would add strength to the party ticket. The eighth ward is acknowledged by the Democrats to be strongly Republican, but the former are discussing candidates as earnestly as the latter, on the theory that if the Republicans make a mistake in nominations there will be a chance in sight to overcome their majority.

A prominent Democrat said this morning that his party was looking for able men and it was as politicians did not come forward with the best in their ranks they would lose the fight despite of their boasted numbers and that many lines were not yet drawn. He said that a good man could win on either ticket. Dr. Burnside is talked of on the Democratic side and if he could be induced to run it is believed by the Democrats that he would be a formidable candidate.

The seventh ward is considered more evenly divided from a party standpoint and the Democrats think they have about an even chance with their opponents.

Sentenced to Thirty Days.
Thomas Brown and John McKlusky, who successfully battered colored water for whisky at various places about town, were sentenced yesterday afternoon to serve a term of thirty days in the county jail for petty larceny. Report charges the same parties with various offenses and it is said that they have been pilfering small articles of various kinds for some time past. They have been rooming over a saloon on Second street south and at the time of their arrest a quantity of bread was found which is supposed to be the same stolen from a baker's cart a few days ago. They are old offenders and this is not the first time that they have been out from behind the bars.

West Duluth Drifts.
H. J. Longstreet is on the sick list. Henry Green is ill with la grippe. West Duluth is afflicted with a number of cases of winter cholera. The friends of Chris Murphy, now of Grand Marais, will be pleased to learn that he has entered the state of matrimony and that the new arrival is a girl. Mrs. James is receiving a visit from her sister, Mrs. Nancy Goldthwaite, of Detroit.

Jesse Hopkins, of Iowa, is visiting at the home of P. J. Cowan.

The Misses Nellie and Dehila Day pleasantly entertained a party of young people at their home on Grand avenue last evening. Cards, dancing and refreshments served to while away a happy occasion. A number were present from Duluth.

Born--to Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Overton, of Smithville, a son, and also to L. Beaubien and wife, of Second avenue west a son.

Oncota W. C. T. U. met this afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Emily Merritt, with Mrs. Palmer as leader.

Absence Makes the Heart Grow Fonder.
It was in the early summer when my love and I were parted. She had just left for a trip, then made me ponder.

She the seaside sought and left me in the city broken hearted-- I to wander through the summer, she on sea kissed shore to wander.

But her last words gave me comfort--"Absence makes the heart grow fonder."

How I loved the little letters that from time to time she sent me! As I read it seemed that they a momentary breeze left me.

While she wrote of picnics, bathing, yachting trips, then bade me ponder.

Well the words of that old saying, "Absence makes the heart grow fonder."

One more letter yet she sent me while she sat in the seaside tent.

Laughing at our "wild flirtation," telling me that she was married.

And "fare thee well" she said--"I read my face grew yellow--"

"Absence makes the heart grow fonder," tender of the other fellow!"

A PROSPEROUS EXILE.

How "Boss" Shepherd Has Made a Fortune in Mexico.

The world has heard but little of late of the man who 20 years ago was alternately famous and infamous as the beautifier and the "boss" of the Capital City of the nation. Alexander R. Shepherd, formerly governor of the District of Columbia. Yet the career of this American Baron Haussmann subsequent to his downfall has been as full of romantic vicissitudes as a Haggard novel, and now he is a "boss" again, in something more than the political sense, and rules with despotic sway over a little city of his own, which he has built to protect some fabulously rich silver mines near Batopilas, in the canyon of the Rio Grande, north of the mountain fastnesses of the Sierra Madre in the southwestern corner of the state of Chihuahua, Mexico.

Practically an exile from his native land, almost "flat broke," Shepherd with wonderful luck found his way to Batopilas just after one of the regularly recurrent revolutions on which so many Mexicans depend for fame and fortune. An American citizen owned a mine there which had been seized by the revolutionists and held for several months. They were finally driven out by the government troops, but left the mine in a chaotic condition, the works destroyed and the owners on the verge of bankruptcy.

This was Shepherd's opportunity, and he seized it with avidity. He made a contract to buy the mine for the sum of $20,000.

Wished He Hadn't Told It.

Mrs. Twickenham had invited Mr. Castle-down to dinner, and they are discussing the salad.

Mrs. Twickenham--I hope, Mr. Castle-down, that you are fond of all kinds of puddings?

Castle-down--Oh, yes, Mrs. Twickenham. And that reminds me of a little incident that occurred to me last summer. I was visiting some friends of mine in the country (all attention from the other guests), and it seems that some of them had heard me say that while I was very fond of all sweetmeats there was one thing I abhorred, and that was tapioca pudding. Well, one day at dinner the hostess, a most charming woman, said to me, "I do hope you like tapioca pudding, because we are going to have it today." Well, of course, you know, and supposing there was any joke about it, I said yes, and well, I rather dilated upon the fact, wishing to make her thoroughly at ease, you understand, when inwardly I was quaking at the thought of the horrible ordeal ahead of me. I noticed that the other guests seemed much amused, but I didn't dream it was a joke.

Mrs. Twickenham--Then it was a joke? Castle-down--Oh, yes, decidedly so. You see, there was no tapioca pudding, and it was all a put-up job. You can imagine my feelings and the embarrassing position I was in after trying to be so polite by lying out of it.

Mrs. Twickenham--Yes, indeed, it was most unfortunate. (To servant, with emphasis) James, bring on the tapioca pudding--Harper's Bazar.

A Wise General.
Merchant--Why the deuce don't you shut the door?

Insurance Agent--Do you think I'm fool enough to out of my retreat--Truth.

"Almost as Palatable as Milk"

This is a fact with regard to Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. The difference between the oil, in its plain state, is very apparent. In you detect no fish-oil taste. As it is a help to digestion there is no after effect except good effect. Keep in mind that Scott's Emulsion is the best promoter of flesh and strength known to science.

The Only Alternative.
No better or more conclusive answer
to the Minneapolis Tribune's arguments
in favor of free iron ore can be prepared than that which is contained in the speech of Congressman Burrows on the tariff bill a week ago.

Turn to the iron industry, said Mr.
Burrows. With free trade in iron ore
he can make the American miner in Michigan and elsewhere in the United States successfully contend with the miners of England, Spain, Cuba and the ore-producing countries of the old world? The average wages in the Lake Superior mining district for drillers or miners is $2.25 to $2.75 per day, while the same class of laborers in England receive $1.21
and in Spain only from 60 to 72 cents per day. With our common laborers receive from $1.60 to $2 a day, in England from 72 to 84 cents and in Spain 36 to 60 cents
a day. Even the boys in the Lake Superior mines receive from $1 to $1.25 per day, while boys and women in England secure from 24 to 60 cents, and in Spain 24 to 36 cents a day. It is in evidence before the ways and means committee that the wages of miners on Lake Superior
are more than three and a quarter times
those of Bilbao, and more than double
those in the Cleveland (English) district.
With these conditions staring us in the face there is no escape from the conclusion that with free iron ore we must either close our mines or reduce the cost of production to the lowest level of the world's supply.

Which one of these alternatives would
the Tribune have the mine owners of Minnesota accept? Would it close down
the mines or would it reduce wages.

The Telephone Patents.
Despite the fact that at the end of the present month the patent on the metallic diaphragm telephone will expire, there is little prospect that the public will soon be freed from the exactions of the monopoly that now controls this important service. Of course it will then be possible to use the telephone on shorter lines and even to operate an exchange system, but the fact that some of the greatest improvements on the telephone are still protected by patents
would detract much from the usefulness
and popularity of such an exchange system as could be operated.

In its early days the telephone service was wretchedly poor. Everyone knows this, and there is no one who would willingly return to the old order of things.
Users of telephones would not be deprived of the improvements which have made this mode of communication easy and popular. The Electrical World in a recent article pointed out that had the ordinary course been followed in the patent office in relation to the Berliner patent, the principle of telephony by means of variable contact resistance would also soon be public property, and until this patent expires or is annulled,
the Bell monopoly cannot be very seriously affected. If by a natural course this patent was retained in the patent office for fourteen years, thus practically prolonging the life of an absolute monopoly to that extent, a monstrous state of affairs is admitted which, if it cannot be otherwise remedied, would almost justify the entire abolition of the patent system.

The government has now a suit, based on grave charges, to annul this patent,
but a recent statement as to its condition
does not give much encouragement for a speedy decision, and it has already cost the government $50,000. With the wide knowledge of the subject which the attorney general should have from his former connection with the telephone interests, it would seem that more haste might be made, particularly as every day after Jan. 30 will result in a gross injustice to the public through the continuance of the monopoly.

Still another fact that may be very significant is that the Blake application of Jan. 3, 1879, has not yet, as far as can be ascertained, resulted in a patent. "After what has occurred regarding the Berliner patent," says the Electrical World, "we may expect anything from the patent office, and it would not be a matter of any great surprise if the Blake,
or some other telephone patent now held,
were to develop into a second Berliner
case if the government is not successful in its suit. There are a great many things to which congress is now devoting its attention that are of less importance to the public than an investigation of the patent and attorney general's offices might be."

A Good Exhibit.

A rather unexpected and very gratifying result is exhibited by the semi-annual enumeration of prisoners in this state, taken by the state board of corrections and charities. It was anticipated that the hard times would materially increase the number of inmates of the jails and prisons of the state, but such has not been the case. The total number of prisoners of all classes in the state Dec.
31, 1893, was 1001, as against 1103 June 30, 1893, an actual decrease of 102 prisoners. In 1892 there was an increase of 39 prisoners from June 30 to Dec. 31.

These facts show the excellent quality of Minnesota's population. Usually in times of business depression and distress
there is a considerable increase in crime.
This has been true of the past year in many parts of the country, and therefore Minnesota's fine record shows up all the better by contrast.

Sensation at Washington.
It is now positively known at Washington that Senators Hill and Murphy made an agreement with certain Republican senators that, in return for their votes against Hornblower's nomination,
the Hill faction in the senate would assist any move on the part of the Republicans to amend or defeat the Wilson tariff bill when that measure comes to
the senate.

A dispatch from Washington says:
"The fact that this agreement has leaked out is the sensation of the day in both houses of the capitol. Democrats are now worried that Hill will be able to deliver the promised goods at a critical time."

In view of this argument, it should be possible to retain the existing duty of 75 cents a ton on iron ore and amend the bill in other important features.

The following cheerful words are by H. W. Cannon, one of New York's ablest bank presidents: "In any event, our citizens are naturally industrious—can readily adapt themselves to changed
business conditions—and I predict that American thrift and perseverance will shortly overcome the unnatural business conditions now prevailing." Mr. Cannon is in a position to judge of the condition of things, and the fact that he looks with such great confidence to an early improvement should encourage everyone.

The News Tribune this morning said:
"Some of the Democrats of the state
think that James J. Hill has too much to say in the selection of officials under the present administration." Yes, and some of the Republicans of the state thought that the same James J. Hill had too much to say in the selection of officials under the last administration. It makes little difference to Mr. Hill which party is in power, so long as he can dictate the appointments.

The latest bit of gossip from Kansas represents Chief Justice Horton as an aspirant for the seat in the United States senate now occupied by John Martin.
The Kansas City Star thinks a verification of this rumor would give John J.
Ingalls instant employment. With his ancient and hereditary political fealty
in the field as a candidate for senator, Ingalls would no longer be a statesman
out of a job.

The Sheboygan, Wis., Review, a Democratic paper, prints criticisms by Democratic journals on the Wilson bill
and the administration's Hawaiian policy, and explains that "a man cannot be a good Democrat without being independent." The Review has evidently not heard of the hubbub created by some Duluth Democrats becoming independent enough to denounce free iron ore.

Washington dispatches keep on referring to Walter Q. Gresham as Grover Cleveland's Republican secretary of state. This causes the St. Louis Star Sayings to exclaim: "We object, Mr.
Gresham is many things, but not a Republican. He is a man with an itch for office in which to pay off scores against former friends and benefactors."

The Minneapolis Tribune yesterday
had a "special" from Rainy Lake City, Minn. This beats the St. Paul Dispatch's special from Grand Marais, with which
there is no telegraphic communication,
because not only is there no telegraph
line to Rainy Lake City, but the so-called "city" has not yet been laid out.

The business woman is rapidly coming to the front. The latest illustration of this fact is the completion of plans to erect a woman's temple in St. Louis, to be built by women as a business enterprise and to cost $300,000.

The dilatoriness in trying criminals in this country is made more conspicuous by the speed with which cases are disposed of in France. It seems but a few days since Vaillant threw the bomb
in the chamber of deputies, yet he is now awaiting the day in the near future when he will lose his head on the guillotine.

Editor Dana, of the New York Sun,
resents clergymen who drink as setting
a bad example. Certainly the bibulous parson does not command as much respect as his temperate brother.

The Chicago Herald is criticizing Senators Palmer and Cullom because they voted for Mr. Hornblower's confirmation,

Winter's Chills
Make Winter's Pains.

Winter weather is dangerous. It is the season of colds, chills, pneumonia; a thousand dangerous maladies are hover-

ing around, seeking to assail us
at our weakest point.

How to Escape Them
is a matter of the highest importance. There is only one way, and that is by keeping the system in sound healthy condition, the liver and kidneys in good working order, free from bile, by giving the blood new tone and life. To accomplish this do not take ordinary remedies—get the best. If you stop to think a moment you will know that it is Warner's Safe Cure, the great standard remedy, which has stood the test
of time and is universally popular because it has never failed to relieve or cure.

A Large Multitude.
Boston Herald: It is said that many of the United States senators experienced a good deal of difficulty in pronouncing the name of the late queen of Hawaii in their speeches. This seems to suggest the propriety of curtailing
their allowance of cold tea.

A Misguided Man.

To Encourage Marriage.
Winona Herald: The city of Duluth, Minn., has a law which would marry men only who are out of jobs.
This, no doubt, will stimulate matrimony
up there.

AN ACT OF JUSTICE.
Mr. Moses' Bill Favorably Reported by the Pensions Committee.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Mr. Moses, of Georgia, from the committee on pensions, has reported to the house, with the recommendation that it pass, his bill repealing the section of the revised statutes, which provides that no money shall be paid to the widow, children, or heirs of any deceased person, who in any manner voluntarily engaged in, or aided or abetted the late rebellion against the authority of the United States.

In the report recommending the passage of the bill, Mr. Moses says that the inhibition prescribed in this section
affects such persons as incurred wounds,
injuries or disabilities while in the service of the United States, during the late war, and who, on account of the disability in the old war service, unless
he can show that he did not aid or abet
the rebellion against the United States
during the late war.

The widow, too, is denied the pension
represented by the rank held by the soldier at the time he incurred the fatal
disability in the old war service, unless
she can show that he did not aid or abet
the rebellion against the United States
during the late war.

To discriminate against the soldier
who lost an arm or leg, or was otherwise disabled while fighting the Indians or Mexicans, was in the unanimous judgment of the committee, an act of great injustice which should be remedied with the least possible delay. If a subsequent service in the cause of the Confederacy was not to be held against a service person, it surely should not be held against the soldier who left a limb on the battlefield nor against the widows of those whose old war service resulted in their death.

There could not be many now living
who would be benefited by the proposed action, and in the judgment of the committee the passage of the bill would be but an act of justice to a small but deserving class.

Threatened With Death.
PRAGUE, Jan. 19.—The president of the court before which the members of the Omladina society, who are charged with high treason and lese majeste, are being tried, has received letters threatening
with death himself and the two prosecutors who are conducting the prosecution
if the prisoners are convicted.

Receiver Appointed.
New York, Jan. 19.—Judge Barrett,
of the supreme court, has appointed Henry Winthrop Gray receiver of the Thomson-Houston Electric company, of New York. The bond of the receiver has been fixed at $50,000. The motion for the appointment of a receiver was made yesterday at the instance of Henry R. Worthington, a judgment creditor of the company for $157,653.

Dispatch from New York Announcing that the Rearrangement of the Consolidated Company is Completed.

History of the Deal and the Causes Which Have Led Up to the Reorganization.

West Superior Steel Plant is Dropped Out of the Properties of the Consolidated Company.

A dispatch received today from New York says that the rearrangement of the terms upon which the Merritt and Rockefeller iron mining interests were consolidated has been perfected favorably to the stockholders of the Lake Superior Consolidated iron mines. To explain this phase of the existence of the Consolidated company it is necessary to review a few of the facts that led up to the present arrangement.

When Mr. Rockefeller first went into the Mesaba deal it was agreed that all his iron interests should be brought together. To acquire an interest in the Mesaba, to offset the Merritt interests, he purchased the controlling interests in the Adams, the Lake Superior mines and other valuable properties. These, together with the bonds and stocks of the Aurora mine, the Penokee and Gogebic company, the Spanish American company and the West Superior Steel plant he turned over to the Lake Superior Consolidated company, taking therefor bonds to the amount of about $1,300,000. These were the bonds issued under the $10,000,000 mortgage given to the Central Trust company, of New York, last fall.

Mr. Rockefeller had also advanced large sums of money to the railroad company which were included in this bond issue. When the Aurora and Penokee and Gogebic companies went into the hands of a receiver, as well as the West Superior Steel plant, it was necessary that these bonds and stocks, which, together with the bonds and stocks of the iron companies before mentioned have been thus far retained by Mr. Rockefeller as additional collateral for advances made, should be retired and a re-arrangement effected and this has been done upon the following basis: Mr. Rockefeller takes back the steel plant bonds amounting to $600,000 and pays for them and their accrued interest, Consolidated bonds of the value of $575,000, thereby reducing the Consolidated bond issue to $3,700,000. He also retains bonds to the amount of $1,500,000 or about the cost to him of the Mesaba holdings which he turned over to the Consolidated and cash advances made and he sells back the balance of the bonds held by him, about $2,200,000, which are represented by the Aurora, Penokee and Gogebic and Spanish-American bonds and stocks, to the Consolidated taking therefor Consolidated stock at par. The bonds and stocks hitherto held by him as additional security are by this latest agreement surrendered to the Consolidated company by Mr. Rockefeller. Of the recent railroad bond issue Mr. Rockefeller receives $1,000,000 of bonds and this will represent cash advances to the railroad and coupons purchased and protected.

The result of this arrangement is that the Consolidated company regain possession of bonds and stocks in the hands of West Superior Steel plant overboard. They also receive 2000 bonds for their stock at par. They obtain possession of bonds and stocks in the hands of Mr. Rockefeller which are of great value, even under present circumstances, particularly the securities of the Spanish-American company, which they are enabled to arrange for the funding of the debt upon their railroad and to provide for the extension and further equipment of their system.

Another Candidate.
W. B. Welles Would be Willing to Occupy the Mayoralty Chair.

Another candidate for the mayoralty has appeared upon the field in the person of W. B. Welles, president of the Duluth stock exchange and brother of Secretary George H. Welles, of the board of trade. Col. Welles says that he is in the field to await the action of the Republican convention and that if elected he will do the best he can to give Duluth good sound Republican government.

Deafness Cannot be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by the use of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound of imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by druggists.

Was Fatally Injured.
CHILLICOTHE, O., Jan. 19.—Edward Folsom, a B. & O. S. W. engineer, met with a terrible accident Wednesday night, which in all probability will prove fatal. He was going to his room, preparatory to retiring, when he stumbled and fell and the lighted lamp which he carried exploded, igniting his clothing and burning his face and neck into a crisp, leaving little hope for recovery. Folsom's wife, in trying to save her husband, was also horribly burned.

Tricked to Hang Himself.
TIFFIN, Ohio, Jan. 19.—F. D. Wanamaker, claiming to be a nephew of John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, and to be employed by the government, in purchase horses for the United States mail service, was arrested at Fostoria and brought here to answer to the charge of passing a fraudulent draft. He attempted to hang himself in the jail yesterday morning but was cut down before life was extinct.

Died in an Opium Den.
ST. LOUIS, Jan. 19.—The body of a man about 35 years of age was found in a Chinese opium joint near Seventh and Walnut streets yesterday morning. From letters found on his person he is believed to be Michael Carroll, of Omaha, Neb. One of the letters bore the address of the Paxton house in that city. Carroll had been dead several hours when found by the Chinese attendants.

Charged With Slender.
BERLIN, Jan. 19.—Chancellor von Caprivi is taking legal steps against Baron Thuenen, of Wuerzburg, the leader of the Franconian league of Agrarians. Thuenen has denounced the chancellor with such untempered bitterness that he has been summoned to appear before a Prussian court and answer charges of slander and libel.

Bled to Death.
KALKASKIA, Mich., Jan. 19.—George Scott, a milkman of Ivan, this county, was stabbed in the neck here Wednesday night, severing the jugular vein. He bled to death in a few minutes. The crime was the result of a drunken row. Charles H. Ferguson is charged with the crime and is in jail here.

STEVENS' STORY TOLD

The Ex-Minister to Hawaii Before the Senate Committee Today and Repeated What is Known.

Contents of the Message to the State Department That Was Withheld by the President.

It Related to Attitude of the Ex-Minister and His Relations With the Court.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The witness
before the senate committee investigating Hawaiian relations today was ex-Minister Stevens, who is charged with having coerced the Hawaiians and contributed towards the establishment of the provisional government by the use of the United States forces. It is needless to give an abstract of the testimony of the ex-minister. His side of this international controversy has been stated so fully in the press and through addresses made by Mr. Stevens that the public is more or less familiar with it.

The only thing necessary to be done
was for Mr. Stevens to put under oath
the matters of which the committee had been advised officially, and to enter into those things which could not be discussed in public. This latter phase of Mr. Stevens' testimony was by far the most important, and every precaution
was taken by the committee to prevent any intimation of what the character of the evidence was from reaching beyond the committee room.

There has been much speculation
since the president's message was sent to congress as to the contents of the message from Mr. Stevens to the state department that was withheld by the president on the ground of public policy.
It is understood that this letter was one of those confidential communications
from diplomatic agents to their respective governments touching upon the so-called interests of other governments.

Mr. Stevens today gave the committee
what he supposed to be the letter referred to, and it can be said in a general way that it related to the attitude of the English minister in connection with affairs at the Hawaiian islands and his relations with the courts of the deposed queen.

It is understood that the English minister was, perhaps, as near to the queen
as any one on the islands was able thereby to exercise great influence over her. His son, Mr. Wodehouse, is the husband of the half sister of Princess Kailani, who is the heir apparent to the throne in the event that the deposed queen should be restored.

With this princess on the throne, and a British subject at the head of the family and enjoying the power and influence that such relationships would give, it could be easily seen, Mr. Stevens says, what the effect would be upon American interests and how they would be subordinated to everything that was British. The British minister, he said, on the island for years, his family had intermarried to some extent, and naturally he would be opposed to any scheme that looked to the overthrow of the queen, and worst of all, annexation to the United States.

It is said by Mr. Stevens that the British minister, Mr. Wodehouse, was favorable to the deposition of the queen and that he entertained an opinion of her that was in keeping with the opinions of other well informed and progressive citizens; but while he wanted her off the throne he was equally as desirous that Kailani should succeed her. The methods used in disseminating this idea
among the people and the part played by the British minister is said to have been an interesting feature of the evidence given by Mr. Stevens.

Heavy Damages.
CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—The United States court this morning Wilber F.
Davidson was given a verdict of $43,000
against the Illinois Central Railway company as damages for personal injuries.
Davidson, who is a well known electrical man, was badly injured at the Hyde Park station of the defendant company in February, 1893. He sued for $100,000.

May Be Justice Carlisle.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The Post says
there is a revival of the story that President Cleveland will nominate Secretary Carlisle for the vacancy on the supreme court bench. The rumor was quite current, at the capitol yesterday and naturally grew in importance and strength
as it went around.

The Midwinter Fair.
SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 20.—Jan. 27 has been definitely fixed as the opening day
of San Francisco's midwinter exposition.
The executive committee gives positive assurance that on that day the fair will be complete in all its departments and in full swing for visitors.

The Bee Hive Scorching.
CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—Fire at the Bee Hive store, Nos. 172-174 State street, at 9 o'clock this morning destroyed nearly everything on the fifth floor of the building and caused a loss of from $30,000 to $40,000, fully covered by insurance.
Origin of the fire unknown.

A Pennsylvania Elevation.
LEWISBURG, Pa., Jan. 20.—Mark Hala-penny, a man of high social relations
and interested in the wooden mills here
and having a wife and family, eloped
Thursday night with Mrs. Alvin Ang-stadt, the wife of a prominent tobacconist.

Rain That Was Needed.
KANSAS CITY, Jan. 20.—The first general rain for over three months fell throughout Kansas and Western Missouri Wednesday night and yesterday.
It was badly needed and especially on the farms and in the small towns, for most of the creeks were dry and cisterns empty. The weather was not cold and there was no sleet.

AGAINST THE SUGAR TRUST.

Proceedings by the Government Under the Sherman Law.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 20.—Argument was begun yesterday before Judge Butler, in the United States circuit court, in proceedings brought by the government to have set aside as illegal, the merging of the Philadelphia sugar refineries into the sugar trust.

The government claims that the Sherman anti-trust law has been violated, and further contends that the American Sugar Refining company is a monopoly
and that the contracts made with the Philadelphia refineries were in aid of a monopoly.

The answer of the trust is that it is not a monopoly, and that the Sherman act is unconstitutional. The defendants in the suit are the E. C. Knight company, Spreckels Sugar Refining company,
Franklin Sugar Refining company, and Delaware Sugar house, all of which have their principal places of business in Philadelphia.

JEALOUS AND DRUNKEN.

A Colored Ex-Policeman of Pittsburgh Fatally Shot.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 20.—John Adley, a colored ex-policeman of the Pittsburgh
force, was shot and it is believed fatally injured at Jeannette Wednesday night.

Adley is dangerously wounded, the wound
being fired at him by the jealous and
drunken negro by running away.
Wilson escaped and is yet at large.
Adley is dangerously wounded, the wound
being fired at him by the jealous and
drunken negro by running away.

IS EMULATING MATTHEWS.

Governor Mitchell Trying to Equal the Indiana Governor.

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—A special to the Herald from Indianapolis says that William Wesley Woolen, who returned from Florida last night, bore a congratulatory message from the governor of Indiana
in effect that the Florida official had watched with great interest Governor Matthews' treatment of Roby, and he was endeavoring to emulate his example in dealing with the Corbett-Mitchell fight.

"Say to the governor of Indiana," said
the governor of Florida, "that the fight will not come off at Jacksonville nor anywhere else in the state, if there is any power to prevent it."

TRIED TO WRECK A TRAIN.

The Wreckers Wedged a Splice Bar Close to the Track.

LIMA, Ohio, Jan. 20.—An attempt was made to wreck a train on the Lake Erie & Western railroad between Fostoria and Arcadia last night. The party where the attempt was made was at the crossing of the Nickel Plate about six miles west of Fostoria.

The wreckers secured a splice bar and wedged it close up to the track. They did a bungling job and the train, which passed about 7 o'clock, tore up the obstruction and smashed it to pieces while the engine was practically uninjured.

SUICIDE IN ST. PAUL.

F. B. Jilson, a Well-Known Lumber, Shot Himself.

ST. PAUL, Jan. 20.—F. B. Jilson, of the firm of Jilson & Satterlee, a prominent dealer in railroad supplies, committed suicide yesterday afternoon at his residence on Nina avenue by shooting himself with a revolver.

He left a letter addressed to Mrs. Jil-son, in which the unfortunate man declared his intention to kill himself, the reason given being business depression.
This, however, seems incredible, and the family will believe his mind was surely unsettled.

Killed While Coasting.

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 20.—George L.
Sargent, a prominent club boy of the state, only son of the late ex-Chief Justice J. Everett Sargent, was killed last night while coasting. Sargent was driving on a double runner which had attained a speed of more than a mile a minute when the steering gear
broke and the sled crashed into the side of the road. Sargent's head struck a tree, causing instant death.

Revolt by Convicts.

VIENNA, Jan. 20.—The convicts in the state prison at Iglaui, Moravia, revolted
yesterday and attacked the warders.
Military assistance was at once called for, but before the troops arrived one of the warders had been killed by the convicts. The latter manifested a disposition to attack the soldiers, but a volley was poured into the crowd of prisoners and three of them fell dead.

A Horrible Accident.

MUNCIE, Ind., Jan. 20.—William J.
Moore, a well known Buffalo, N. Y., business man, was attacked with an epileptic fit near this city on a Big Four passenger train yesterday, ran his head through a window and cut his face and neck in a horrible manner. He nearly bled to death before he reached the hospital in this city. Moore was enroute to Indianapolis.

Pensions Granted Today.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The following
pensions were granted today: Minnesota, Helen Agren, Centre City; Onesime Barre, Faribault; George Doust, Janesville; Maria B. Nell, Dayton; Nancy Leyde, St. Paul.

A Fatal Cigar.

WATERVILLE, Me., Jan. 20.—Naziere Beaudouine, of Winslow, 60 years old,
while in a saloon yesterday afternoon got
a cigar from a slot machine, lighted it and fell dead.

Voiced a Bridge Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The president has vetoed the New York and New Jersey bridge bill, and his veto message was delivered to the house at 1:12 this afternoon.

THE DUTY WILL STAND

Advocates of a Duty on Iron and Lead Ores
and Lumber Make a Combination.

They Assert That When the Ore Schedules Are Reached They Will Amend the Wilson Bill.

Nearly All the Western Members and Some
From the East and South Have Joined.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—[Special to
The Herald.]—The advocates of a duty
on lead and iron ores and lumber assert today that they have effected a combination which will be strong enough
next week to defeat the present schedules on the Wilson bill putting lead, iron ore and lumber on the free list. Nearly the entire Western representation in congress is in line with this plan, as are also some of the representatives in some of the big states in the East and South.
In view of the fact that the Democratic members of the ways and means committee in charge of the Wilson bill have received several setbacks since voting
on the amendments was taken up, there is a strong likelihood that the assertion made by those claiming to be in the combination, that the amendments respecting the duty on ore, lead and lumber will carry next week, will be verified.

TODAY'S DOINGS IN THE HOUSE.

The Henderson Amendment to the Agricultural Schedule Begun.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The first business of the day in the house was to take from the speaker's table and lay before the house the house bill, with a senate amendment to provide a uniform system
of advertising for supplies for the executive departments. Mr. Dingley explained that the only change made was to exclude from the operations of the law the government printing office and the bureau of engraving and printing.

Mr. Dingley moved that the house concur in the senate amendment, which was done. No other business of importance was done in the morning hour and after some chattering between Mr. Wilson and Mr. Dingley it was agreed that debate on the pending amendment (substituting
the agricultural section of the McKinley law for the corresponding section of the Wilson bill) should close in twenty minutes.

An agreement was reached whereby
three hours were to be given to the consideration of the coal schedule and three
to the iron ore schedule next Tuesday.
The Henderson amendment substituting
the provisions of the coal schedule and the schedule of the Wilson bill was defeated
by a vote of 63 in the affirmative and 116
in the negative.

Messrs. McKee and Dockery today offered amendments to the sugar schedule,
which is to be considered next Monday.
Both amendments are similar in their provisions and strike out the clause in the Wilson bill providing for the gradual reduction of the bounty on sugar. Instead, the bounty is to be wiped out at once sweep, and sugar made absolutely free.

BOUGHT McNAMARA'S LIFE.

A Mob of Three Thousand Gathered at the Jail
in Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 20.—At 10 o'clock
this morning a crowd of nearly 3,000
people gathered outside of the county jail to watch the transfer of ex-Pleasant
J. V. McNamara to the court to answer a charge of disorderly conduct.

The attitude of the mob became so threatening that the authorities decided to hold the hearing in the county jail.
This action undoubtedly saved Mc-Namara from swift death at the hands of the outraged Catholic element of the city.

A New Divorce Bill.

HORTON, O. T., Jan. 20.—The fact that Oklahoma territorial laws render it easy to secure speedy divorces after the case against John B. Koetting, condemned by a jury to suffer death for the assassination of Carter H. Harrison, appeared before Judge Brentano this morning and pleaded for more time in which to prepare the arguments for a new trial.
The court granted the request setting the case temporarily for Jan. 31. The condemned man is confident he will never be hanged.

Keotting's Trial Closing.

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 20.—The evidence in the case against John B. Koetting, cashier of the South Side bank was all in at 1 o'clock this morning. This afternoon District Attorney Hammel began his argument. He will be followed by W. C. Williams for the defense, and then ex-Congressman Robert La Follette will close for the state.

Grand Duke George Dying.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 20.—Advices received here from the Caucasus show that the condition of Grand Duke George second of Russia, who has become critical. Grand Duke George is suffering from consumption. He was 22 years old on May 9 last.

Mr. Childs Improving.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 20.—George W.
Childs recovered comfortably last night, and his condition today is very favorable.

AGAINST THE RECEIVERS.

President Ives, of the Northern Pacific, Wants His Rights Protected.

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 20.—Attorney J. F.
Harper, acting for Brayton Ives, president of the Northern Pacific Railroad company, today filed a petition in the United States court asking that the court protect the rights of the company, which it is alleged are infringed by the action of the receivers, and that the court issue
an order directing the receivers to furnish to the company the necessary accommodations for the transaction of business.

The petition tells how the directors were ousted by the stockholders at the recent election, and especially Thomas F. Oakes, the president, who is one of the receivers. The petition states, George H. Baxter, treasurer, G. H. Earl,
secretary, and J. A. Baxter, auditor of the railroad, suddenly resigned as officers of the company, but retained their respective positions under the receivers,
thus leaving the company without officers, and the officers mentioned, the petition alleges, will take no action unless
with the sanction of the receivers.
The officers were induced to resign, it is alleged, by the receivers, on pain of being discharged from the employ of the company. The petition goes on to relate how formal demand was made upon the receivers for the return of the properties of the company, which demand was denied.

The counsel for the company asked that the petition filed this morning be heard Jan. 30, but it will not come up until Feb. 5.

WRECKED OFF THE ANTIPODES.

A Vessel Wrecked and the Captain and Four Men Drowned.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 20.—The Mono-wai brings news of the wreck of the bark Spirit of Dawn, while on a voyage from Rangoon to Tolcavado, Chile, off the Antipodes islands, N. Z.

The officers and crew with the exception of the captain and four men who were drowned, reached the islands safely.
There they remained for eighty days
with but little food and clothing when they were rescued by a passing vessel and taken to Dunedin, arriving there on Dec. 4.

Ex-Bank President Arrested.

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—Perjury and a conspiracy to rob and swindle are the charges upon which Benjamin C.
Fauror, the former president of the defunct Lima (Ohio) National bank, was arrested last night by a deputy United States marshal on a warrant sworn out in the United States district court.

William Gilpin Dead.

DENVER, Jan. 20.—William Gilpin
died this morning at the age of 82 years.
He was appointed first governor of Colorado territory by Abraham Lincoln and has been prominently identified with the history of the state up to the time of his death.

WHAT PEOPLE SAY.

Fire Commissioner Hart Tells Why Kelleher
Was Engaged.

Fire Commissioner James Hart said
last night: "Those people who are kicking about the appointment of ex-Chief Kelleher to a subordinate position
on the fire department are talking through their hats. Kelleher was assistant chief under John T. Black in St.
Paul, and chief of the Superior department. Both of these positions he lost through administration changes and I for one think that when we can get an experienced veteran at $70 a month, one who can handle an aerial truck to perfection, we should be derelict in our duty if we did not secure him."
I am in favor of promotion
in line of the members of the fire department, but I do not believe in being so hiebound and to refuse to take a first-class man from outside in a case
like that of Kelleher.

H. G. Davis, a brother of Dr. George W. Davis and J. J. C. Davis, the contractor, will leave early next week for Sitka, Alaska, whence he will go to Kadak Island as United States commissioner. This is a formidable journey
but "Hi," with the true courage inherent in the Davis race, proposes to tackle the journey, perform the duties of his office,
and pocket a fat salary with all neatness
and dispatch. Hi will be a sort of Pooh Bah, or double distilled justice of the peace, sheriff, coroner, court commissioner, inland revenue boss and some few more officials all rolled into one. He was interviewed by Governor Winfield
of Alaska, this morning and the governor was filling him up with pointers for over an hour. Mr. Davis was the first Democrat on record to represent "Tiger" in a Democratic convention as a delegate.

Frank Hayes, the athlete instructor,
who traveled with Corbett through Wyoming and Utah, said today: "The Corbett and Mitchell fight will come off
sure." Paddy McDonnell received a telegram from Corbett from Mayport, Fla., yesterday, saying that the fight will take place, but on account of the uncertainty of the event neither of us are going to chance our money in going all the way to Florida.

Capt. Miller said today: "Alex Mc-Dougall and James Barton are in Washington, or will be there in a day or so.
They will make a pretty strong team pulling well together for the improvement of the dual harbor at the head of the lake. With these two in Washington and C. F. Johnson and H. B. Moore at this end of the line, it would be seen that it must be a cold day if some fine work is not gotten in between this and the opening of navigation."

Fred Ryan, the ice king, is playing in hard luck. First of all his appointment as receiver of the land office is hung up in Washington. Just what any man on earth can have in it for Fred nobody can imagine, but this does not trouble him so much as the fact that although he carefully tended his ice farm on the lake, no ice will sprout and he is beginning to be seriously afraid that his crop will be a dead failure.

It found guilty the lad will probably be sent to the reform school.

The accompanying picture, which is from The Hearings, shows the daring feat Kilpatrick did repeatedly at Kansas City last summer.

THE WORLD OF LABOR

This is the Off Week in Local Labor Circles and Nothing Special Has Occurred.

The Street Car Employes Will Give Their Annual Ball at the Pavilion Wednesday Night.

There is No Wrong Which Cannot be Righted by the Use of the Ballot.

This is the off week in labor circles, and little or nothing new has cropped up worthy of note. Nearly all of the unions at the head of the lakes have held meetings and elected officers for the ensuing year. A notable event next week will be the opening of the Pavilion. The Street Car Employes union have spared neither money nor pains to make this ball, which takes place Wednesday, Jan. 24, a rousing success, and invitations have been extended to sister unions to participate in the enjoyments of the evening. An excellent supper will be prepared and a good time assured to all who are lucky enough to secure a ticket of admission.

Local Labor Notes. Typographical union meets tomorrow in the Knights of Pythias hall, Parsons block, Superior street. The office of secretary-treasurer has to be filled, and no less than three candidates are in the field—Messrs. Coburn, Lounsbury and McDowell.

The Bakers' union meets this evening when the officers elected at the previous meeting will be installed, and a social gathering may be the outcome.

The Cigar-makers' union held a meeting this week and also installed officers elected at the previous meeting.

A lively meeting was held at the chamber of commerce Friday night by Electric Worker's union. Many topics were discussed, the most important of which was the proposed electric light subjects. Work is fairly good at present and the union is continually growing stronger, through the efforts of its members.

LABOR LACONICS. Colorado contains 41,000 idle miners.

West Virginia miners are organizing. The Lehigh strike cost the unions $105,000.

Over 1000 women are in the Tailors' union.

Trouble is brewing in Iowa mining regions.

A Bellamy colony is to be formed in the Cherokee strip.

Whitman, Mass., is providing work for the unemployed.

All American window glass workers are claimed to be on strike.

Philadelphia United Labor League has demanded government telegraph.

Lyon, Mass., has a laboring man's church known as the Church of the Carpenter.

It has been definitely settled that England is to buy the trunk line telephones.

Cincinnati has a large union of unemployed, called the Willing Workers' union.

The cigarmakers of St. Louis have established a free lodging house for "tourists" who are out of employment.

Nathan Straus, a wealthy New Yorker, has established a number of coal yards and sells coal at cost to the poor.

The Akron, Ohio, Central Labor union has opened a reading room for the unemployed of the city, to which all are invited.

Henry George, the accomplished advocate of the single tax system, is being spoken of as labor candidate for governor of New York.

Grand Organizer Harry E. Easton, of the International Association of Machinists, continues his triumphal tour through the Eastern states.

London Daily Chronicle raised $91,100 for the English miners during and since their strike. The Chronicle is in the hands of socialists.

Editor Stead says of all the degradation, squalor, hunger and misery that he has seen in London, Paris and St. Petersburg, conditions in Chicago are the worst.

The Comte de Paris has written a book favoring trades unionism. He has given the subject of his book the title "The Phœnix Silk Manufacturing Company, of Allentown, Pa., has reduced the wages of ribbon weavers in the Adelaide mill to 10 per cent. The reduction affects 150 men.

Twenty unions of New Castle, Pa., whose members had received wage reductions of from 10 to 20 per cent, met to discuss some means of cheaper living. Co-operation was decided upon.

Tom Mann, the labor leader, who is on a lecturing tour through the North of England, has definitely decided not to enter the church but to stand as a parliamentary candidate at the coming election.

Investigations made by order of the board of health in New York city show that something like 140,000 people are idle in that metropolis. Nothing like a systematic effort has been made there as yet to relieve the distress of the unemployed.

The Pacific Coast Council of Trades and Labor unions meets at Sacramento, Cal., on Jan. 10. The various farmers' organizations will be represented, and it is believed a strong platform and independent political action will be the result of this convention.

Only ten trades organizations in this country have been able to partly relieve the eight hour workday; they are those of the carpenters, masons, bricklayers, tin and sheet iron workers, masons and laborers, painters, stonecutters, cigarmakers and journeymen brewers.

It is said that charges have been preferred against ex-Master Workman T. V. Fowley and ex-Worthy Foreman Hugh Cunningham, of the Knights of Labor, and they will be tried by the general executive board and perhaps excluded. The charges are preferred by various Eastern district assemblies and virtually accuse the two men of treachery to the order.

THE ROAD TO RELIEF. Every Wrong May Be Righted By Wise Use of the Ballot.

[Special Correspondence.] The remedy for the ills of labor is as simple as a straight line and as plain as noonday.

We have been grumbling and growling, striking and boycotting, wherewith and resolving, struggling and pleading, getting together and disbanding, denouncing and defending, for 25 years, and what has it all amounted to? And yet the object sought may be quickly accomplished, and the way that no man would dare to denounce a prince or statesman dare question. How? By the still, small voice that comes neither in the whirlwind nor in the storm, but through the ballot.

But I hear some one say at once: "You cannot change economic laws by legislation. You cannot compel employers by law to pay good wages. You cannot increase by law the amount of work to be done. People tried to regulate the price of bread by law years ago, and they made a miserable mess of it."

True. These are almost as much of a diseased idea as to imagine that the necessary results can be accomplished by strikes or boycotts. Nevertheless any man who denies that legislation can remedy the wrongs of labor is either a fool or a knave, and any man who denies the right and the duty of the laboring class to make laws is either a knave or a fool.

But we can enforce it, and rich men who object to it—rich men who object to any legislation looking to a wider diffusion of moderate welfare and to legislation that produces this result—are not in sympathy with a republican form of government. The laboring class is better without than with them.

Pass a general law reducing the hours of legal toil in factories and stores to eight or six if it is necessary. The enormous profits of the man with the use of machines demands it.

Pass a general law forbidding the employment in stores, shops and factories of young men under 16 and young women under 18. It is time that the practice of employing a portion of the workers of the country—as well as girls and boys—long hours and using the surplus as a means of beating down their wages be stopped.

Put a law placing a heavy head tax on immigrants. Let the same be sufficient to keep them out until we find work for them, and until they can support and educate their families by means of that work.

These laws will all have the effect of putting employees on a parity of relations with their employers. They will do away with the practice of a fixed rate of wages for all the workmen, whether good, bad or indifferent, and allow each individual to offer his services to the highest bidder.

Take care of the hours of work and of the number of persons to do the work, and the question of wages will take care of itself.

As to the government ownership of railroads, telegraphs and general transportation, it may be well enough, but it should not be forgotten that this will not increase the wages of the workers. The amount of work to be done, nor will it reduce the number of those who are to do it. Let the legislation referred to be acted upon, and these measures will not be needed.

We boast a good deal about our progress and our civilization, and our enlightenment. We should rather hide our heads in shame. There can be no progress in a republic where the ghost of future want stands at every workingman's back by day and hounds his dreams by night. There can be no enlightenment where capital and labor are eternally at war.

Leisure is a blessing. Enforced idleness is the most degrading curse and the most blighting disease that can exist in a civilized country.

Brother workmen, we can never better our position much by the continued practice of former methods. Strikes are not causes; they are effects. They are the violent sore of the malignant industrial disease. The cause of our trouble is a lack of constant employment incident to the revolution wrought by the machine. The natural remedy is a reduction of the hours of labor until the enforced idleness is turned to leisure.

Organize, organize, organize, and work out your own salvation through the ballot by immediate legislation!

Pittsburg. JEROME WOOD.

"More Work, More Wage." W. D. Howells, the widely known writer, was asked by a New York publication for a sentiment for the new year. This is what he gave: "I do not see how the little year that is coming could do better than take for its motto, 'More work, more wage!'"

THE LITERARY ARENA.

Reduction of the Price of the Forum an Instantaneous Success and Circulation is Booming.

The World's Fair Cosmopolitan, Issued in December, Estimated to Have Two Million Readers.

A Glance at the Latest Numbers of the Leading Magazines and New Books Issued.

The publishers of the Forum announce that the success of the reduction in its price to $3 a year and 25 cents a number has been instantaneous, and both more rapid and very much greater than had been anticipated. Within a month the circulation has increased by leaps and bounds, so that the Forum now, beyond doubt, has a larger audience than any review has ever hitherto had anywhere in the world.

The January number comes with fifteen timely discussions, among which are: "The Teaching of Recent Economic Experiences," by David A. Wells, "The American Republic," by Charles F. Johnson, "The American Republic," by Charles F. Johnson, "The American Republic," by Charles F. Johnson.

Following this is an explanation of the "Principle and the Method of the New Tariff Bill," by the Hon. W. L. Wilson, chairman of the ways and means committee. A remarkable article in this number of the Forum is by a new writer, Professor L. M. Keasbey, of the University of Colorado, on "The New Socialism—A Western Warning to the East."

A noteworthy paper setting forth the full significance of the sectional feeling which found its strongest expression in the recent civil conflict, but which is by no means confined to the controversy about silver. A timely article is by the Rev. G. Monroe Royce, on "The Decline of the American Republic." Space fails to enumerate the many attractive features of this number.

The second edition of December World's Fair Cosmopolitan brings the total up to the extraordinary figure of 400,000 copies, an unprecedented result in the history of magazines. 400,000 copies—200 times 2,000,000 pages—enough to fill 200 wagons with 2000 pounds each—in a single line, in close order, this would be a file of wagons more than a mile and a half long. This means not less than 2,000,000 readers, scattered throughout every town and village in the United States.

The Canadian Magazine has more than justified the expectations held out by its first number, and agreeably disappointed the fears of those who thought a really serious department among the things impracticable. The January number is, like its predecessors, interesting throughout, and covers a wide range in thought and style, while many of the illustrations are of much merit. Published by the Ontario Publishing company, Toronto; $2.50 per annum.

McClure's Magazine for January is as attractive in illustration as in reading matter, and what first strikes the eye, glancing through it is the notable wealth of portraits. One of Parkman, the historian, serves as frontispiece, and in the "Human Documents" department (which, by the way, abates none of its interest and novelty) are others of Parkman, as well as a series of Rider Haggard, the novelists, and a series of the eminent French physician and scientist, Charcot. Then there are portraits also of John V. McClure, the late Professor Tyndall, Professor Huxley, the duke of Argyll, Samuel Smiles and Professor Max Müller. The article likeliest to first seize the reader's attention is by Cy Warrenton, the leading author of the month's vivid description of the ride he took on the engines of the "Exposition Flyer" from New York to Chicago.

Scarcely less thrilling than the account of this unparalleled journey, though, are some of the promises of progress recorded in a series of predictions contributed by Professor Huxley, Max Müller, Professor E. J. Houston, Archbishop Ireland, and other Americans and Europeans, which is a most interesting and valuable contribution to the science and literature.

With the January number Worthington's Magazine begins its third volume. It is a remarkably attractive number, and is throughout bright, clean, instructive and eminently readable. The ideal family magazine is certainly to be found in Worthington's. The leading article, "Forests of California," by Charles Howells, is superbly illustrated, giving the reader a good idea of these magnificent coniferous forests, the like of which is found nowhere else upon the earth. Another remarkable article is that entitled, "A Celebrated Escape," which gives for the first time a reliable detailed account of the dying of the famous Libby prison tunnel, through which in 1854 109 Union officers made their escape. The story is continued by Gen. Thomas E. Rose, the originator and leading spirit of the plan. This number also is fully illustrated.

The Atlantic Monthly in the January number begins its seventy-third volume, and rarely in the thirty-six years of its existence has it contained in a single issue so many interesting and valuable articles. The opening of a new novel by Mrs. Margaret Deland, "Philip Astor's Story," especially marks the beginning of the year. It is evident from the first chapters that the story will have to deal with the relations of man, confronted with the probability of unhappiness after marriage. There is, however, a younger sister in whose career one foresees the possibilities of a more idyllic affair.

To teachers and to those interested in the great question of education the articles on "School Channing Armstrong" and "The Transmission of Learning Through the University" will most appeal. There are many other articles of interest. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston.

Table Talk announces in its prospectus for the coming year that additional advantages and redoubled effort will achieve for it a higher standard than ever before; its aim and its motto are still, "The best among household magazines." It will present, in the culinary department, every novelty, all new dishes, both foreign and American, together with practical menus for each month, and the "Inquiry Department" will, as heretofore, be open free to all subscribers, and questions answered, recipes given in the well-known, practical way so helpful to housekeepers. Published by Table Talk Publishing company at $1 per year.

The January Century opens with the second paper on the "Old Dutch Masters," by Mr. Cole, the engraver, the subject this month being "Frans Hals," of whose work Mr. Cole has engraved three examples, "The Archers of St. Andrew," "The Jolly Man," and the celebrated "Jester," the last being printed as the frontispiece. Mr. Cole's notes interestingly supplement the work of his engraver. The number contains a paper in the group of musical articles on the great composers of the past written by well known composers and musicians of the present. This month the contributor is Edward Greg and the subject "Robert Schumann, of whom there is a beautiful portrait from a water color made in his youth. An article of a wholly different character in the same department is Miss Alice Fletcher's study of Indian music, based on her personal residence among the Omaha Indians.

Chief of the literary material is an unpublished essay by Mr. Lowell, entitled "The Function of the Poet," which Professor Norton in a preface to the volume declares to be "not unworthy to stand with Sidney's and with Shelley's 'Defence of Poesy,'" and "fitted to warm and inspire the poetic heart of the youth of this generation." An addition to the group of articles on "Notable Women" is a paper on George Sand by her friend and protégée Th. Bentzon (Madame Blanc), a contributor to the "Revue des Deux Mondes," who is now visiting this country. The article includes not only recollections of the author's personal relations with Madame Sand, but an excellent summary of her views of life, literature, and religion, largely set forth in Madame Sand's own letters. A striking portrait accompanies the article. A third literary paper is Brander Matthews' article on "Andrew Lang," which is both a personal impression and a literary criticism. Two interesting portraits of Mr. Lang accompany the article.

William Winter has in preparation a biography of Joseph Jefferson, who has long been one of his warm personal friends. It will be published by the Macmillans in uniform style with his Booth book, which is just entering upon its third edition.

Among the notable features of the Argonaut for Jan. 1, 1894, are a story by Arthur McEwen entitled "The Damnation of Col. Clancy," a letter from Paris on the hostesses of "The Noble Faubourg," and a letter from New York describing Oscar Wilde's new play, "A Woman of No Importance."

The holiday number of Outing is a gem of artistic elegance which loses none of its brightness under close inspection. Prominent features of an excellent number are: "Ivan of the Mask," by Ella Lorraine Dorsey; "Following Dickens With a Camera," by H. H. Ragan; "A Christmas Fox Hunt in Old Virginia," by Alexander Hunter; "Nomads of the North," by C. J. Cutcliffe Hyne, and "In the Land of Josephine," by Walter L. Besley.

The North American Review begins the new year with an exceptionally strong number, both as regards the celebrity of its contributors and the timeliness and authoritative character of its contents. It opens with an important article on the proposed "Income Tax on Corporations," by Hon. William L. Wilson, chairman of the ways and means committee. "Republicanism in Brazil" forms the subject of a paper by the Brazilian minister at Washington, Salvador de Mendonça, which possesses a special value at the present crisis in that country. "Tariff and Business" in a characteristic manner; Governor Vallejo, of Colorado, answers the question "Are the Silver States Ruined?" and Lady Jeanie writes most entertainingly of "Dinners and Dinners." Many other readable articles complete a superb number.

The January number of The Popular Science Monthly opens with an article on "The Ethics of Tribal Society," by Prof. E. P. Evans, which is to be the first of a series on ethics by the same writer. The present article brings out the distinction prevailing among the ancient Hebrews, Greeks, Germans, and other undeveloped peoples, to regard an injury done to a foreigner as praiseworthy.

Dr. R. W. Shufeldt contributes an illustrated description of the "Night Hawks and Whip-poor-wills," which corrects various wrong opinions in regard to them. A fully illustrated article telling "How the Sea is Sounded" is furnished by G. W. Littlehales. Another illustrated paper, and a particularly timely one, in this stormy season, is an account of the United States life saving service, by F. G. Carpenter, under the title "Uncle Sam's Life Savers." The pictures show a station house and the surfboats and other apparatus used by the life savers. New York: D. Appleton & Co. Fifty cents a number, $5 a year.

TORTURING EGZEMA

Editor Iowa Plain Dealer Cured of Incurable Itching and Pain by the Cuticura Remedies.

No Less Than Five Physicians Consulted. Their Combined Wisdom Followed Without Benefit.

I am sixty-six years old. In August, 1892, was troubled with the peculiar skin disease to which people of my age are subject, known among medical men as eczema. Its first appearance was near the ankle. It rapidly extended over the lower extremities until my legs were nearly one raw sore; from legs the trouble extended across the hips, shoulders and the entire length of the arms, the legs and arms greatly swollen with an itching, burning pain, without cessation. Although the best medical advice obtainable was employed, no less than five physicians of the place being consulted and the prescriptions being the result of their combined wisdom, the disease, though apparently checked, would recur in a few days as bad as ever; during its progress my weight fell away about twenty-five pounds. An experiment I began the use of CUTICURA, following the simple and plain instructions given with the CUTICURA, and in four weeks found myself well, with skin smooth, clear, and in color, the itching and pain entirely relieved.
